DOLLAR-POUND PACT NEXT AIM OF ROOSEVELT

Move Expected by Tomorrow.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Negotiations are to be opened with the British government looking toward a modified stabilization of the pound and the dollar, as soon as the Roosevelt gold bill becomes law, probably on next Tuesday.

This was made known to THE TRIBUNE today, along with convincing denials from a high administrative source that any monetary agreements, formal or informal, direct or indirect, have been made with England up to the present time.

The attitude of President Roosevelt, it is learned, is that he first desires to have on his side of the table as many chips in the game of international finance as England has.

Two Billion in "Chips."

That he will have them is evident. When he signs the gold bill he and his secretary of the treasury, Mr. Morgenthau, will set up a two billion dollar equalization fund, and by toying with these will have the force to send American currencies up or down in the money pools of the world. It is a force well matched with the equalization fund of the Bank of England.

But also piled up before the President's side of the table will be other stakes. He will hold America's trade to pitch in for support or pressure. He may throw in a proposal to reopen the war debts problem with England. There is a story that even the Roosevelt battle to put over the St. Lawrence treaty against an unwilling senate is part of the President's program for getting together with the British, but this report is discounted by the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has consistently supported the St. Lawrence waterway since he was governor of New York.

Sees Great Trade Revival.

The purpose of the President in opening negotiations with Great Britain is to reach agreements on mutual problems now badly unsettled. If he is successful the President is said to feel the way will be opened for a great revival of trade between the United States and Britain, in which other nations might well join or be lost in the shuffle.

One of the European states which may well get lost is France, still clinging to the gold standard. If England and the United States achieve the agreement hoped for by President Roosevelt it would mean that England would desert its present sustained parity with the franc, and international monetary experts assert this would only result in forcing France off gold. President Roosevelt is said to have weighed against France that nation's deliberate defaults on the war debts.

Seeks to Stabilize the Dollar.

Mr. Roosevelt desires to stabilize the dollar, in a semi-permanent fashion, between 50 and 60 cents, as compared to its gold value, and it is expected his first move, to be taken in the coming week, will be the devaluation of the dollar to its first pegged point, probably at 60 cents.

At the start it is expected the dealings with England will be quite secret, and until the President feels a definite plan has begun to crystallize he will not permit a public inspection of his transactions.

Mr. Roosevelt must seek other powers from congress, in addition to the dictatorial authority already given him, if he would push home, on his own initiative, the rest of his proposals for an American-British trade entente.

Would Ask Tariff Authority.

On the question of negotiating reciprocal trade exchanges with England the President would require of congress that he be given authority, within certain limits, perhaps, to grant tariff reductions to nations offering similar concessions to the United States.

Settlement of the war debts is a matter upon which England has become insistent on the ground that no permanent settlement of monetary problems between the two countries can be had without including a revision of this debt.

In the case of England the report is that the President considers the wisdom of accepting a lump sum payment, on a greatly reduced principal, in full settlement. The President is said to be weighing the question of whether the public and the congress might not accept a sum in cash which could be used at this time to pay for some of the New Deal measures.

WHEN A FRENCHMAN LOSES MONEY

Nab Congress Aspirant in Bank Robbery

Winslow, Ariz., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Dillworth Sumpter, Socialist candidate for representative in congress from Arizona, opposing Mrs. Isabella Greenway, Democrat, in the state's October special election, confessed today, Police Chief R. L. Neil said, to attempted bank robbery.

The police chief said Sumpter admitted attempting to rob the First National Bank of Winslow during the night.

The unsuccessful congressional candidate was arrested by Night Patrolman James Hickey after a chase of three blocks through Winslow streets. Hickey fired into the air several times, he related, before Sumpter would halt.

The officer, Neil declared, found Sumpter starting a tunnel under the bank in a narrow space between it and another building.

Sumpter, the police chief averred, was equipped with a pick, shovel, drills, explosives, and a supply of water. Chief Neil asserted Sumpter told him he had hoped to be able to tunnel through the floor of the bank before Monday morning.

He was quoted by Neil as explaining he was out of a job and hungry and that "the world owed him a living." Neil said he understood Sumpter, an electrician, had obtained temporary employment recently.

INVENTION MAKES SKIING ALL FUN WITHOUT WORK

Woodstock, Vt., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The fun in skiing is in going down the hill, thought the engineer, so he eliminated the climbing up.

The motor ski tow, said to be the first of its kind in the country, was tried out at the White Cupboard inn skiway today and pronounced a success.

The device consists of an endless rope which runs over a guide pulley at the top of the hill and over a motor at the foot of the incline. It takes skiers up nine hundred feet in one minute.

Fire Damages Ohio Bank Built by M. S. Daugherty

Washington Courthouse, O., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Fire companies from four communities tonight fought a blaze in the First National Bank building, constructed ten years ago by M. S. Daugherty, brother of the attorney general in the Harding administration. Fire fighting teams from Greenfield, Hillsboro, New Holland, and this community poured water on the flames for hours.

SAM AND MISSUS ARE AT HOME, BUT IT'S A MIRACLE

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Altobella were "at home" for the first time yesterday at 820 Laflin street. In view of the incidents which followed their marriage on Saturday this appeared to be somewhat of an attainment.

An hour after the wedding Sam was arrested at Harrison and Laflin streets while selling raffle tickets on a radio to finance his nuptial party that night. Police wanted to be sure there really was a radio, and the address Sam gave them proved to be a vacant store.

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker, known as "Hardboiled Shoes," relented when the bride, Marie, came to the detective bureau in tears. He gave the husband permission to attend his own wedding dinner. But before the couple had a chance to leave the bureau an excited woman telephoned.

"She says you are her husband," Chief Schoemaker announced to the unhappy groom. She says she will bring down two children to prove it." So insistent was Sam in his denials—pointing out he was only 24 years old—that Chief Schoemaker permitted him to attend the wedding party.

Yesterday Sam returned to the detective bureau, as he had promised. No one identified him at the weekly showup. Finally he asked about the woman who claimed him as her husband. "Forget it—she was asking for Sam Geurillo," was the answer. Sam said he would forget it.

A "Bear Back" Rider Goes on a Steak Diet

Bangor, Me., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—From the wilderness beyond Caucomgomac lake comes the story of how John McEachern rode a bear two miles and came back with the bruin's skin and twelve pounds of his hams ready to be sliced into steaks.

Had the story been told of any other man it might not be believed, but as McEachern once fought a moose with a fence rail and followed a wildcat into a barn chamber, where he killed it with a pitchfork, the people up north see nothing surprising in the announcement that he rode the biggest bear ever killed at Caucomgomac.

Has Only Duckshot.

McEachern has a line of traps around the head of the lake, and yesterday he went out to see what he had caught. He took along his gun, and not until he was miles from the camp did he recall that it was loaded only with duckshot—nine to a shell, which would not much more than tickle a bear.

When he came in sight of the first trap he saw a big bear in it and ran to finish the animal, but as he was about to fire another bear, larger than the one in the trap, bounced out of the bushes and made straight for him. McEachern let drive with the duckshot.

Bear Gets Mad.

The trapper learned that a charge of duckshot brings out the worst side of a bear's nature. The brute renewed his charge and McEachern did the only thing he could do—ran for it. The bear followed and showed much the greater speed.

For about ten minutes man and beast played tag among the trees until McEachern tripped on a root and fell. The bear, close up, stumbled and went half down. McEachern lost his footing again as quickly as he had risen and fell across the bear.

The bear was up and away, with snarls of rage. McEachern mechanically held on tight, both hands gripped firmly into the thick fur. When the bear tried to turn his head, McEachern guided him in the straightaway by the stubby ears.

A Merry Ride.

Over ridges and down hollows they went until they came to a deserted "ramdown," the toboggan of the woods. It was a logging road as steep as the roof of a house and down it the bear headed.

McEachern fished out a long hunting knife, opening the blade with his teeth. He plunged it to the hilt into the bear's neck. Another stab and another, and the mad race was over. The trapper stumbled into camp. He ate two pounds of bear steak and smoked his pipe.

MERCURY HITS ZERO, DROPPING 44° IN 12 HOURS

The first severe cold wave of the new year swept into Chicago yesterday in the wake of galelike winds, and within twelve hours tumbled the temperature 44 degrees down to zero. A further drop to perhaps 5 below was predicted this morning, after which it is expected the temperature will rise. It was 3 below at the Chicago airport at 3 a. m.

Coming as swiftly as it did, the cold wave put an emphatic and sudden end to the springlike weather of the last few days. There was a portent of its arrival, however, in lusty winds which blew out of the west and northwest and averaged close to 40 miles an hour.

From 46 to 0.

As the wind increased in velocity the mercury declined until at 6 p. m. zero was officially registered. This was severely cold compared with the temperature at 6 a. m., which was 44 above zero. Three hours before that it was 46 above.

Fires occurred in various parts of the city as people prepared against the sudden cold by overheating furnaces. The most spectacular of these fires occurred last evening, attacking a half block of commission buildings from 846 to 852 West Randolph street, in the Haymarket square district. Damage of $50,000 was done.

After scanning weather charts last night, C. A. Donnel, chief forecaster, expressed the belief that the cold spell would be short lived. It will not dissipate as quickly as it arrived, however. This morning will be cold, with a 5 below minimum, he said. The temperature will moderate this afternoon, but may not get higher than 10 degrees above zero, Mr. Donnel added. A real and steady rise will begin tomorrow, he said.

Cold Wave Widespread.

The cold wave was nothing local, according to Mr. Donnel. It originated in the interior of Alaska and the Canadian northwest, where conditions have been intensely cold throughout January. Daily the weather observers had been expecting the cold to hit this region. That it didn't was due to opposing barometric pressures.

After hitting here the cold wave kept on moving rapidly and by night had covered the Atlantic seaboard and south to northern Louisiana and Texas.

According to Mr. Donnel, the high winds that hit Chicago originated in western Iowa, eastern Minnesota, and part of Missouri and ran across country without hindrance. In some parts of the east the wind was of gale strength, he said. In Chicago the wind churned Lake Michigan into icy white caps and huge waves that battered the shore.

Huge Fountains of Spray.

An unusual feature was noticed. At Oak street beach big waves built up under the pressure of a previous onshore wind were met by the offshore or westerly winds, which broke them up into huge fountains of spray.

The anemometer in the lobby of Tribune Tower registered gusts of 65 miles an hour and the anemograph showed an average sustained velocity of more than 40 miles an hour.

January until yesterday had resembled the Januaries of the previous three years in being above normal in temperature. A week ago yesterday it was 55. Saturday the readings were in the 40s, where they remained until dawn yesterday, when the cold wave started. Thus far January has been 11 degrees above normal each day for a total excess of 302 degrees.

Firemen Work in Ice.

The principal sufferers from the cold were those whose homes or places of business were attacked by fire. And in these cases firemen worked under severe handicaps, many of them—and their apparatus, too—being sheeted with ice as they worked.

The Randolph street blaze gutted four two story buildings which are adjoined. All of them house produce concerns. Where the fire started and how could not be determined, for when first firemen reached the scene the entire unit was in flames. A 2-11 alarm was sounded and was followed by 4-11 and 5-11 calls. In all 228 firemen and forty pieces of apparatus responded, commanded by Marshall Michael Corrigan.

Places of business wiped out were Campione Brothers and Angelagos Brothers at 846 Randolph street; Charles Berlin company and Driss & Wax at 848-50 Randolph street, and Gus Karedes & Co. at 852-54 Randolph street.

Fear for Life of Banker in New Relapse

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, who has been waging a courageous battle against pneumonia for the last two weeks, was in a very grave condition early today following a relapse last night. His change for the worse was deemed so critical that three of his five doctors remained in constant vigil at his bedside all morning.

A weakened heart was blamed by the doctors for this newest crisis, the third that has occurred since last Monday. What the ultimate outcome will be none of the attending physicians would predict. Gathered in the Traylor home at 426 Barry avenue, they all agreed that the banker's condition "was not very good." It was evident from their demeanor that they were genuinely alarmed.

"Back in Danger Zone."

"Mr. Traylor does not look very good," said Dr. William R. Cubbins, spokesman for the attending physicians. "His condition is not very good. He is back in the danger zone and it is impossible to foretell what the next development will be."

At 3 o'clock this morning Mr. Traylor's temperature was 101.8, his pulse 122, and his respiration 30, not significantly different from earlier examinations. The noticeable difference in his condition, however, was in his appearance, or color, which Dr. Cubbins described as "not very good."

Mr. Traylor was kept asleep by the use of sedatives. The doctors explained they wished him to slumber because previously when he has awakened he was inclined to cough. A coughing spell, it was felt, would aggravate his weak heart and system.

Hard to Determine Cause.

According to Dr. Cubbins there was no change in the pneumonic condition of Mr. Traylor; the relapse was purely cardiac, a strain due to exhaustion. The heart weakness, Dr. Cubbins said, may have been caused by a spasm or by a small clot. It was difficult to say just what specific cause was responsible, he added.

The heart relapse occurred at 8:40 p. m. Dr. Cubbins, Dr. Robert B. Preble, Dr. N. Clarke Gilbert, and Dr. Carl Johnson, by speedy use of restoratives temporarily overcame the threatened danger and soon had Mr. Traylor asleep by the use of sedatives. Toward midnight Dr. Joseph A. Capps, heart specialist, who had attended previous consultations, was called in. The five specialists remained at the banker's bedside until 4 o'clock, when Drs. Capps and Cubbins left to get some sleep. At that time it was said Mr. Traylor's color was better and he was asleep under a sedative. It was believed there was a slight improvement.

Taken from Oxygen Tent.

Until this unexpected development in Mr. Traylor's condition occurred he was considered getting along well. Yesterday and Saturday he was taken out of the oxygen tent, which has been used to help him in breathing. His improvement was quite noticeable on Saturday.

Yesterday this improvement continued, and during the afternoon one of the doctors expressed the opinion that "we have the case licked." Then suddenly his heart weakened. Examination revealed that much of the gain Mr. Traylor had made over Saturday had disappeared. His temperature rose to 101.5, his pulse quickened to 126 and his respiration increased to 30.

Two Other Relapses.

Twice before changes in Mr. Traylor's condition had occurred. Last Monday morning the banker suffered what was then considered a sudden and critical relapse. He was then placed under the oxygen tent.

Three days later—last Wednesday morning—Mr. Traylor suffered another and more serious relapse, but again he rallied.

Mr. Traylor was stricken with an influenza two weeks ago. Pneumonia developed and his son, Melvin Traylor Jr., who was on the west coast, flew to Chicago. Mr. Traylor's wife and his daughter, Nancy, have been with him constantly.

4 NUNS DROWN AS CAR CRASHES BRIDGE RAILING

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Four nuns were drowned today when an automobile in which they were returning to Carthage from religious services here crashed through the railing of a bridge seven miles from this place and plunged over a 15 foot embankment into a deep canal. Martin O'Keefe, a railroad engineer, 58, who was driving the car, also was drowned.

The nuns were Sister Gabriel, 55, principal of the Augustinian academy at Carthage; Sisters Angelo and Christina, members of the faculty, and Sister Alphonso, who was in charge of cooking at the academy.

INDIANANS FIRST IN TUCSON FOR DILLINGER GANG

Arizona Seizes Two More Suspects.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Officers from Indiana, among the several midwestern states wanting the Dillinger mob, were the first to arrive here today to begin negotiations for returning the desperadoes. Officers from Ohio and Wisconsin are reported traveling here on the same quest.

While representatives of the law were swarming into the Pima county jail to regard the captured murderers with cold eyes, word was received that Prescott, Ariz., authorities had seized two men, one of them believed to be Joseph Fox, an escaped convict from the Indiana penitentiary and a member of the Dillinger gang.

The Indiana officers expressed their determination to take the mobsters back with them, and added more positive identifications to those already obtained. Gov. B. B. Moeur promised yesterday that the Indianans could have the men.

Name Him O'Malley Killer.

After one look at John Dillinger, gangster chieftain, both Sheriff Carroll Holley of Lake county and Police Chief Nicholas Makar of East Chicago, Ind., said simultaneously: "He's the man who killed Pat O'Malley."

Dillinger growled and nervously paced his cell. A tense nervousness also has gripped the other members of the gang seized here—Harry Pierpont, Russell Clark, and Charles Makley. The women seized with them and also held are Mary Kinder, alias Mrs. Pierpont; Opal Long, alias Bernice Thompson, and Ann Martin, alias Mrs. Dillinger.

Each, except Miss Martin, is held under $100,000 bond as a fugitive. She is under $5,000 bond as a material witness and on a charge of resisting an officer.

Insist on Dillinger's Trial.

The killing of Policeman O'Malley in the robbery of the East Chicago First National bank on Jan. 15 was described by Holley. Lake county, Indiana, authorities are determined to have Dillinger for this crime regardless of what becomes of the others.

"O'Malley stepped in as Dillinger and his pal, John Hamilton, were holding up the bank," Holley said. Hamilton is still a fugitive. "O'Malley got the drop and fired four times at Dillinger. The bullets bounced off Dillinger's bulletproof vest. While O'Malley was still firing at him, Dillinger whirled and shouted 'You asked for it and now you're going to get it.' Then he shot O'Malley dead."

Pierpont raged and cursed when he saw Capt. Matt Leach, chief of the Indiana state police. Until this sudden outburst, Pierpont, nicknamed "Trigger Man Harry," had been quite affable. His display of temper threw the entire cell block into an uproar and Sheriff John Belton had considerable difficulty quieting the prisoners.

Mother's Arrest Recalled.

"I should have killed you when I had the chance, you dirty —— ——," Pierpont shouted at Capt. Leach. "You put my mother in jail at Terre Haute, you ——. If I ever get out of this the first thing I'm going to do is kill you, you rat. You tried to make her tell where I could be found and when you didn't succeed you caused her to be arrested. I'll never forget that and I'll get even with you."

Leach said the gangster's mother was taken into custody by Terre Haute police who sought information regarding her son's whereabouts. He said he had not had her put in jail and even complained about it because it had upset some of his department's well laid plans of investigation.

While conversing with Dillinger, Capt. Leach reached through the bars and asked the leader to shake hands with him. Dillinger did, after some reluctance. The police captain asked him why he was wearing a mustache. Dillinger stroked it tenderly and indicated that it had helped him to evade the law much longer than he might have without it.

He'll Fight Extradition.

"I'll fight extradition to the last ditch," Dillinger said in reply to questions on that point. "I'm in no hurry to return to Indiana; I haven't a thing to do when I get there."

Leach tried to convince him it would be better for him if he were to waive extradition, but the outlaw was adamant. The police head said extradition papers have been sent direct to the governor's office in Phoenix.

Clarence Houston, Pima county attorney, said that extradition may prove slow, since it is expected every obstacle will be thrown in the way. He said extradition likely will be complicated by the claims of other states who want the outlaws.

Conflicting claims of Indiana and Ohio have been ironed out, however.

Leach agreed to let Lima, O., have Pierpont, Clark, and Makley for trial in connection with the slaying there in October of Sheriff Jess Sarber during an attack on a jail which resulted in the release of Dillinger, held on bank robbery charges.

Grover C. Lutter, chief of police of Racine, Wis.; John Brown, Racine district attorney, and Detective George Lyle arrived today to seek extradition of all four on a charge of robbing the American Trust and Savings company of Racine of $37,789.18 last Nov. 20. Lutter said the identifications were "positive" and that extradition papers were en route.

Indiana Wants Them All.

Lake County, Ind., wants Dillinger only, but Capt. Leach said he wanted the others, including the women, for other counties. He said he also had been authorized to act for Ohio authorities. The men are wanted for a prison break last Sept. 26 at Michigan City, Ind., and Miss Kinder and Miss Long are sought as accomplices in the break.

Payment of rewards offered by Indiana was assured before he takes the mob from the state by Capt. Leach.

Reports from Chicago were heard that remnants of Dillinger's gang are headed for the southwest to deliver the desperado and his jailed comrades. Preparations to strengthen the host of guards already employed in watching the men were being made as local officials recalled that Dillinger's men got him out of jail once before, and that those still at large owe their release from the Indiana penitentiary to him.

Identified in Danville.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Three members of the Dillinger gang were identified from photographs today as the men who passed through here Saturday night in an automobile containing a machine gun, sawed-off shotguns, and pistols. It is believed the men may have been on their way to Tucson, Ariz., to attempt to free Dillinger.

The identification was made by Robert Hooper, owner of a filling station at which the men stopped for gasoline. He pointed out photographs of John Hamilton, Joseph Burns, and Joseph Fox, all fugitive outlaws, as the men who were in the car. However, dispatches from Tucson stated a man believed to be Joseph Fox was seized at Prescott, Ariz.

Hooper said the driver of the car was the only one who spoke. While Hooper was filling the tank he looked through the rear window of the car and saw the weapons, he said.

'CANARIES' BRAY, TELL OF SPRING IN THE ROCKIES

Denver, Colo., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Take it from the weather man, the Rocky mountain canaries, the lilacs, the tulips, the strawberries, and Montana's grasshoppers may be wrong.

"It may be spring, and then again it may not be," is the Rocky mountain weather man's reply to questions.

Temperatures have been reaching almost to the seventies in many parts of the Rockies daily. Persons who pose as experts say that when a Rocky mountain canary—none other than the faithful burro—brays in the moonlight it is a sure sign of spring. They have been doing that recently.

Strawberries are ripening in Denver, lilacs have been in bud for weeks, a tulip was reported maturing, and grasshoppers were found in central Montana. It has been spring all winter in New Mexico.

GREIN DRAFTING LAW TO CHECK ON COAL BLENDERS

A draft of an ordinance designed to protect coal consumers in purchasing blended or mixed grades of coal is being prepared by City Sealer Joe Grein with the aid of the Better Business bureau, it was announced yesterday. Suggestions will be presented to Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton for approval and final drafting.

Restrictions on dishonest dealers are necessary, Mr. Grein said, because of the inability, even of experts, to distinguish between grades of coal when a superior brand has been carefully mixed with an inferior quality. He said he had received numerous complaints of cheating by coal blenders.

FRENCH CALL FOR A NEW POINCARE TO LEAD NATION

Lebrun Hunts Premier Public Will Support.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 28.—All France is calling tonight for a new Poincare.

It is clearly realized that the danger to the republic from the corruption revealed by the $80,000,000 Bayonne pawnshop bond swindle is as grave as the danger from the sinking franc in 1926 and that only a man of the caliber of Raymond Poincare can restore the authority of the state. This realization was the outstanding development of a day spent in conferences between President Albert Lebrun and political leaders of all complexions.

The gravity of the crisis was revealed tonight when Lebrun telephoned from the Elysee palace to a modest country estate near Toulouse where former President Gaston Doumergue lives in retirement. Despite Lebrun's entreaties, the one man in whom all France has confidence declined the premiership on the ground that his 71 years makes it impossible for him to head a government in such a critical moment.

Has Problem on Hands.

Had Doumergue accepted he would have furnished an exact historical parallel to Poincare, who, after having served a term as president, came out of comparative retirement at the age of 66 to save his country.

With the real Poincare out of the question because of health, Lebrun has an agonizing problem on his hands. The two outstanding political figures of present day France are former Premier Edouard Herriot and former Premier Edouard Daladier. Both command respect and have clean records. Nevertheless, it is feared political enmities centering around them would disqualify them for the task at hand.

Herriot could undoubtedly command a large parliamentary majority. But he has damaged himself in public opinion by his indiscreet support of the discredited Camille Chautemps government and his failure to take energetic action against crooks in his own party. His stand for payment of French war debts is also against him. Many politicians fear that, if Herriot were called to head the government, rioting would continue.

Hated by Socialists.

Daladier has the confidence of the army and nationalist elements. On the other hand, he has against him the undying hatred of the powerful Socialist faction. His advocacy of direct disarmament negotiations with Chancellor Hitler also has stirred the pro-Semitic elements of the right against him.

In view of the difficulty in finding a man in whom the public has confidence and who can command a stable parliamentary majority at the same time, it is impossible to make predictions regarding the eventual premier. It is known that Lebrun, who has consulted with Herriot, former Premier Andre Tardieu, Leon Blum, the Socialist leader, and others, will formally offer the premiership to Jules Jeanneney, president of the senate. It is a foregone conclusion that Jeanneney will refuse on account of his age and health.

Fernand Bouisson, president of the chamber of deputies, will then be called. It is doubted that he will accept. He is a Socialist and could not get the support of the right for a national government demanded by public opinion.

Beyond that everything is dark.

Meanwhile, virtually the entire press is clamoring for a political truce. It demands a government of new faces composed entirely of men with impeccable public records.

An interparty committee representing the various factions of the majority left in the chamber of deputies meet this afternoon. It was recognized that an enlargement of the majority toward the center is essential. Herriot told the committee that the gravity of the crisis ruled out any of the parliamentary combinations tried in the last 18 months. He also said that the situation made it impossible for his own Radical Socialist party, which ruled France almost single handed in that period to continue to shoulder responsibility alone.

He wound up by calling for a division of power with the widest possible number of groups and suggested sending an ultimatum to the Socialists either to adhere to the new majority or go into the opposition. This is generally considered as sounding the death knell of the left cartel—the union of Socialists and Radicals.

Zero Wave Winds Up Warm January

Diagram showing monthly and daily mean average temperatures for January reveals graphically how yesterday's zero wave winds up unusually warm January. The lower dotted line on graph indicates the average mean temperature for the entire month, while the upper, ragged line shows the day by day averages. On only two days in the month, the 17th and yesterday, when temperatures ranged from 46 degrees to a drop to zero, as indicated by arrow, did the daily mean coincide with the monthly average, showing how Chicagoland enjoyed unseasonable but pleasantly warm weather. Figures at left indicate temperatures; figures at top indicate successive days in month.

ARMED MEN FIRE PLATFORM, BUT O'DUFFY SPEAKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 28.—Early this morning several men armed with rifles arrived at Skibbereen, County Cork, and, using gasoline, attempted to burn the platform from which Gen. Owen Duffy, Blue Shirt leader, was to speak.

Blue Shirts and police guards who rushed to the scene were ordered to put their hands up. The men dashed back to their car, firing five shot, none of which were effective. Police snatched one rifle, but the raiders escaped. The flames were put out before the platform was seriously damaged. Roads around Skibbereen were blocked by trees which had been felled during the night, nevertheless thousands of Blue Shirts attended the meeting.

Gen. O'Duffy declared that whenever he visited West Cork he received a threatening notice in advance. He said he had no fear because he knew the people of Cork estimated his life to be worth those of a hundred opponents, and the people would not permit him to be injured. Sixty mounted Blue Shirts escorted Gen. O'Duffy to the platform.

ELLSWORTH BACK FROM ANTARCTIC; TELLS OF WRECK

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Jan. 28.—(AP)—With her ironwork rusted and her copper sheathing scarred by ice floes, the steamer Wyatt Earp arrived today from Little America with the Lincoln Ellsworth south polar expedition. Referring to the accident which resulted in crippling the expedition Ellsworth said, "The blow fell suddenly."

"In an hour or two," he said, "we would have been in the air and the disaster would have been averted, but in 15 minutes five miles of barrier ice crumpled and we were unable to take off. It was the bitterest moment of my life, coming so near to success and having it snatched from us at the last minute."

The accident Ellsworth referred to crippled the expedition's airplane when a crack in the ice let the undercarriage down and damaged the wings before it could be moved. He left Little America before the arrival of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's flagship, now at the Bay of Whales. Ellsworth said he had not made plans for the future and did not know when he would return to the Antarctic.

Grade Crossing Deaths in 1933 Show Slight Decline

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Reductions in the number of grade crossing accidents and casualties for the first 10 months of 1933 were reported today by the American Railway association. Accidents totaled 2,474 for the period, a reduction of 267 from the corresponding 10 months of 1932; injuries resulting from accidents were 2,758, a decrease of 325, and fatalities were 1,176, a reduction of 25.

CHICAGO TO HOLD ROOSEVELT BIRTH FETE TOMORROW

Many Organizations Will Have Parties.

With a gala celebration Chicago will participate in the nation-wide birthday party tomorrow night in honor of President Roosevelt's fifty-second birthday. Proceeds from the festivities throughout the country will be presented to the President to supplement the endowment fund of the Georgia Warm Springs foundation for infantile paralysis sufferers.

While churches, clubs, societies, and hotels all over Chicago and the suburbs have arranged for special parties, the climax of the birthday observance wil lbe reached in the huge program of music, stage and opera stars and at talk on the Warm Springs foundation at the Auditorium theater tomorrow night.

Paralysis Victim to Sing.

Julian Stripe, 19 year old victim of infantile paralysis, who was rated first prize winner in the men's division of the 1933 Chicagoland Music Festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, will open the program with the selection, "I Love Life." Julian, a cripple since infancy, has been earning his way through college by singing before clubs and civic organizations throughout the state.

Among the other entertainers on the program are Louise Groody, the Duncan sisters, Phil Baker, Joe Cook, Ramon and Rosita, Doris Hurtig, Cee Glade, Oscar Colcaire, and Edna Kellogg of the Chicago Grand Opera company; Ted Weems, Florence and Arthur Lake, Nini Theilade, 18 year old Danish dancer, and Carlos Molina with his band.

Dr. Austin Hayden will speak on infantile paralysis as it is being combatted by the Georgia Warm Springs foundation, where President Roosevelt recovered from this malady many years ago.

President Will Speak.

The President is scheduled to address the entire nation over a radio hookup from Washington at 10:30 p. m.

The American Legion will stage a parade through the loop district tomorrow afternoon. The Girls' Friendly society of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, which claims the wife of the President as its honorary president, will hold a birthday party at the parish house of the Church of the Advent, 2610 North Francisco avenue.

Other organizations rallying to the support of the foundation are the councils of the Knights of Columbus, who will hold six large celebrations at clubs and hotels, and the Elks' lodges, which will have special parties in all of their 1,500 organizations throughout the country. The American, Chicago, and Illinois Federation of Labor have arranged for a huge dancing party at both the Aragon and Trianon ballrooms, with an expected attendance of five to seven thousand Chicagoans.

Germania Club Party.

More than five thousand Chicagoans of German descent will eet at the Germania club, North Clark street and Germania place, tomorrow night to hold birthday festivities. Prominent Chicagoans who will attend include Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen, Oscar F. Mayer, Hilmar F. Ernst, Henry Kraft, Arthur C. Lueder, Edward R. Litsinger, and others.

In connection with the national celebration a special program of drill has been arranged by the 122d Field artillery, to be followed by a "neighborhood party" tomorrow night.

La Grange, Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Oak Park, and Wilmette are among the suburbs which will hold benefit balls in their school and club auditoriums tomorrow night.

Chicago Negroes will join in the celebration with a concert by 600 choristers at 7:30 p. m. in Pilgrim Baptist church, 33d street and Indiana avenue. The Rev. J. C. Austin will speak on "President Roosevelt, the Man of God." A second speaker will be Dr. Curtis W. Reese, dean of Lincoln center. The choruses will be led by Prof. James A. Mundy, Prof. J. Wesley Jones, and Prof. A. C. Myrick. Radio and loud speakers will bring the President's talk to an expected 3,500 persons at the end of the program. There also will be open house at the 8th infantry armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. Speakers will be A. L. Jackson, Joseph Bibb, and Edgar Brown.

Huge Birthday Cakes.

Mammoth birthday cakes, some weighing a ton, will be seen in hotels and stores tomorrow. They ha been donated by leading chefs and baking companies as part of the celebration. Pieces of the President's cakes will be auctioned off during the day and evening.

The Chicago central executive committee for President Roosevelt's birthday party is headed by Carter Harrison, former mayor and now federal collector of internal revenue. Working with him are Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, John H. McMahon, John W. Root, Ernest Byfield, Kellogg Patterson, Andrew Rebori, Laurence Armour, and Roy Hall. Fifty other civic leaders of Chicago and Illinois are on this committee. They include Mayor Kelly, John Alden Carpenter, Gov. Horner, Col. Robert R. McCormik, Col. A. A. Sprague, and Ernest J. Kreutgen.

U. S. ATTY. GENERAL'S SON, HURT BY AUTO, STILL IS IN DANGER

Norwalk, Conn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Almost 24 hours after injury in an automobile accident, Dickinson Cummings, son of United States Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, lay tonight still unconscious in the Norwalk hospital.

Police said Cummings and three other persons visited Pond View inn, on the Boston postroad, last night just before the crash, in which a woman died. The inn proprietor was arrested in a raid today under the state liquor control law, and was released in $500 bail.

Officers asserted that as Cummings, Albert Mishley of Stamford, and Mishley's sisters-in-law departed from the inn, their car left the road, glanced off one tree, struck another, and continued on 326 feet before stopping.

Mrs. Etta Plank Taylor of Stamford was killed. Cummings suffered a fracture of the skull, and all his teeth were knocked out. Mishley, who was driving, and his other sister-in-law, Mrs. Agatha Raphael of Stamford, escaped injury.

MILLION DOLLAR BLAZE DESTROYS SUMMER RESORT

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Nine blocks of Wrightsville beach, island summer resort 12 miles from here, were swept by fire today and 103 buildings destroyed.

The flames, starting from an undetermined cause in the Kitty cottage, a hotel, spread along 2,500 feet of beach front buildings on Lumania avenue, burning them all. The Oceanic hotel, largest structure on the beach, was one of the first buildings to fall. A high wind was blowing.

An official of the Tidewater Power company, which owned the Oceanic and a number of other buildings burned, estimated the loss in excess of $1,000,000.

Most of the buildings burned were summer cottages and were unoccupied. Approximately a dozen were homes of year-round residents.

TOUHY DEFENSE STRATEGY PUTS STATE ON EDGE

Prosecution to Call New Witnesses Today.

State lawyers spent yesterday trying to anticipate defense moves in the trial of Roger Touhy and three members of his gang for the kidnaping of John Factor, now in progress before Judge Michael Feinberg. They suspect that some surprise moves will be taken in the closing days of the trial in which Touhy, Edward McFadden, Albert Kator, and Gustave Schaefer are facing a possible death penalty.

Factor, a wealthy speculator, has identified Touhy, Kator, and Schaefer as three of the men who held him captive twelve days, tortured him, and finally obtained $70,000 ransom to free him. First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley, in charge of the prosecution, has corroborative evidence to offer which may occupy the court session today and tomorrow.

Stewart Skilled Lawyer.

Mr. Crowley has sought to prepare himself for anything Attorney William Scott Stewart, representing the four defendants, may do. Stewart is known as a resourceful lawyer, skilled in all the tricks and fine points of criminal law, and the prosecution was not discounting any of the possibilities of what Stewart's line of defense may be.

In his opening statement Attorney Stewart hinted he would try to place the blame for the kidnaping on the Capone gang, enemies of the Touhy gang, and that he would present evidence to show that the prosecution is a political deal. He hinted that Factor was not kidnaped, but acted as an agent of the Capones. He intimated possibilities of an alibi defense for his clients. He made a bewildering series of statements concerning the innocence of the Touhys.

2 Defendants May Testify.

Attorney Stewart suggested that two of the defendants might take the witness stand and deny participation in the crime—and that two might not. Prosecutors said Stewart's courtroom generalship in the past has been to conceal the defense strategy until the last moment.

In a grueling cross-examination of Factor on Saturday the defense lawyer failed to destroy the effect of Factor's story of torture and terrorism to the jury, according to the prosecutors. He brought out that Factor is under indictment in London for a $7,000,000 stock swindle, the prosecutors saying this in no way weakened Factor's testimony.

The state, however, has been apprehensive since Attorney Stewart suddenly accepted the last four jurors without questioning any of them. Only a lawyer with a certainty of a good defense or a lack of hope would dare make such a move, according to court attachés, and Stewart has shown indications of confidence in the success of his defense.

Mr. Stewart defended Touhy, McFadden, Schaefer, and another defendant, since deceased, Willie Sharkey, in St. Paul, where they were tried for the kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., wealthy brewer. A not guilty verdict was voted by the jury after Hamm's testimony showed some uncertainty as to the identification of the defendants.

No Uncertainty About Factor.

But in the present trial, it was explained yesterday, there was no uncertainty about Factor's identification of three of the four men on trial. He walked down from the witness stand and at different times pointed out Touhy, Kator, and Schaefer as his captors. He recognized their faces and their voices, he said emphatically.

The circumstances of the arrest of Touhy, McFadden, Schaefer, and Sharkey, and the finding of six revolvers, some adhesive tape, cotton, and rope —kidnapers' material—in their car, have been told the jury.

It is expected that an important state's witness today will be W. A. [Buck] Henrichson, former county highway policeman, who knew the Touhy gang well, so well, the state contends, that he became a member of the gang. Factor has said that Henrichson was not one of the kidnapers—at least he did not see him while a captive.

Attorney Stewart was given an opportunity to talk to Henrichson and the former policeman told him he never saw Factor in captivity. He did say, however, he saw the Touhy gangsters at a house in Glenview, where Factor was held for the first 24 hours of his captivity. This house has been identified by Factor and a diagram of the basement was shown the jury during Factor's direct testimony.

Admit Living in House.

Attorney Stewart said yesterday it would not be denied that the Touhys had lived in the Glenview house. He dismissed Henrichson as an unimportant witness however, with the statement that he was a beer truck driver.

The state has another witness, Mrs. Clara Czech, who is expected to tell the jury that she was a cook in the Glenview house during the time Factor was held in the basement. Her son was a guard at the home near Morton Grove where Touhy lived with his wife and family. Mrs. Czech was said to have left the Touhy employment as soon as she learned what was going on. An old suit of McFadden's was said to have been found in the Glenview house after the gangsters were arrested.

A roadhouse keeper named James Wagner and his wife are other witnesses whom the state will call in an effort to link the Touhys to the Factor kidnaping. The state expects to corroborate Factor's testimony and identifications in several ways and then to link McFadden with the crime.

Mr. Stewart has not intimated what witnesses he will call or how many. It was understood the state expects the main defense to rest on an alibi. One opinion hazarded was that the Touhy gangsters may contend that Factor was playing a hoax on the British government, that no ransom was ever asked or paid for his freedom, although the state is prepared to show payment of the money and an attempt to collect more after his release.

This contention, it is said, will give the defense an opportunity to argue that after Touhy, McFadden, and Schaefer were in custody, two other men—believed to be Hugh Baal Banghart and Charles "Ice Wagon" Connors—were almost caught in the acceptance of additional extortion money from Factor.

Gale Whips Up Lake as Zero Wave Strikes City

RANSOM PAYMENT IS DENIED BY MEMBERS OF BREMER FAMILY

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Twin City police today held in check enforcement officers to enable kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer to communicate with his family after investigating a seemingly false report that $200,000 ransom was paid.

The check on police activities was loosened for a time late Saturday night when Hennepin county deputy sheriffs in Minneapolis and a few St. Paul police sped to the outskirts of Minneapolis to investigate the story of two men from Montana. They told a tale of seeing a mud spattered sedan, a large, bulky white sack, and a small coupe, which they believed had picked up the ransom money near a bridge over the Minnesota river.

The Bremer family, still hopeful the abductors of the 37 year old president of the Commercial State bank would communicate with them, insisted the ransom money had not been paid. Hennepin county sheriff's office likewise said its inquiry had not shown any indication that the ransom had passed last night.

WHITE'S FRIENDS AND FOES ELUDE POLICE HUNTERS

No arrests had been made last night in the search by Oak Park and Chicago police for friends and enemies of William [Three Fingered Jack] White, whose apartment at 920 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, had been visited by many persons prior to his murder last Tuesday.

Among those sought are Murray Humphries, fugitive vice, gambling, and labor racket leader, and William [Klondike] O'Donnell, who have been identified as the men who fled from the apartment the night of the killing.

A wake for the slain gangster was held last night in the undertaking parlor at 624 North Western avenue, where his body lay in a $1,000 silver trimmed bronze casket surrounded with flowers. Some 200 persons, mostly curious idlers, but including friends and relatives of White, viewed the body. The funeral will be held at 11 a. m. today and the body will be buried alongside White's gangster friend, George [Red] Barker, in Mount Carmel cemetery.

RICHES A CURSE, DR. HUTTON TELLS HIS OLD PARISH

Happier Family Life a Gift of Depression.

The depression has resulted in a re-establishment of family life. Homes are happier and children of formerly wealthy parents are again beginning to appreciate their fathers and mothers. A new reverence is abroad in America's colleges and universities. A consciousness of divinity is again taking the place of godlessness which was so apparent during the years of prosperity.

These conclusions were offered yesterday by Dr. Norman O. Hutton, pastor of the College church at Wellesley, Mass., to his former parishioners in the 40th anniversery sermon at St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church in Dearborn parkway.

Dr. Hutton advised the congregation to leave their children "moderately poor" if they would preserve the best things in life. He said the addition to their households of servants, gardeners, and chauffers" add to your troubles.

The Security of Wealth.

"You cannot guarantee the security of your children with wealth," he said. "Leave them moderately poor if you would do well by them. Bring them up to appreciate the finer things of life. Let them live simply. These are the best guarantees you can leave them."

Dr. Hutton denounced what he termed "smart professors," who five years ago dismissed with a wave of the hand the thought of God. Such professors, he declared, were turning out merely "educated fools," steeped in a philosophy of pessimism and atheism.

"Out of the depression," Dr. Hutton predicted, "I expect to view a new generation which will prefer the simpler things of life because of their intrinsic value. I am not decrying money. I have had more than my own share of material things. Yet I have also seen what can result from the simpler ways of living."

Urges Endowment Fund.

Speaking of his former parish Dr. Hutton predicted for it a greater future than its past. He urged his flock to create an endowment fund of perhaps $1,000,000 to widen the religious activities of the parish. Giving, he said, is a gift.

Among the wives of prominent parishioners who heard Dr. Huton were Mrs. George Ranney, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Fletcher Durbin, Mrs. Joseph H. King, Mrs. M. Paul Noyes, Mrs. Harold Eldridge, and Mrs. George B. Foster.

Hackett, Kidnaping Trial Witness, Leaves for Miami

James J. Hackett, the twice kidnaped Blue Island gambler whose testimony resulted in the conviction of Gail Swolley and Frank B. Souder on a kidnaping charge, left yesterday for a vacation in Miami, Fla. In the family automobile with Hackett were his wife, his son George, his daughter Dorothy, and their chauffeur, Herbert Sorgenfrie. They expect to be absent from Chicago for two months. The state's attorney's detectives who have been guarding Hackett since the arrest of the kidnapers returned to regular duty yesterday.

WAITERS PUT STRIKE UP TO NEW YORK'S NRA LABOR BOARD

New York, Jan. 28.—[Special.]—The general strike of the Amalgamated Hotel and Restaurant Workers' union in New York's major hotels was put up to the NRA regional labor board in a statement by B. J. Fields, secretary of the union.

"Mrs. Eleanor M. Herrick, chairman of the board," Mr. Field asserted, "asked me at the beginning if the union would confer. We said we would. She assured me she was making every possible effort to bring the employers to a conference. We have received no further word."

Mrs. Herrick, reached by telephone tonight said, "I will take Mr. Field's statement under consideration and the board will take whatever action is necessary."

The union tried today to extend the strike. Ben Gitlow, ex-communist leader, warned that reds sought to capture the union.

HINDENBURG WILL RETURN BRITISH TROOPS' DRUMS

(Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.)

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton will go to Berlin tomorrow to receive from President von Hindenburg the drums of the 2d battalion of the Gordon Highlanders, which have been in Berlin since the armistice.

Sir Ian, commander of the Highlanders, told the story of the drums at tonight's annual dinner of the Fleet street branch of the British Legion.

"There is nothing in this of politics or propaganda, merely a gallant gesture by a very old soldier of world-wide reputation to another old soldier who is very small fry, indeed," he said.

Ordered to make rapid forward marches, the battalion stored its drums in the Ostend police station and took only its pipes after landing at the port in the fall of 1914. It never returned there, and the Germans entered soon afterward.

PRIVATE CHARITY TO SURRENDER TO STATE: MEDALIE

George Z. Medalie, former United States district attorney of the southern district of New York, last night addressed members of the Chicago Jewish Charities at the 34th annual meeting at the Standard club.

Mr. Medalie stressed the important part Jews have played in charities during the depression and urged them to carry on.

"Private philanthropy," Mr. Medalie declared, "will eventually surrender to efficient state operation. Recent economic changes have forced this, but we still cannot overlook the values of privately conducted charities. Your efforts must be commended.

"The accomplishment of a mission of mercy is only possible by the united efforts of a whole community in which the individual realizes his obligation and sense of usefulness."

DR. WYNEKOOP TOO ILL TO BE MOVED FROM BED IN JAIL

Report New Ailments; Hearing Today.

As defense attorneys for Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop announced yesterday that they would not seek her release on bail the elderly doctor's physical condition was said to be so critical that she probably will be unable to appear in court today. Her case, in which she is charged with the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, is scheduled to come before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court for reassignment.

When the Wynekoop trial was halted before Judge Joseph B. David a week ago last Friday it was announced that a heart ailment, high blood pressure, and hardening of the arteries might cause her death if she were compelled to continue court appearances. Last Monday Judge David officially declared a mistrial.

Attorney Smith Ailing.

Since then Attorney W. W. Smith, chief of defense counsel, also has been ill and has been resting in Milwaukee, according to his associate, Attorney Frank J. Tyrrell. Previously it had been the plan of the defense counsel to ask bail for Dr. Wynekoop today on the theory her health would never improve in the county jail.

Yesterday Attorney Tyrrell consulted with Dr. Francis W. McNamara, chief jail physician, and later announced that Dr. Wynekoop has developed a lung infection and is suffering from tuberculosis as well as from other diseases.

"Her condition is too critical to permit her to be moved," Attorney Tyrrell stated. "Her pulse remains rapid, varying between 94 and 96, and temperature was 98.6, a drop from 99.2 during the night. I am certain she will not be well enough to stand the strain of going to court in a wheel chair in the morning, and I am certain Judge Finnegan will not require her presence as long as only a routine matter of assigning the case is before him."

Dr. Wynekoop was reported to be in bed and resting easily early last night, after partaking sparingly of fruit salad, crackers and coffee for dinner.

Possibility of Jail Trial.

If Dr. Wynekoop's condition becomes more critical court may be held at her bedside in the county jail, and to save her life a court might permit her freedom on bail, it was said.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty, in charge of the prosecution, said yesterday that, as a matter of course, he would oppose any motion for bail.

SCHOLARS APPROVE TRIBUNE MOVE FOR SIMPLER SPELLING

Prof. Paul Shorey, noted classicist and head of the department of Greek at the University of Chicago from 1896 until his retirement in 1932, yesterday expressed approval of THE TRIBUNE'S list of 24 words to be spelled more simply.

"While my feeling has been one of opposition to such changes," Prof. Shorey said, "I have become reconciled lately. I believe in going very slowly in such matters, being a conservative and a classicist, and your list of this morning seems to be a reasonable one."

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university declared the movement should be encouraged and be carried further.

"Our present complicated spelling should be altered continually," argued President Scott, "so that true simplicity may be promoted.

DUNHAM AWAITS TERMS OF CWA PEACE OVERTURE

Hopkins' Representative Is Expected Today.

Peace overtures in the stormy civil works administration situation in Illinois are expected to come today. Howard O. Hunter, CWA field representative in six states, including Illinois, will return to the city for the purpose of settling the difficulties which led to the resignation Friday of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission as CWA administrators for the state.

The resignations have not been accepted by Harry L. Hopkins, national federal relief and CWA head, who indicated Saturday he would try to persuade Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the relief commission, to return to the post. Hopkins precipitated Dunham's resignation by appointing Lieut. Col. Daniel I. Sultan, United States army engineer, as CWA administrator for Cook county. The action was interpreted by members of the commission as a reflection on their administration.

Awaits Call from Hopkins.

Hopkins said he would not accept the resignation of Mr. Dunham and members of the commission until he had talked with Mr. Dunham by long distance telephone. Mr. Dunham was in his home at 1500 Lake Shore drive yesterday awaiting the call. When the call was not made, Mr. Dunham said he believed the federal administrator had decided to make his overtures through Hunter.

Hunter, who was in Indianapolis, was reported to have conferred by telephone with Hopkins in Washington. Hunter left for Indianapolis Friday night after his offer of the Illinois post of administrator to Frank D. Chase, CWA director under the commission, and to its state engineering advisory committee, headed by Prof. W. C. Huntington of the University of Illinois, had been rejected.

Mr. Dunham refused to comment on Washington rumors that his resignation was also a protest against alleged concentration of investigators here by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes as a political move to discredit the administration of Mayor Edward J. Kelly. Nor would he say upon what terms he would continue to hold the post.

Col. Sultan to Return.

Col. Sultan is also to return to the city to take up his duties. He will take charge of projects involving millions of dollars and employing more than 100,000 men. He went to St. Louis Saturday to confer with his superior in the regional office of the United States engineering department before assuming his new job.

Pending the outcome of the anticipated negotiations or the appointment of a new administrator for the state, the relief commission will continue to act as the state CWA head. The commission has promised to act until a successor is named.

Whether the commission will continue to lend the elaborate machinery it built up for state relief to the CWA, in the event the resignations are accepted, is not known. Members of the commission have hinted they might withdraw the 1,200 county representatives, whose resignations were sent to Washington along with those of the commission.

Without the organization the CWA administrator of the state would be seriously crippled. This is another problem before Hunter, who has said he hopes to retain this staff even though his attempts to conciliate the commission fail.

WORK OUT PLAN TO GET JUDGES FOR CRIME DRIVE

Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Superior court said yesterday that he probably would ask President Emmett Wheelan and Commissioner Maurice F. Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee of the county board, for funds to hire downstate judges to hear Cook county civil cases so that he could make additional asignments to the Criminal court to further the drive against crime. Judge Sullivan will consult Judge James J. Sullivan, the other member of the Superior court executive committee, on a program to meet the situation.

This action follows the plea last week of Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court for more judges to insure speedy trials of criminal cases. On Saturday State's Attorney Courtney and Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, indorsed Judge Finnegan's plea.

Judge Dennis J. Normoyle, chief justice of the Circuit court, said yesterday that the assignment of Judge Daniel P. Trude to criminal cases satisfied Judge Finnegan's request for one more judge.

Druggist Held in Sale of Liquor to a Minor

Eli Leitsig, a druggist at 3846 Broadway, was charged yesterday with selling intoxicants to a minor. He was arrested by Town Hall police after they had found a 17 year old boy drunk at Broadway and Grace street and learned he had purchased liquor from Leitsig. The druggist was released in bond of $100.

SMALL CONCERNS CHARGE NRA IS UNFAIR TO THEM

New Complaints Pour Into Office Here.

Further complaints in the revolt of small business concerns against alleged domination of the NRA by big business interests were disclosed yesterday by Frederic L. Roberts, head of the Chicago NRA office. The objectors here assert that they are being driven to the wall because code provisions are discriminatory.

In letters to local authorities complainants declare that codes framed by big business combines and accepted by Gen. Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator, deprive them of their rights of competition. Washington dispatches, following the nation-wide storm of protest from small business interests, indicate that the administration will try to meet the problems cited in the complaints.

Small Manufacturer's Complaint.

A typical complaint, according to Mr. Roberts, comes from a small auto battery manufacturer, whose name is withheld. The manufacturer said most of his business was composed of sales on consignment. Such sales, he said, were outlawed in the industry code by large manufacturers, who seized upon the code as an excuse to end this practice, because it is often costly for them. The complainant asserted that he was personally acquainted with his dealers and so was protected against loss. This manufacturer says he will have to close his plant unless he is allowed to continue consignment sales.

A textile retailer voices a protest that is frequently heard from retailers. He says he has been forced to drop 17 employés and injure his business because he could not meet the minimum wage scale and hours. If he is given relief he will employ more help regularly and not vary the size of his staff to meet conditions as they arise.

Fears Shutdown of Plant.

A third complainant says he will be forced to shut down his metal products establishment unless he be allowed to come under a more favorable code. He manufactures articles which often are sold to business concerns for free distribution as advertising specialties and also sells the articles to retailers.

He is operating under the advertising specialties code, which sets the maximum hours of his employés at 40 hours a week, as against 44 in the metal products code. He says it is impossible for him to make a division of employés, so as to come under both codes.

A somewhat similar complaint is made by an owner of a waste material business who is operating under the cotton textile code. He says that his business is not of a sufficient volume to permit him to meet competition of larger concerns and that he will close his doors, putting 24 employés out of work, unless he is allowed to operate under a rag picking code.

Bakers Make Complaints.

A number of complaints have been received from small bakers. The industry has not completed its code and is still operating under the President's reemployment agreement. They maintain they are being forced out of business because they cannot meet increased wages and shorter hours as can large bakeries.

Hundreds of other small manufacturers repeat the same story. They declare that the minimum wage and maximum hours have made such an increase in the cost of help that they cannot distribute their products at the prevailing prices. They ask for an adjustment so that they may meet the prices of the larger concerns.

NEW DEAL SLEUTHS SO NUMEROUS HERE THEY NEED OWN CODE

The New Deal has brought a number of investigators to Chicago, it was learned yesterday. There are now 52 government men pursuing various paths of investigation relative to conflicting codes and regulations under the initialed banners of the various recovery bureaus.

So far the work of these investigators has produced one indictment and the delivery of a rebuke to the owner of a suburban filling station. More than a dozen agents were employed in reaching these objectives.

The conflict in jurisdictions of the various bureaus has resulted in confusion among the investigators and their superiors. This is evidenced by the experience of two men from the bureau of investigation of the department of justice last week.

The agents received an assignment to make a thorough investigation of the milk situation here and began operations on Wednesday. Soon they discovered three men acting suspiciously, every where they went.

The agents arrested the men and brought them before a federal official. There the men identified themselves as investigators for the AAA working on a similar assignment. The agents were sent on their way with these words from the official, "You fellows ought to wear ribbons to identify yourselves."

BUSINESS HEADS PLANNING UNITED SUPPORT OF FAIR

Plans to continue to "Keep Chicago Ahead," based on the opportunities offered by the 1934 World's Fair, will be made by business leaders and merchants tomorrow at the annual meeting of the State Street council in the Empire room at the Palmer House.

The progress of the coming exhibition will be traced by Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress for 1934. Mayor Kelly will speak on "Chicago in 1834" and Gov. Horner's address will be titled "Illinois—Chicago—State Street."

"With the experience that has been gained from the 1933 Fair," said Walter L. Gregory, president of the council, "business and civic leaders of Chicago have seen the necessity of all interests merging their efforts to make the coming Fair an even greater success than in 1933.

"It is recognized that the 1934 Fair offers an opportunity that is Chicago's alone, both for better business at home and for added prestige for the city everywhere. We welcome an early beginning in our determination to make the Fair a wonderful success."

Officials of transportation lines, banks, public utility companies, hotels, civic organizations, the press, and the radio were invited to meet with State street leaders for the occasion.

EJECTION MEANS DEATH TO INSULL, GREECE WARNED

Doctors Appeal for Extension of Stay.

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Jan. 28.—Fighting against Samuel Insull's expulsion from Greece on the grounds that his serious heart illness makes travel dangerous, two of the fugitive Chicago utility promoter's physicians today struck another blow in behalf of their patient.

The doctors—Basil Voylas, head of Athens' largest hospital, and Constantine Marcoulis, a heart specialist—signed and forwarded to the ministry of the interior a formal appeal for an extension of Insull's permit to stay in Greece. The petition will be laid before John Moundjourides, minister of the interior, tomorrow morning.

Warn Greece of Consequences.

The plea, it was learned tonight, is a long document in which the doctors warn the government that it will send the 74 year old man to his death if they force him to leave Wednesday, when his residence permit expires.

Preparing for action on this petition, Moundjourides tonight named two doctors to make an official examination for the government of Insull's physical condition and decide whether he will be able to travel.

Additional Stay Indicated.

The fact that the appeal will be considered only 48 hours before Insull is due to go, linked with the absence of baggage being moved from his sumptuous flat today, indicated that Insull will be granted an additional stay.

His doctors' petition insists that the sequence of shocks in court during the attempt to extradite Insull to face charges of fraud in Chicago proved too great, and his heart is nearly gone. It warns the government against exposing this guest of Greece to further excitement.

POWELL, BARRED BY MANCHUKUO, REACHES JAPAN

KOBE, Japan, Jan. 28.—(AP)—John Powell, Shanghai correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who was denied entry into Manchukuo at Dairen, arrived here today after the newspaper Nichi Nichi had reported that he also had been refused permission to land at Moji, Japan.

Officials here said they had no knowledge of any attempt to prevent Powell from leaving his steamer at Moji.

The Manchukuo government, it was reported, instructed authorities at Dairen to refuse Powell a visa on the ground that the China Weekly Review of Shanghai, of which Powell is the publisher, is spreading anti-Manchukuo propaganda.

CITIZENS OF U. S. OWE $314 EACH AS PUBLIC DEBT

With 194,630 Agencies Busy Spending.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Each American citizen, through the thousands of local, state and national government agencies he has set up to manage his public affairs, has run himself into debt to the tune of $314.22.

Government debts in the United States had reached the staggering total of more than 39 billion dollars by the end of 1932, the bureau of the census announced today at the close of its regular ten year survey of public indebtedness.

Since that time the debts each citizen is carrying through the various spending agencies have advanced still further, the bureau points out. The federal government's debt alone has mounted another six billions.

Even by the end of 1932 the indebtedness of each person in the country as a result of government spending was $314, and the interest charges on this huge debt burden were requiring cash at the rate of $12.58 a year from every man, woman, and child in the country.

The bureau found that 194,630 of local, state, and national government spending agencies were dipping into the taxpayer's pocket. Cities, counties, states, villages, townships, school districts, boroughs and the federal government itself were plunging heavily into debt, leaving the bills for future generations to pay.

High Cost of Wars.

Deepest in debt of all was the federal government. Past wars and recovery expenditures had left it in 1932 with a debt of more than 19½ billion dollars. Since that time the federal debt has bounded up to 25 billions.

States, cities, counties, boroughs, villages, school districts and a miscellaneous array of authorities combined had contracted debts aggregating another 19 billion 685 million dollars.

Of these spenders, the cities and villages were far out in front, accounting for more than half of all the public indebtedness exclusive of that contracted by the federal government. Next come the states, then the counties and then the school districts.

Rapid Rate of Growth.

The combined debts of all government agencies have outstripped those of the post-war era on a per capita basis and have multiplied six times over since 1912-'13, the report shows. The per capita indebtedness, which was $314 in 1932, was $294 in 1922-'23 and $57 in 1912-'13. Tracing the growth of the debts, the bureau reported:

"The gross debt reported for 1932 represents all of the public indebtedness of every character of states, counties, cities and all other subdivisions with power to in incur debt and amounted to $19,684,577,000, or an average of $158.10 for each person. In 1922 the total gross debt of states, counties and all other subdivisions amounted to $10,255,458,000, or an average of $94.32 for each person. In 1912 the corresponding gross debt amounted to $4,379,079,000, or an average of $45.11 for each person.

Federal Debt Rising.

"The gross debt for the federal government on June 30, 1932, amounted to $19,487,010,000, or an average of $156.12 for each person; on June 30, 1923, it amounted to $22,349,688,000, or an average of $200.10 for each person; in 1913 it amounted to $1,193,048,000, or an average of $12.26 per person.

"The annual interest on the total gross debt outstanding on June 30, 1932, including that of the federal government, computed at the rate of 4 per cent, would amount to $1,566,863,480, or $12.58 per capita."

A table showing the classification of debts by spending agencies follows:

Division of government—	Total.
States	$ 2,805,845,000
Counties	2,423,306,000
Cities, towns, villages and boroughs	10,088,352,000
School districts	2,172,375,000
Townships	353,306,000
Other civil divisions	1,751,393,000
Total	$19,684,577,000
Federal government	19,487,010,000
Grand total	$39,171,587,000

KILLED BY GAS

MRS. LUCILLE GREEN.

Mrs. Lucille Green, 34 years old, was found dead yesterday in the gas filled kitchen of her home at 919 South Mansfield avenue after relatives went there to learn why she did not appear at her father's home to celebrate the tenth birthday of her son, Harvey. Her husband, Charles G. Geen, an electrical engineer, was found unconscious from gas in a bedroom but was revived by Fillmore street police.

According to police, the couple had attended a party Saturday night and sent their son to the home of his grandfather, Rosario Aierno, 704 South Racine avenue to spend the night. When the boy's parents failed to appear for his birthday party, Tierno went to the Green home but was unable to get in. He notified police who broke open the door.

The tragedy was caused when a coffee pot boiled over and extinguished the gas flame.

REPORT ATTEMPT TO EXTORT $1,500 FROM AB WALKER

Greensboro, N. C., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Sheriff Joe S. Shipps tonight revealed that officers are investigating an attempt to extort $1,500 from Ab Walker of Winston-Salem, who was indicted with Libby Holman for murder of her husband, Smith Reynolds.

Walker was disclosed to have received a note demanding that he place $1,500 near a Southern railway coal chute at Pomona, a suburb of Greensboro.

Federal officers and deputies from Sheriff Phipps' office watched the place for several days, but nothing developed.

After Smith Reynolds was found shot to death in July, 1932, Walker and Libby Holman, Broadway blues singer and Reynolds' bride of a few months, were indicted for murder. The charges later were nol-prossed.

AUTO VICTIM IDENTIFIED.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—The man struck and killed last night on the Evansville-Henderson bridge road has been identified as John Kinney, Evansville, age, 65. He was struck by a car driven by Carroll B. Baker.

RESOLUTIONS OF MINERS TO ASK MOONEY PARDON

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Freedom for Thomas Mooney and Warren Billings, and for the nine Negroes involved in the Scottsboro, Ala., case, is demanded in numerous resolutions awaiting consideration by the United Mine Workers' convention, which resumes its sessions here tomorrow.

A resolution submitted by a Creighton, Pa., local union is typical. It reads: "The bosses, court, and governor of California are still holding Tom Mooney and Warren Billings in jail in spite of their proven innocence for almost seventeen years. . . . The nine Scottsboro boys have been proven innocent beyond any doubt, and yet two of them are sentenced to death and others facing death. . . ."

The resolution asks the convention to demand the immediate release of Mooney, Billings, and "the Scottsboro boys."

Inasmuch as so many resolutions have been submitted on this subject, the resolutions committee probably will offer a substitute to the convention.

MALNOURISHED CHILDREN IN U. S. TOTAL 6,000,000

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The number of malnourished children in the United States was placed today at upward of 6,000,000 by Secretary Frances Perkins of the labor department in an address to the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies.

"The percentage of malnutrition among boys and girls of school age," she said, "has increased from 13.5 in 1927 to 21.1 in 1932, as shown by the examination of more than 300,000 children each year.

"This decline in the health of children is of serious concern to every one. Missing one or two square meals does not show immediately in the health of any child, but, occurring over a period of years, this continuous shortage of food and of insecurity will result in some of our brothers, because of the hardships they have undergone, lagging far behind and requiring help when the prosperity to which we look forward arrives."

CUBAN RAILMEN DEFY PRESIDENT; 5,000 ON STRIKE

Sugar Workers, Too, Ask Pay Raises.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 28.—Defying President Carlos Mendieta's decree prohibiting strikes for 90 days, 5,000 workers of the National Railway brotherhoods walked out today. Transportation was crippled from the city of Santa Clara east to Santiago.

Railmen on private roads which serve sugar mills in the eastern half of Santa Clara province and Camaguey and Oriente provinces struck in sympathy with the brotherhood. Complete paralysis of sugar making activities is feared. Sixteen mills already had started grinding the 1934 output. It was also feared the strike might spread to the membership of the National Federation of Labor and the National Labor confederation, which is affiliated with the communist party.

The rail strikers demand a 32 per cent increase in wages. Officials declare the economic position of the company is such that they are unable to advance wages.

Cutters Want 40 Per Cent Raise.

The department of interior received many telegrams from the strike affected districts reporting the situation at mills and cane plantations as extremely serious. Workers at the Merceditas mill in Havana province have notified the interior department they will strike tomorrow unless soldiers are withdrawn from the mill. At the Preston mill in Oriente province workers struck today until some of their colleagues who had been taken prisoners were freed.

Cane cutters at Nueva Paz in Matanzas province demand a 40 per cent wage increase and application of an 8 hour labor law. They refuse to cut cane until their demands are met. Workers at the Florida mill in Camaguey have threatened to strike because of the company's refusal to repair the mill for the grinding season. Strikers at the Dolores mill in Matanzas set fire to five cane plantations late tonight, destroying several million pounds of cane.

Col. Fulgencio Batista, head of the Cuban army, announced a war to the finish against communists and leftists under former Secretary of Interior Antonio Guiteras, whom he charged is directing a nation-wide conspiracy to sabotage the Mendieta government through strikes.

Approve New Statutes.

President Mendieta, at a cabinet meeting tonight, approved the new government's legal statutes drafted by Secretary of State Cosme de la Torriente as a temporary constitution until a constitutional assembly is convoked May 20 to draft a permanent constitution. The statutes offer foreigners additional facilities to become Cubans, establish compulsory suffrage for Cuban men and women over 21, assure freedom of the press and prohibit censorship in any form.

The senate and house are replaced with a state council of 75 men, 40 representing political parties and revolutionary organizations, 35 industrial, business, press, banking, argicultural, taxpaying and other national interests. The president's powers are curtailed. National elections under the new constitution would be held in November, 1935, with the winners to be installed May 20, 1936.

BRAZIL BOUND OVER ATLANTIC

Four Italian airmen in a land plane were reported to be nearing Natal, Brazil, late last night on a flight which began at Rome. The flyers previously had reported passing Fernando de Noronha islands off the Brazilian coast.. They are blazing a new air mail route over the South Atlantic. Line on map shows route of flyers, who halted at Casablanca, Morocco, and Dakar, French West Africa.

ADMITS SLAYING HANDBOOK MAN DURING HOLDUP

Marvin Mart, 22 years old, who was seized Saturday night and charged with the murder nearly a year ago of John Merck, a handbook operator, yesterday confessed the crime to Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad at the detective bureau. Mart said that he shot the victim, who was deaf, when he failed to obey the command to "stick 'em up" in an attempted robbery of Merck's office in the Mallers building, 5 South Wabash avenue. The slayer, living at 1117 North Dearborn street, was arrested as he was about to call on a girl at 5220 Kenmore avenue. Leon Tuttle, Theodore Gold, and Harold Dobkins are scheduled to go to trial Jan. 30 for participation in t'e murder.

Exonerate Policeman Who Kills Youth Selling Liquor

Roanoke Rapids, N. C., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Collins Fitts, city patrolman, was exonerated today by a coroner's jury of blame for the fatal shooting of Eugene Ellis, 21 years old, slain when the officer attempted to arrest him for selling whisky.

Brazil's Consular Staff Must Ask Permission to Wed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A government decree prohibiting consular employés in the Brazilian foreign service from marrying without permission, and forbidding them to marry foreigners, was issued today by the foreign office.

STARTS FOR HELP AS CAR FREEZES; KILLED BY AUTO

Michael Gain, 52 years old, 4913 24th place, Cicero, was struck and killed last night by an automobile as he was walking away from his frozen car on route 5 near Bloomingdale, in Du Page county. With his sons, Michael Jr., 17 years old, and John, 11 years old, Gain was about to seek help in getting his car started when he was run down.

John Kelahan of Elgin, the driver of the other car, told police he was blinded by approaching headlights and did not see the three figures in front of him. He was instructed to appear at the inquest today.

In another accident blamed on the cold Mrs. Mary Razac, 87 years old, 1332 West 18th place, was seriously injured last night in the alley at the rear of her home. She was struck by a car with a windshield clouded by steam from a frozen radiator. The driver, Martin Jagust, 32 years old, 1328 West 18th place, was released when he explained he had been unable to see clearly because of the steam.

There was comparatively little traffic after noon yesterday because of the cold weather and there were no motor deaths in Cook county. The automobile toll for 1934 remained at 104.

QUAKE SHAKES CENTRAL MEXICO; MANY INJURED

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A strong earthquake which shook the entire south central region of Mexico shortly after 1 p. m. today caused injuries to numerous persons and heavy property damage in Acapulco, on the Pacific coast. Other towns in the state of Guerrero reported damage. Nearly every building in Acapulco was damaged by the tremors, which lasted two minutes.

Seismographs in the national observatory at the capital were broken by the shocks, which began at 1:10 p. m. The observatory estimated the center of the quake at the town of Tecuanapa, in the state of Guerrero.

Dispatches received before the quake from villages in various sections of the central region reported mysterious lights in the sky the last two nights and a meteor last night.

ITALIAN AIRMEN NEAR BRAZIL ON ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Radio Message Reports Them "Flying Well."

BULLETIN.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Jan. 29 (Monday). — (AP) — The possibility that Francia Lombardi and three other Italian flyers were far off their course from West Africa to Natal was being investigated here early today. Reports from Fortaleza that a plane had been heard in the vicinity at 12:10 a. m. strengthened this impression. Fortaleza is the capital of the state of Ceara, situated 300 miles north of Natal.

NATAL, Brazil, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Four Italian flyers blazing a new south Atlantic air mail route in a land plane were nearing Natal tonight from Dakar, French West Africa, after nearly eighteen hours of flying.

A radio message received at 1:15 p. m. [central standard time] reported them "flying well," but did not specify their position. They had previously reported passing the Fernando de Noronha islands, off the Brazilian coast.

After only two hours of rest at Dakar, their second stop in a flight from Rome to Brazil, they hopped off at 9 a. m. [C. S. T.]. Dakar is approximately 1,650 miles from Natal.

Francia Lombardi, one of Italy's leading reserve pilots, is in command of the ship, with Count Franco Mazotti as second pilot. The ship carries a wireless operator and mechanic.

Under favorable flying conditions, and seeking to show that a land plane is better and faster than the same type of seaplane over a similar route, the flyers kept a pace estimated at approximately 125 miles an hour.

A little more than eight hours out of Dakar wireless advices brought word the flyers had passed over the German steamer Westphalen, anchored in mid-ocean. In communication with the ship they reported normal gasoline consumption and favorable conditions generally.

At Dakar there was no time for anything except refueling and a brief rest. The plane and the four men were in excellent condition and reported no unusual conditions on the flight from Casablanca, Morocco, their first stop out of Rome.

When the tanks were filled the men ate, smoked and chatted with a welcoming group, including some Italians. Then they took off on the trans-Atlantic flight.

Dakar is a short distance north of Bathurst, Gambia, the takeoff point chosen by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh for their trans-Atlantic hop last month. The Lindberghs flew 1,875 miles in 16 hours and 10 minutes.

REV. FATHER COUGHLIN HAILS SENATE'S VOTE PASSING MONEY BILL

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin said today the passage by the senate of President Roosevelt's monetary bill made Saturday "the doomsday" of an era and "the birthday" of financial independence for the American people.

"Now," he said, "our most important public utility is no longer owned by a small group but by the American people." He outlined the following four fold program, he called vital if present gains are to be perpetuated:

1. "Purging" of the banking system.
2. Continuation of the CWA and the PWA.
3. "Mature and complete development" of the national recovery act.
4. Remonetization of silver.

In connection with his address he mentioned the national celebration next Tuesday of the birthday of President Roosevelt. He called Roosevelt "the captain bringing the ship of state safely into the harbor of prosperity."

ICE AVALANCHE AGAIN MENACES BYRD'S FLAGSHIP

S. S. JACOB RUPPERT, BAY OF WHALES, Antarctica, Jan. 28.—[By Mackay radio.]—The flagship of the second Byrd antarctic expedition early today was once again driven from her berth alongside the crumbling ice front of the Bay of Whales while unloading was in full swing. Masses of ice as long as two city blocks crumbled and surged outward. Only energetic action saved the ship and the men from serious accident.

The ship is reconnoitering to attempt a mooring near her original berth.

SHIP BUFFETED BY TIDAL WAVE; 27 ARE INJURED

ST. JOHN, N. B., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Born in a submarine earthquake in the Atlantic, according to veteran mariners, three mountainous tidal waves descended in successive blows upon the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of York, six days out from Greenock, last Tuesday, smashing gear and injuring 25 of the crew and three passengers. The liner arrived here today.

The waves came on the heels of a hurricane that had prompted the officers to order passengers to their staterooms. The walls of water washed over the bridge and buffeted the crew and passengers.

Immediate demand was made on the services of the liner's surgeon, Dr. S. Morton. While treating a seaman for broken ribs, the surgeon himself suffered a fractured arm, but kept on working, after emergency treatment until the 27 other injured were cared for. One seaman was left in a Halifax hospital when the liner touched here and another is being treated aboard ship. It is possible that his skull is fractured.

THREE ARRESTED AFTER TACKLER CATCHES BANDIT

George Marlevich, 19 years old, 119 West Chestnut street, who was captured by a flying tackle when he tried to hold up a cleaning shop at 541 Rush street Saturday night, was being held with a man and a girl companion for a showup at the detective bureau last night. The other prisoners, Charles Clayton, 20 years old, and Marian DuCharm, 18 years old, were seized in Marlevich's rooms after his arrest. All came from Detroit recently. M. E. Bryce, the owner of the cleaning shop, dived over the counter and brought the robber to the floor with a football tackle. Two pedestrians then ran in and helped him hold Marlevich until police came.

Pastor Making Sick Call Killed as Auto Crashes

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—While making a sick call near Kewanee, Miss., the Rev. T. K. Moore, Baptist minister of York, Ala., was killed last night when his auto upset on striking an unlighted wagon. A widow and nine children survive.

24,420 FINISH SCHOOL COURSES IN COMING WEEK

More to Be Graduated than Last Year.

Diplomas will be awarded to 24,420 Chicago school children next Thursday and Friday, when midyear graduation exercises are held in the public schools following the close of the first semester. This is a slight increase over the number of graduates last year, when 24,398 children won "sheepskins."

There is a marked increase in the number of eighth grade graduates this year, when 16,268 will finish the elementary course as compared to 10,171 last year. This was the result of the junior high school being abolished as an economy move last summer and the seventh and eighth grade students being sent back to the elementary schools.

The students graduating from each division of the school system are as follows: The four year high school courses, 6,512; two year vocational high school courses, 1,029; three year vocational high school courses, 108; pre-vocational courses, 296; elementary courses, 16,268; standard evening high school courses, 158, and the Chicago Normal college, 49. The quota of the last named was cut down because of unemployment in the teaching profession.

In a bulletin sent to each school by Superintendent William J. Bogan, he urged that the expenses of the graduation exercises be reduced to as small a figure as possible this year.

BULGARIA AND RUMANIA FAIL TO REACH ACCORD

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 28.—(AP)—After a friendly four day visit with King Carol the Bulgarian monarchs, King Boris and Queen Joanna, departed tonight for Sofia.

As anticipated, the discussions between the two kings and their two ministers did not succeed in overcoming Bulgaria's reluctance to sign the Balkan nonaggression pact, nor was Bulgaria's proposal of a similar pact for southeastern European states received with enthusiasm. It was generally believed, however, that the way was at least paved for a friendship agreement between Rumania and Bulgaria.

Four Nations to Sign.

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushdi Bey will leave tomorrow for Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, where the projected Balkan pact of nonaggression will be signed by Turkey, Serbia, Rumania, and Greece. The pact will be left open for Bulgaria's signature later.

VILLAGES BURNED

NAIROBI, Kenya, Africa, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Two Christian villages were raided and burned and eight Protestant converts slain in a religious war among tribesmen of northern Kavirondo, it was reported today. The raids followed upon the killing of two members of a sect led by a native who claims power to raise the dead. There have been frequent clashes between insurrectionists and mission converts. The Kavirondo district is along the northeast shore of Lake Victoria.

QUARTET KILLS 'KANGAROO' OF SIGNAL MOUNTAIN

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Four mountaineers brought to town today what they believe is South Pittsburg's famous "Kangaroo" as dead as the dozen or more animals it has been charged with slaying and devouring.

The captors of the animal, which appears to be some kind of a mountain bobcat or lynx, described a fifteen-hour hunt which started last night and ended when charges of buckshot were fired into its body as it crouched in a tree back on Signal mountain this morning.

The mountain where the hunt ended is about ten miles from the South Pittsburg community, aroused a week ago by the depredations of a queer animal described by natives as similar to a kangaroo.

The animal, weighing more than forty pounds, measures about 50 inches in length, has a short tail, slightly tufted ears and a well spotted coat. Rather long legs, indicating it might have traveled with long leaping strides, lends credence to the story of kangaroo-like hops the South Pittsburg animal is said to have used.

The capture was made by W. H. Sloan, L. W. White, H. E. Outlaw, and R. E. Osborn, Signal mountain residents.

NATIONAL AUTO SHOW ATTRACTS BANNER CROWDS

Today Is "Women's Day" at the Exhibition.

BY HAL FOUST.

The 34th annual National Automobile show, at the Coliseum this week, is breaking all depression attendance records. Alfred Reeves, vice president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that paid admissions at Saturday's opening were fifty-nine per cent above the opening of the exhibition last year.

"Official figures are lacking," he added, "but best estimates indicate that attendance and sales this weekend will compare well with the boom years of 1928 and 1929. The present attendance is twice as great as in 1932, which was the bottom of the depression era for the motor car industry."

"Women's Day" Today.

The show management has designated today as "Women's Day" at the exposition. Women, however, haven't waited for an "official" day to pass through the Coliseum doors in larger numbers than ever before.

"In this era of electrical household appliances, radios and motor cars," said Mr. Reeves, "women are no longer mystified by the things under the hood of an automobile. They are showing as much intelligent interest as men in the engineering improvements introduced in the 1934 models.

"The women are particularly interested in innovations designed to produce easier operation and a more comfortable ride, although they join with the men in watching demonstrations of refinements for economy and longevity.

Cater to Women's Taste.

"The automobile industry, from the day the self-starter became standard equipment, has engaged research engineers to design vehicles with appearance and performance that would please women."

The feminine onlookers yesterday lingered over new body styles that reduce wind resistance by artistic application of aerodynamics. They also seemed to be impressed with refinements in spring suspension that lessen the shocks of the road.

This 1934 automobile show is one that the whole family will enjoy. In former years there often was too much resemblance to a garage with carpets and new cars. But this year there are brilliant interior decorations and there are action exhibits that entertain as well as inform.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 60; recovered, 56; stripped, 4 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Saturday].

AUTOMOBILE SHOW NOTES

Typifying optimistic reports from manufacturers' hotel headquarters was a statement issued yesterday by H. G. Moock, general sales manager Plymouth Motor Car company. He said that sales at the Plymouth exhibits at the Coliseum and at the Congress hotel Saturday and Sunday were 66 per cent above the total for the two opening days of the 1933 exposition. "Registrations for demonstrations are twice as heavy as a year ago," he added. "The public is in a buying mood. I have never seen anything like this in the many years I have been coming to Chicago for these annual events."

Byron Foy, president of De Soto, this morning will join the colony of motor car executives in Chicago for the automobile show.

Continental advertises that its 1934 car is the lowest priced standard sized automobile ever offered to the American market.

The accessory and shop equipment division of the motor show is receiving popular attention. The exhibits include radio sets, car bodies, huge motors, brakes, engines analyzers, and such.

Reports Ex-Kaiser Confident He Will Return to Throne

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Doorn, Holland, reported a pastor of Cologne, preaching at Doorn today, as stating that former Kaiser Wilhelm looks confidently upon restoration of the Hohenzollerns to sovereignty in Germany. The pastor was represented as quoting the kaiser: "In due time God will restore me and my household to the throne in Prussia and Germany which they held by divine appointment."

LONDONERS FIND ROMAN ANCESTOR WHO HAD A BATH

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Stirred by a recent controversy over which city had the first house with a bath, Londoners today took stock of their own situation. They found no cause for red faces.

Just off the Strand is a perfectly preserved bath which belonged to the home of a Roman citizen of Londinium at a time when the crucifixion was an event of hardly more than yesterday.

The bath measures about 15 feet long and six feet wide and is fed by the same spring as when it was built. In this bath David Copperfield once took an early morning bath, with Charles Dickens' pen to guide him, and young men of the present generation sometimes follow his example.

Policeman Will Face 17 Robbery Counts Today

Policeman Boyle Bernot, 27 years old, will appear today in the Felony court to face charges of committing seventeen robberies while he was a member of the police force. He was suspended last Tuesday after his arrest following the holdup of a south side station agent for the Illinois Central lines. All of the complainants identified Bernot as the bandit who forced them to hand over ticket receipts of the same railroad. The policeman said that payless pay days drove him to robbery.

ARMY SERGEANT TO RETIRE AFTER 28 YEARS' SERVICE

Fort George G. Meade, Md., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Sergt. John Schmid, master sergeant of the 30th ordnance company stationed at the army post here, will be retired Wednesday after more than 28 years of continuous military service.

Sergt. Schmid, born in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in 1888, enlisted Dec. 27, 1905, at Scranton, Pa., serving until 1911 with Company C, 23d infantry. From 1911 to 1915, he was a private in the marine corps, and on reënlistment, joined the ordnance corps.

He was in the Philippines from 1908 to 1910 and the following year on the Mexican border. During the world war he served two years overseas, taking part in five engagements and being wounded twice. Since the war he has been stationed here.

Members of the 30th ordnance company will give a farewell dinner in Sergt. Schmid's honor Tuesday night.

THE 1934 TERRAPLANES and HUDSONS
and THE FIRST AUTOMOBILE RETAIL BUSINESS SHOW
Lobby floor, Blackstone Hotel
JAN. 29 to FEB. 2, from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

A DIFFERENT kind of automobile exhibit awaits every automobile dealer who is in Chicago for the National Automobile Show - a complete retail automobile BUSINESS show at the Blackstone Hotel. The Hudson Motor Car Company cordially invites you to visit it.

Of course, you will want to see the new cars at the Coliseum, along with the general public. But, important as they are, the new cars do not represent all that interests you as an automobile dealer.

You also want to find the best methods of selling a lot of new cars.

It is for this reason that Hudson has originated this new kind of exhibit, especially for you, an automobile-show-within-a-show. Here you will see the new 1934 Terraplanes and Hudsons—and here, also, you will find a complete presentation of a fully-rounded business program to obtain for you all the profits that 1934 can bring.

This special dealer exhibit at the Blackstone Hotel offers a graphic presentation of EVERYTHING that contributes to your business effectiveness - Advertising, Sales Aids, Used Car Plans, Service Promotion, Accessory Sales Ideas, Business Management . . . every phase of your business!

On your way to and from the Coliseum, stop in at the Blackstone Hotel on Michigan Boulevard and inspect this special BUSINESS show.

It is on the lobby floor . . . open daily January 29 to February 2, inclusive. Exhibit hours from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Every automobile dealer at the Chicago show is cordially invited to see this unique BUSINESS show which was an outstanding feature at New York and is now being duplicated at Chicago.

PRUSSIA ARRESTS FIGHTING HEAD OF REBEL PASTORS

War Hero Seized in Study; Freed Hours Later.

BY SIRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—The Rev. Martin Niemoeller, former U-boat commander and suspended leader of the Pastors' Emergency League, was arrested today by Prussian secret police on charges of agitating against the state.

After being grilled for several hours at the police headquarters the militant clergyman, who has been leading the revolt against Nazi dominance of the Protestant church, was released through the intervention of influential friends on condition that he report to the secret police headquarters daily.

100 Pastors Dismissed.

The Rev. Mr. Niemoeller was sitting in his study exchanging war time reminiscence with another former submarine commander when the police entered. Ironically, the pastor's visitor heads a division of Hitler storm troopers.

Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, who yesterday set himself up as Prussian church dictator, today continued his wholesale dismissals of opposition pastors. He aimed his wrath at those who read from their pulpits a manifesto against him on Jan. 7 and 14. Pastors suspended in Prussia alone number 90. All are members of the Pastors' Emergency league.

Celebrate Hitler's First Year.

Nazi Germany is preparing to celebrate its first birthday in style. On Tuesday Jan. 30—anniversary of the day when President Paul von Hindenburg appointed Adolf Hitler as chancellor—all public buildings will be decorated with swastika flags and the old imperial colors. The public will be called upon to display flags.

The practically defunct reichstag will awake from its slumber and sit in pomp to honor the day of Hitler's accession to power. Divine services will be held in all churches and presents will be distributed to 16,000,000 needy.

In an effort to win the idolation of the masses, Nazi leaders emphasize that the anniversary should not furnish an occasion for elaborate banquets and feasting, but should demonstrate in "grandoise" fashion the willingness of the nation to help those in want.

Scrip totaling $8,000,000 will be distributed among the idle, their dependents, and small pensioners. Each piece of scrip bears the legend, "Day of National Socialist Revolution." It is embellished with the German eagle and a burning torch. The holder is entitle to buy 70 cents' worth of food and 10 pounds of coal.

Will Cite Year's Achievements.

Bishop Mueller has expressed the hope that on this occasion "German churchmen will forget their quarrels and unite in offering thanksgiving prayers for the resurrection of the German people in the birth of the new state."

Chancellor Hitler's hand picked parliament has been summoned to listen to a government declaration. Six hundred and eighty "yes men" will be told how in a year's time the Nazi régime has reduced unemployment by one-third, united the reich by abolishing more than thirty political parties, and strengthened the nation in its fight for honor and equality.

It is expected the government will outline its policy for the second year of its régime. Hitler is also expected to speak on the conflict with Austria. The reichstag then will be sent home.

41 COREANS DIE IN 4 DAY BLIZZARD ON SEA OF JAPAN

TOKIO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A Rengo [Japanese] press agency dispatch today from Taiku, Corea, said at least 41 persons were dead in a blizzard which has swept the shores of the Sea of Japan for the last four days.

Rescue parties from the mainland bringing food to the aid of residents of Matsu island, also called Dagelet island, off the east coast of Corea, found 41 corpses of victims of freezing and starvation.

Hundreds more are on the verge of starvation, it was reported, and it was feared the death list would grow with the blizzard continuing in the interior.

FILIPINOS ASK U. S. TO EXTEND TIME ON FREEDOM BILL

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Several thousand advocates of the Hawes-Cutting independence measure held a parade here tonight following a mass-meeting at which resolutions were passed urging congress to extend the time for ratification of the measure for nine months. The ratification time originally expired Jan. 17.

If congress extends the time a plebiscite on the measure could be held during the legislative elections June 5.

Sergio Osmena, leader of the proponents, asserted the opposition, headed by Manuel Quezon, president of the insular senate, had exercised coercion in prevailing upon the legislature to reject the measure last October.

5 Drown as Overloaded Japanese Ferry Capsizes

NAGASAKI, Japan, Jan. 28.—(AP)—An overloaded municipal ferryboat, Asahi Maru, capsized today, dumping between 175 and 300 passengers into the water, drowning at least five. Ten persons are missing and fifty were injured. Thirty were taken to the hospital suffering from exposure. An accurate tally of drownings was impossible, since the accident happened close to shore and many passengers swam to safety and went home without reporting. Most of the passengers were dockyards workers.

ORDERS FASCISTI TO FIGHT NAZIS TO FINISH IN AUSTRIA

Take Law Into Own Hands, Heimwehr Chief Urges.

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 28.—(AP)—An appeal to the armed Fascist Heimwehr [home guard] to take the law into its own hands and fight to the finish with the Nazis was delivered today by Prince Ernst Starhemberg, Heimwehr leader.

"There is only one law in the Heimwehr—I command and you obey," said Starhemberg.

"My command is that effective today the Heimwehr must go actively into the offensive. Every leader down to the last man must henceforth immediately avenge every Nazi attack. If legal authorities fail to mete out justice take the law into your own hands."

Plan Big Fight on Nazis.

With the approach of the anniversary of the accession of Adolf Hitler to power in Germany [Jan. 30 the government has announced plans for a determined fight against Nazis.

Before urging a ruthless drive against Heimwehr opponents Starhemberg denounced Count Johann Alberti and other Heimwehr men who have gone Nazi, and said all efforts to reach a friendly agreement with the Hitlerites have failed.

ITALY UNEASY

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 28.—Italy's uneasiness over the Austrian situation as a result of resumption of Nazi attacks on the Dollfuss government, was reflected today in Premier Mussolini's sudden action in summoning a meeting of the council of ministers for next week. It was also announced that Fulvio Suvich, undersecretary for foreign affairs, will go to Budapest, Hungary, early in February.

Concerning the suggestion that there should be united action by Great Britain, France and Italy to halt the Nazi pressure on the Austrian régime, Mussolini's government believes it is better to wait until Chancellor Adolf Hitler replies to the Austrian note of protest delivered to Berlin a week ago.

The press throughout Italy is openly expressing alarm at the potential dynamite in central Europe. There is no concealment of the fact that Italians believe the Nazi aim is to establish an Austro-German anschluss [union] by violence, or by wearing Dollfuss down.

Fear for Austria.

The Italian press says a Nazi government in Austria would mean the immediate gobbling up of the little state by Hitler's reich. This in turn would mean 70,000,000 Germans at Brenner pass on Italy's present northern frontier. Such an eventuality, as one paper recently put it, "would mean that Germany had won the war."

The Italians are accordingly scanning the northern horizon anxiously. According to advices received here from Austria, this week may see the peak of the crisis for Chancellor Dollfuss.

In any case, the Mussolini government has no intention of seeing a consolidated Germanic race under Nazi rule at its northern border. It is prepared to insist that an independent Austria is absolutely essential for the peace of Europe.

Much is expected from Suvich's visit to Hungary. Italy is known to favor closer ties between Austria and Hungary, both for economic reasons and to reinforce resistance to the Nazis.

Suvich's visit to Budapest comes on the heels of his first trip to Vienna, during which Dollfuss was given assurance of Italian friendship.

FRANK A. VANDERLIP WILL BE EDITOR OF EASTERN MAGAZINE

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Frank A. Vanderlip, banker and former assistant secretary of the treasury, is going to become a magazine editor.

The editors of the year old publication Economic Forum announced today that Vanderlip will be "actively interested" in its editorial management.

Vanderlip said his decision to enter the editorial field had been influenced by the need for sounder economic understanding.

"Many years ago, in an address before a bankers' convention in Kansas City," he said, "I used the phrase, 'We are a nation of economic illiterates.'

"The phrase is no longer as truly descriptive as it was then, but there is still need for adult economic education in this time when economic measures, many of them novel, have become of immediate and fundamental importance to each of us."

FIND SUBSTANCE THAT RATS USE TO CURE CANCER

Extract Prevents Graft from "Taking."

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A recently found substance produced by rats to cure their own cancers was announced today by Columbia university. It is an extract, one of four discoveries of the past year in great cancer laboratories, together described as "more important for the future study of cancer than anything which has been found concerning the disease since man began to observe it."

Dr. Francis Carter Wood, head of the Crocker Institute for Cancer Research at Columbia, and editor of the American Journal of Cancer, reported the rat extract found by Prof. William H. Woglom of Crocker. For years scientists knew that a rat's body often produced a substance to cure cancer grafted upon it.

Kills Malignant Cells.

Dr. Woglom grafted cancer cells upon a rat, leaving them there for only a few days. When he removed them he found the cells had soaked up from the rodent's body some of the unknown substance which the rat already had begun to manufacture for protection.

This extract had the power of killing cancer cells outside the rat's body, so that if mixed with a cancer graft, it prevented the cancer from "taking."

But when injected into the body of a rat already having cancer, the extract had no apparent effect. If, Dr. Wood said, the investigators could find out what this substance is and how the rat uses it, they might make a horse produce a lot of it and use it for cancer treatment.

Substance Bars Malady.

He said this immunization appeared to differ from a type of immunity produced previously by injecting rat cancer tissue into another species of animal and that it may "be found that each special type of cancer has to have for its destruction a special antibody adapted to the individual type."

The secondary discovery was by Dr. James B. Murphy of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. It, too, concerned immunity in animal cancer. But it was obtained in a quite different manner. Dr. Murphy found inhibiting substances in embryonic tissues, in which there was no suspicion of cancer.

The third advance was work pointing to means of avoiding cancer, done by Doctors M. R. Curtis and Wilhelmina Dunning and Prof. F. D. Bullock of the Crocker institute.

Lesson to Man.

After studying 52,223 rats they have shown that cancer is not inherited, but is due to irritation plus a long life. If no irritation takes place, no cancer appears, even if the rat lives to old age.

The lesson for man is to avoid irritation, chemical as well as physical, by avoiding excess. For man more and more of the irritants causing cancer are becoming known.

The "fourth advance" was development of chemicals to start cancers.

IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER.

William Bonny, who is held at the detective bureau in connection with several robberies, last night was identified at the regular police showup by Thomas Nolan, 8036 Bennett avenue, as the man who held him up Jan. 16 on the far south side, obtaining $1.

Exposure may be a hazard to people with low resistance

They may take the obvious precautions, such as avoiding crowds, bundling up and wearing rubbers outdoors. But are they doing anything to build up their inner forces? What are they doing to increase their resistance?

People should not wait until after they are sick to think about their physical condition. The time for them to build up a reserve is while they are well!

And there is a convenient, pleasant way to do this. By using a special resistance-builder every day—Squibb Adex tablets.

Squibb Adex tablets offer the important factors which help build up good general resistance—Vitamins A and D. These are the vitamins for which so many physicians recommend halibut-and cod-liver oils with Viosterol.

But people who do not like to take the oils prefer to obtain Vitamins A and D with Adex. They are so pleasant to take! And they are the only tablets made from three vitamin sources.

People who begin with Adex should make it a point to keep it up regularly every day. Results are worth it. The regular use of Adex adds to comfort and efficiency all winter.

Now—at any good drug store—Squibb Adex tablets. Made by E. R. Squibb & Sons, manufacturing chemists since 1858.

BAR LESSER EVIL THAN BEER FLAT, CATHOLICS AGREE

The bar is a lesser evil than the beer flat, according to members of the Catholic Abstinence Union of Illinois, who met with the ladies' auxiliary of the Knights of Father Matthew in the Stevens hotel yesterday. A close watch is being maintained on the effects of taverns, it was said.

"I don't think there is as much drinking at bars as there was in beer flats, especially among the girls," said Mrs. Mary B. Finan, vice president of the Illinois union and the national organization. "There is a sort of innate pride among girls. A lot of them won't go to a bar, while they would go to beer flats."

The organization is opposed to the saloon, Mrs. Finan said. She declared that the work of securing total abstinence pledges, especially from young people, is being carried on with renewed energy. In coöperation with the Catholic Youth movement, young people are asked to pledge abstinence from alcoholic beverages until they reach the age of twenty-one.

WOMAN DOCTOR FACES TRIAL AS POISON SLAYER

Charge Highball Fatal to Associate Physician.

Greenwood, Miss., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The state will demand a murder verdict when Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, pretty Greenwood physician, goes on trial here tomorrow in the strange "whisky highball" death of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, her one time medical associate.

District Attorney Arthur Jordan announced this today on the eve of the trial that has set this delta city and the surrounding country agog with excitement and wonder.

Dr. Dean, 33 year old baby specialist, remained in seclusion today still under the care of her friend and nurse, a Miss Taylor, of Dover, Del.

Her defense counsel, however, headed by A. F. Gardner, announced they will be ready for trial tomorrow when Circuit Court Judge S. F. Davis calls the case.

"Laboring Under Strain."

Gardner said Dr. Dean, while "laboring under a terrible strain," was "doing as well as could be expected."

Still another figure in the case, the divorced wife of Dr. Kennedy, was in Greenwood today, but the district attorney would not say whether she will appear as a witness in the trial.

"She is here and will be here if we need her," Jordan said.

The former wife made a futile airplane dash from Panama to the bedside of Dr. Kennedy, reaching Jackson, Miss., on the afternoon of Aug. 6 a few hours after he died.

The state claims that his death was caused by poison, that the poison was served in a whisky highball, and that Dr. Dean served the highball to Kennedy at a midnight meeting at her residence.

Sheriff Harry Miller of Leflore county said today that 166 men out of a jury venire of 200 had been served.

Legal Battle Ahead.

The chief legal battle looming ahead in the trial hinges on a purported dying statement Kennedy is alleged to have made in the hospital to his brother, Dr. Barney Kennedy, in which he charged that Dr. Dean served him a drink containing poison.

Massachusetts Murder Fugitive Caught Here

Raki Borzuku, alias Harry Milton, 35 years old, who is wanted for murder in Worcester, Mass., was arrested by detectives early yesterday in his room at 208 West Division street. He said he fatally stabbed Retzap Idriz, a restaurant employé, in Worcester during a quarrel over a woman in the restaurant last Oct. 6. After the murder, Borzuku said he stopped in a poolroom and with 10 cents, the only money he had, won $20 in a gambling game. He used some of this to buy a ticket part way to Chicago and in a card game on the train he won $150, he boasted.

CONTINUE STORY OF TERROR TODAY AT RACKET TRIAL

The parade of small tailors through the witness box of Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan's court, to tell of window smashings and other acts of violence will continue today when the racket conspiracy trial of Ald. Oscar F. Nelson and 17 other defendants is resumed after a week-end recess.

Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber and his assistants, Thomas Bugan and Thomas Dodd Healy, spent yesterday interviewing prospective witnesses. The state, it is reported, will make an effort today to show that James P. Gorman, a defendant and president of the retail tailors' union, was on the pay roll of the Cleaners' and Dyers' institute, representing the plant owners, when it was headed by Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, another defendant.

So far the state has not linked the defendant Squires, University of Chicago economist, with any threats, attempted intimidations, or acts of violence, nor has it been shown that Dr. Squires had knowledge of such practices by members of the institute.

SLAIN IN ROW OVER $6.

Lamont Staies, 32 years old, 5740 South State street, a Negro, was shot and fatally wounded yesterday by Alfred Hoskins, 33 years old, 6006 Lafayette avenue, also colored, in a quarrel over $6.

MRS. CHAPIN JR. FAILS TO GAIN, PHYSICIAN SAYS

Thomasville, Ga., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The surgeon attending Mrs. Charles M. Chapin Jr., New York society woman seriously wounded in a hunting accident several days ago, said her condition today was "not so satisfactory."

There was no amplification of the statement.

Mrs. Chapin was wounded in the abdomen by the accidental discharge of her shotgun during a dove hunting expedition with her husband and two guests. She lost considerable blood as she was taken from the Chapin winter estate near here to the hospital.

She was given blood transfusions and yesterday her condition was reported as slightly improved though attending surgeons said the "full effect of the accident had not yet been established." Today a less favorable turn was reported. There has been no transfusion since Friday, the hospital said, and it was not disclosed if another was contemplated.

Seek Incendiarism Clew in $2,000 Evanston Fire

An investigation into a supposedly incendiary fire which caused approximately $2,000 damage in the office of Justice of the Peace James G. Barber, 1514 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, was to be made today. The flames, which broke out late Saturday night, destroyed old court records and exploded hundreds of bullets, property of the Evanston Revolver club, which the justice had stored on a shelf. One of the bullets broke the lantern of a fireman.

POLAND HERALDS SELF AS ONE OF GREAT POWERS

Claims Pact with Germans Foiled Russians.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 28.—Jubilant over the successful outcome of months of careful negotiations which resulted in the ten year pact of friendship and nonaggression between Poland and Germany, the Poles today heralded the treaty as Poland's début as one of the great powers of Europe. They declare the pact demonstrates to the world Poland's ability to act independently of France, many of whose interests fail to coincide with those of Warsaw.

The Poles are especially proud of the way in which they hoodwinked Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov of soviet Russia. Litvinov's plan for a joint soviet-Polish demarche to establish a protectorate over the Baltic states has collapsed. The Poles pretended to agree with the Litvinov project, which aimed to unite the countries of northeast Europe solidly against Chancellor Hitler's Germany. At the same time they conducted secret negotiations with Berlin which resulted in the agreement guaranteeing their western frontier and the security of the Polish corridor for ten years.

Offers Aid to Lithuania.

Only last Wednesday the soviet minister to Kaunas tentatively suggested to Lithuania the willingness of Moscow and Warsaw to guarantee her independence independently of the remaining Baltic states and Finland, which rejected the soviet's previous proposal.

The Polish-German friendship pact is regarded here as an important victory for Foreign Minister Josef Beck, one of the closest confidents of Marshal Pilsudski. Col. Beck's carefully planned coup began more than a year ago when Warsaw opened a diplomatic flirtation with Moscow. This attracted the attention of Berlin.

Beck's next move was to transfer Poland's ablest diplomat, Joseph Lipski, to Berlin as the Polish minister. Lipski succeeded in opening a direct contact with Chancellor Hitler, who finally agreed to the pact.

See Austria Turning Nazi.

One of the reasons for Germany's radical change of policy toward Poland is Warsaw's disinclination to become in any way involved with the problem of Austria, which is expected here to turn Nazi in the near future. Polish statesmen privately state Poland does not oppose the Austro-German anschluss [union]. They claim once this is accomplished the question of obtaining a port on the Adriatic sea would become more important to Germany than the return of the Polish corridor.

The agreement also ends the long trade war between both countries, and is expected to have an important effect upon international trade. The Jewish newspapers, which have been promoting a boycott of German goods, are the only ones in Poland expressing dissatisfaction with the pact.

Lithuania Is Alarmed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Jan. 28.—Entirely unexpected, the report of the nonaggression pact signed Friday between Poland and Germany created a sensation in Kaunas today. Foreign Minister Dovas Zaunius discussed the agreement with President Antanas Smetona. The president presided over a session of the cabinet which considered possible changes of the Lithuanian foreign policy.

Lithuania feels that the new Polish-German friendship pact will affect foreign policies of the Baltic countries. Kaunas fears it will lose Germany's support in her conflict with Poland over the Vilna district. Latvia and Estonia fear they will lose Poland's support in their quarrel with Germany. They claim an influential clique of Baltic barons is conspiring with the Nazis to expand German influence to the north and to return their estates which Latvia and Estonia nationalized.

Lithuania's position is more delicate because of the conflict with Germany over her treatment of Germans residing in the Memel district. Lithuania staged a putsch there in 1923. With Germany waging a trade war against her, Lithuania feels that she has only one friend left in the world—Russia. On top of that, she feels Moscow's aid and influence at the present moment are of doubtful importance.

Dies on Honeymoon

MILLARD F. EDOUARD.
[Associated Press Photo.]

Mount Holly, N. J., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Ellis Parker, Burlington county detective, and Dr. Daniel Remer, county physician, were not sure today whether Millard S. P. Edouard was murdered yesterday or whether he died by his own hand.

Mrs. Edna McLeod Edouard, the gray haired middle aged Missouri nurse who told the authorities her husband fired the shot into his own temple as they were passing through Florence township on the way from California to New York, is in the jail here. There is no charge against her.

"Mrs. Edouard's story contains a few discrepancies that we would like to clear up," Parker said.

Dr. Remer said the powder stained wound in Edouard's right temple might easily have been self-inflicted, but at the same time could easily have been made by some one bent on murder.

Mrs. Edouard and her husband were married at Santa Ana, Cal., on Jan. 14, and, according to her story, were going to New York City to collect $110,000 in bank deposits there.

LENIN'S WIDOW HEALS RIFT WITH JOSEPH STALIN

Sits with Dictator and Leaders in Congress.

MOSCOW, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A rumored political coolness for several years between Joseph Stalin and the widow of Nikolai Lenin, the man he succeeded as leader of soviet Russia, seemed today to have disappeared, as evidenced by her participation in the All-Union party congress.

The 64 year old woman with a wrinkled, care-worn face and gray hair, known throughout soviet Russia simply as Krupskaya, her maiden name, not only is sitting with Stalin on the presidium, or ruling body, of the congress now in session—an honor accorded to only a chosen few—but she has made a speech praising highly the conduct of the country's affairs by the man to whom Lenin's mantle fell.

"Lenin's policy is being successfully executed due to the brilliant leadership of Stalin," she said in concluding a speech which drew prolonged applause from delegates. The widow and Stalin were reported to have disagreed over educational policies, to which she has devoted most of her time.

Although she has always taken an active part in party conclaves, this is the first time Krupskaya was ever elected to the presidium of the All-Union congress, indicating she once more stands high in the country's leadership.

Her appearance gives an impression of enfeebled age until she begins to speak. Then, delegates said, she becomes youthful again through the dynamic force of her words.

19TH ROUTE ARMY TAKEN OVER BY NANKING CHIEFS

HONG KONG, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Government reports from Amoy today said the rebellion in Fukien province had ended with the surrender of the 19th Route army.

Reorganization of the famous fighting body under national government auspices has begun, the reports stated, while leaders in the unsuccessful revolt allegedly secretly arrived in Hong Kong.

Addition of the 19th army would bring strength of the Nanking or national government forces in Fukien to 100,000 men, hence the Canton government was reported anxious. The latter has troops stationed just within the Fukien border to guard against any possible invasion. National troops routed the 19th army from Foochow, rebel capital, earlier this month.

British Disarmament Plans to Be Told to Parliament

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Parliament will reassemble tomorrow to hear Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, state the government's disarmament policy. With the disarmament conference at a standstill and the European scene a distinctly troubled one, his announcement was awaited with more than ordinary interest.

SEE SETTLEMENT OF RUSSIAN DEBT WITHIN A MONTH

Roosevelt Action About All Needed.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The harmonizing influence of recognition has aided negotiations toward the settlement of the 16 year old Russian debt question until a definite understanding may be reached soon, some observers foreseeing it within a month.

Involved are the 300 to 400 million dollars in Russian debt due this country, and soviet counter claims because of American participation in the Siberian expedition. Then, too, there are private claims which American citizens have put forward.

The parleys, in continuation since, and even before, recognition have progressed until it was said today in authoritative circles that a decision by President Roosevelt on American trade policy might be about all that is necessary before an announcement.

Up to Roosevelt.

Debt settlement, credits to Russia, foreign trade policy, and closely related subjects are so interlaced at present that President Roosevelt must pull the proper string before the skein can be untangled.

In negotiations with France and Great Britain the soviet proposed a settlement which provided that, if satisfactory credits were made available, it would pay the debt and in addition repay the credits. The soviet offer, however, was not accepted.

The soviet, it was reported today, has made a somewhat similar proposal to the United States.

Considers 2 Reports.

President Roosevelt has under consideration two reports which have a bearing on future trade policies. One from the foreign trade policy committee, made up of experts from the various government branches, contains findings on general policy and tariffs.

The other, from George N. Peek, former agricultural adjustment administrator, is understood to propose the establishment of a foreign trade export corporation, which would have power to authorize or recommend foreign credit extension.

LINCOLN, ILL., GIRL DIES FROM POISON; FIANCE BUYS DRUG

Lincoln, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Miss Florence Bates, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Bates, a prominent farm family here, died early today from the effects of poison self-administered, the coroner said.

Miss Bates, the family told the coroner, spent Saturday afternoon and evening with her fiancé in Lincoln. The fiancé bought some poison, he told the coroner, when Miss Bates told him her father wanted it to kill rats.

At home that night, the coroner said, she mixed it with water, drank it, and retired. Her sister found her at 3 a. m. and she died soon thereafter.

In her purse was a note which told where she wanted her funeral services, what songs she wanted sung, what clothing she wanted her body dressed in, and who she wanted to officiate. She directed that her clothing should be given to her younger sister.

The family, the coroner said, told authorities the girl had suffered severe headaches since a recent attack of mumps.

BEATIFY 3 PRIESTS WHO PERISHED IN SOUTH AMERICA

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Three Jesuit priests martyred by nomad Indians of South America more than three centuries ago were beatified in St. Peter's today in a brilliant ceremony attended by hundreds of South American pilgrims. The Jesuits raised to the rank of blessed were Fathers Rocco Gonzalez, Alfonso Rodriguez, and Juan del Castillo.

They were killed by unconverted Indians in 1628 after establishing several collective farming groups among wild tribes of a region then embracing portions of modern Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, and Brazil. Cardinal Camillo Laurenti, prefect of the congregation of rites, presided at the beatification ceremony. He was assisted by other cardinals of the same congregation residing in Rome, and by Cardinal Pacelli.

Canonical action for the beatification of the three Jesuits began the year following their massacre.

HARVARD SEEKS GIFTED YOUTHS, BEST TEACHERS

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—The first annual report of James Bryant Conant as president of Harvard university was made public here today. It presents to the board of overseers the general principles which President Conant intends to follow in shaping the future of the university.

"Harvard's success," he declares, "will depend almost entirely on our ability to procure men of the highest caliber for our student body and for our faculty."

To obtain such men for the faculty, he recommends ways for making the academic life in Cambridge more attractive to ambitious, brilliant young scholars. To attract to the student body the most promising young men throughout the whole nation, and particularly to keep the way clear for gifted youth of limited means, he advocated a larger number of scholarships paying as much as $1,200 annually.

In addition, President Conant reported as "one of the significant events in the recent history of Harvard," the establishment of the society of fellows in connection with graduate instruction.

Six fellows were elected last June, President Conant reported, and took up their residence at Harvard in the fall.

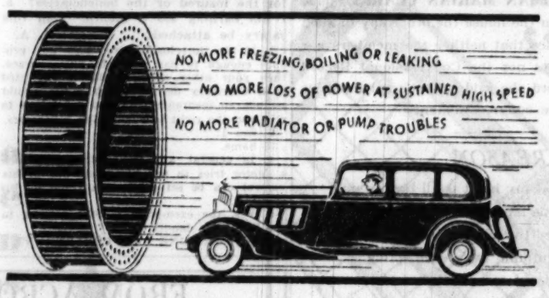
The New FRANKLIN
OFFERING 4 Exclusive ENGINEERING TRIUMPHS

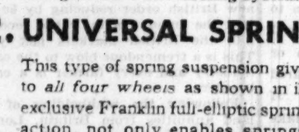


1. The WIND WHEEL that blows your troubles away
A simple, silent blower in the front of the Franklin air-cooled engine sends a stream of air through the engine at a rate as high as 110 miles an hour, completely eliminating all the parts and troublesome annoyances that go with water-cooling systems.

2. UNIVERSAL SPRING ACTION
This type of spring suspension gives freedom of action to all four wheels as shown in illustration. Through exclusive Franklin full-elliptic springs, universal spring action not only enables springs to move up and down, but fore and aft, and sideways as well, absorbing road blows from all directions. Thus Franklin provides greatest comfort and road holding, riding like gliding.

3. Air-cooled AIRPLANE ENGINE
Utilizing the design and principles that have enabled aviation to progress so rapidly, this famous Franklin engine, actually tested in the sky, gives to motorists a quickness in acceleration—a smoothness in operation—eagerness in power that turns driving into a new thrill.

4. Sensational SUPERCHARGER
Airplanes have superchargers—so does Franklin. This unique device, operating from the air turbine, forces charged mixture through the carburetor and packs it into the cylinders in equal, maximum quantities, thus adding to smoothness, acceleration, power, economy.



Experience the sensational results of these exclusive Franklin features. Drive one of the three new Franklins.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

COMMUNIST IDEAS OF AMERICA.

Although the new treaty with Russia requires that the soviet government prevent any attempts on Russian soil against the American government, it was to be known from experience that the communist commissars pretend their inability to control the comintern, or the intrigue operations of the third internationale.

Donald Day, THE TRIBUNE's correspondent in Riga, discovered that while the Litvinov negotiations were under way the journal of the Red international trade unions, an agent of the communist party, was outlining the procedure for Marxian maneuvers in the United States, with particular attention to conditions which have arisen under the New Deal. THE TRIBUNE was able to reproduce this discussion of present day American conditions, the communists' advice to the American Reds, and their suggestions for taking advantage of them. It need astonish no one that the recognition of Russia at this time is regarded as ripe opportunity for revolutionary efforts in America, but American readers relying on censored correspondence from Russia would not have received the news. They would have to read Donald Day to find it out.

Every country which has undertaken official relations with Russia, trusting to good faith, has been painfully undeceived by discovering that intrigue has been promoted under the cloak of diplomatic privileges and immunities. America must be prepared to find that there will be no exception in its case, although the pledge to the contrary is the most explicit which the commissars have given. As commissars they have no control over themselves as comrades.

It is also well to understand the communist opinion of such conditions and activities as now prevail in the United States. It is the Marxian view that they will create discontent and will not satisfy. To a communistic dialectician a capitalistic state endeavoring to do what the United States is doing is a futility. He thinks that it has merely broken down some of its protections. It is therefore weaker and is exposed to revolution as it never was before. He is, of course, convinced that although it can help to destroy itself it can never achieve a substantial success along the line it attempts because it is wrong both in theory and in method. All it can do with its wrong ideas is to fail in satisfying any of the desires it arouses in the people and by increasing their determination to get more to thereby lay itself wide open to the real revolution for the destruction of classes, the dictatorship of the proletariat, and the expropriation of all wealth and private property.

This being the line of thought by which the Marxian idea proceeds, it follows that the communists would regard the United States today as offering them a much better opportunity than it did even a year ago, and with the added advantage that the soviet republic is now recognized by the capitalistic republic and has diplomatic relations with it.

Russia is not the land Marx would have chosen for his revolution, nor would Lenin have chosen it if he could have got Germany. The proletarian revolution is an industrial one in its essence and the peasant temperament was not regarded as suitable for the management or progress of proletarian ideas. Least of all was the Russian peasant thought suitable revolutionary material. Germany or the United States are ideal countries for the Marxian dictatorship so far as industrial organization is concerned.

To a communist the United States would appear in the Kerensky stage. It would appear to have broken down its old system of government and to have made its people dissatisfied with the authority and social order they were once accustomed to and desirous of benefits a Kerensky government could not give them. That would be a wishful communistic view of the United States today and it would explain the importance to the hopeful Red brothers of the documents Donald Day discovered, the brothers whose essential dogma is that the world cannot exist part proletarian and part capitalistic.

"JAPANESE SPIES" IN NEW JERSEY.

Five Japanese tourists were arrested by the New Jersey police because they had been observed taking skyway photographs. They were detained for questioning nearly all of one day and were then released to the custody of the Japanese vice consul in New York City. Later the immigration bureau at Ellis Island gave them a clean bill of health and they were dismissed.

The incident was a minor one, but not fortunate. Americans have thought the Japanese were unduly suspicious of American travelers, including even Col. Lindbergh and other distinguished American flyers, accused of espionage in Japan. Such incidents have been employed to keep at least some part of the Japanese population in a state of mind responsive to military statesmen and alarmists who use suspicion as an influence in Japanese foreign and domestic programs. It will be strange if the New Jersey incident is not used in Japan for just such purposes. It isn't very likely that the Japanese military intelligence needs the services of five naive Japanese tourists openly photographing objects of interest to them along the traveled highways. Military espionage does not require or frequently use such open-faced methods.

CONDITIONS IN THE PRISONS.

Austin H. MacCormick, the New York corrections commissioner, with a squad of Correction hospital keepers, descended upon Welfare Island on an inspection tour, which was in effect a raid, and uncovered a mess of preposterous conditions. He found narcotics, hypodermic needles, weapons, open evidence of favoritism, political rows, special privileges, and degeneracy. Rumors of bad conditions had been general and persistent. Proof of their truth was everywhere. The warden has been removed. One of his deputies has been arrested.

Congressman Simpson of Illinois has introduced a resolution in the national house of representatives for an investigation of federal prisons. The incidents which prompt this demand for an inquiry include the out of bounds escapades of Terry Druggan at Leavenworth, which were discovered by THE TRIBUNE, and the parole of William Donovan, Evergreen Park mail robber. Prison management the country over is under suspicion for reasons which the management itself has given.

The region around Chicago has suffered and is still in danger from the consequences of the prison break at Michigan City, Ind. That was not an isolated case of penitentiary mismanagement. The escape of dangerous convicts is frequently reported from one state or another and little is generally known of conditions inside the walls. The Welfare Island instance is one of the worst which has been revealed. Both the federal government and the various state governments may save themselves a great deal of scandal and people from a great deal of injury if prison management is put under severe investigation.

NEW HOPE FOR LOUISIANA.

Louisiana can find a promise of the relief it seeks in the defeat of Huey Long's candidate for mayor of New Orleans in the city primary election. His man, beaten in the first test of votes with Mayor Walmsley, says he will not go into a second election. Long tried and threatened to give the city his familiar strong arm procedure, including the use of state troops, but took a second thought.

Whatever or whoever hit the Kingfish in the Long Island washroom, it was a lucky horseshoe for the people of the state who have been trying to recover control from the Bayou Boy. Since then the deflation of Mr. Long has made progress. It has not received much help from the United States senate, but the people have been getting in their licks. Usually when a politician of Long's unpleasant type starts taking lickings he keeps on taking them until he cannot bounce off the ropes, but goes through them.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE NEWSPAPER CODE.

The appointment of Ralph Pulitzer, who was in charge of the New York World when it passed out, to be a deputy administrator of the NRA and take over the enforcement of the newspaper code brings criticism and protest from various quarters. One protest comes from the Newspaper Guild of New York, an organization of newspaper writers who do not like Mr. Pulitzer, not only because he allowed the World to die, causing men to lose their jobs, but because of the manner in which he disposed of the property. They protest to President Roosevelt and Gen. Johnson that they can't find anything in Mr. Pulitzer's record justifying a belief that he will have the employés' interest at heart.

Other people, in and out of the newspaper business, may wonder whether failure in the business, not meaning to be unduly harsh with Mr. Pulitzer, is per se a qualification for a bureaucratic job having to do with all the newspapers of the country. The older Pulitzer was a great editor, but his genius died with him. It may not follow that because Ralph Pulitzer was associated with the failure of a newspaper the elder Pulitzer left prosperous and influential therefore he would necessarily be unfitted for the duties of newspaper administrator, and that conclusion would be the more remote if he took his responsibilities lightly.

There is room, however, for speculation whether Gen. Johnson might not favor the possibilities that a journalist who had seen his own newspaper curl up under him might be competent, with bureaucratic powers, to curl up a number of others. If the newspapers do not regard Gen. Johnson as conspicuously their patron saint it may be because they have already encountered some manifestations of his cracking down spirit. They will have to be persuaded by subsequent events that he is thoroughly devoted to the encouragement of independent newspaper reporting and opinion. He is a man of much downright opinion himself and it may be that he believes thoroughly in such freedom, but there are many cautious newspapers which will have to be shown.

Editorial of the Day

FOOTBALL DEFLATION.

[Illinois State Register (Springfield).]

Sometimes solutions to vexing problems crop up from unexpected sources while society seeks in vain to check the evils involved. Such may be the case with the overemphasis of college athletics.

While it has been evident for years that intercollegiate athletic competition in this country has attained a place of prominence far in excess of its true value, most of us have applauded the athletic hero profusely and thereby added to the unbalance of the situation.

But along comes professional football with a pack of thrills and an excellence that bids fair to make deep inroads into the spotlight previously held by intercollegiate athletics, of which football is the mainstay.

Exceedingly large crowds witnessed professional games this last season even though such contests are minus the bands, cheer leaders, and student loyalty which have played such a great part in elevating college competition to its present prominence.

Without championing the cause of professional football, one can say that perhaps it is destined to correct an abuse of college life. One can reason that as the professional game advances in popularity the public's appetite for such sport will be appeased and the college football game will decline in proportion. Alumni groups seldom get excited about the alma mater's baseball teams, notwithstanding the fact that many excellent college teams perform annually on college diamonds. The same is true of other major college sports with the exception of football.

Perhaps college football is now due for some deflation.

AND SPEAKING OF SPEECHES, Comrade Stalin made an address a day or two ago in Moscow which lasted five hours. That's the advantage of being a Soviet speaker; if any one walks out on the speech they just grab him at the door and march him in front of a firing squad right over to the stone wall. I know that if I had to listen to Comrade Stalin make a speech over in Russia I would sit spellbound for five hours, or ten or twenty hours, or for as long as the comrade cared to talk. But it's different in this country. If Comrade Stalin comes over here and tries to make a five hour speech not only will his audience walk out on him but somebody is liable to yell from the gallery "And so's your old man!" Freedom still makes her home among us, even if she doesn't go out walking as often as she used to.

SYMPTOMS.

We complain of symptoms. Not only that, we crystallize our complaint into action. We go to a doctor for relief, and we are satisfied with his service almost in proportion as he brings our symptoms to an end.

That, however, is only a part of the story symptoms complain to us or, rather, that is the way the organs have of complaining to us. We have a headache, meaning that the brain is complaining to us of something that is being done to it. We have dyspepsia. That means that the stomach is complaining to us of something that is being done to it by the gall bladder, or some other organ, or something else. We have a pain in the chest. That may mean the pleura is telling us that some microbe is bothering it. Or, the symptom may be fever or a rapid pulse.

Whatever it is, it is some part of our internal machinery trying to tell us something. Sometimes the talking organ is trying to inform on another organ. Sometimes the complaint is against the combination called the individual rather than any of its parts. Maybe the symptom is trying to tell us we stayed out too late last night, or we are eating too much or improperly somehow, or we are worrying; or maybe the complaint is of too much drugs, such as alcohol, tobacco, or coffee.

And so the chain goes. The organs complain to us, we complain to the doctor, and the doctor complains that we do not pay up, or are unappreciative otherwise. The chain of complaints seems to need many links. Some day we may have a perfect world. In that day man will be all-understanding and his wisdom will equal his knowledge. In that day we will not try to pass the buck. When a head uses an ache to pray to us for relief we will recognize the symptom for what it is and not regard it as a complaint to be suppressed.

In that day, when we get heartburn we will say: "Thanks, old man. I will give you a rest. No food for me today. Furthermore, I promise you not to sin against you again." And in that good day we will hold such promises sacred. We have attacks of night indigestion with much belching. We say: "All right, old man gall bladder. I hear your voice. I know you are sore oppressed. I haven't treated you right. I will listen to you." Or we say: "Thank you, cough. We will try to care for the lungs and bronchial tubes whose voice you are. Probably a tubercle bacillus or a pneumococcus is breaking in and we are grateful for being told about it."

Or it may be an irritable pulse is trying to tell about a disordered thyroid gland. In that good day too much thyroid will be discovered on the average some months earlier than is now the rule.

We will be most grateful of all for those symptoms that snitch on us rather than on our organs. We may be grateful for those symptoms that tell us that we are not getting enough sleep; that we are not regular enough in our habits; that we are trying to get through life without a philosophy or without equanimity; that we are being manhandled by fear; that we are eating improperly; or that we are not exercising enough. We may be grateful for these warnings, but if we are the millennium is at hand.

TUBERCULOSIS.

Mrs. J. L. E. writes: Would you advise me whether or not it would be advisable for us to move to Arizona? I have a moderately advanced case of tuberculosis and my 11½ months old son is infected in a somewhat early stage. We have just received our X-rays. We live in a cramped apartment and have no savings. My husband has been out of work a year and a half, and I have worked up to the present time to maintain a living, but he is now working part time. My working before the baby was born, and returning shortly thereafter, together with my general rundown condition, brought this on, I believe. It will be quite a long time before the baby or I would be able to get into our municipal sanitarium. There are hundreds before us. Then, too, I understand the Arizona climate is ideal for people with tuberculosis. Perhaps through borrowing funds from my former employers [if that is possible] and mortgaging our furniture and borrowing on an insurance policy we could at least get started in the right direction.

Would you advise going to Arizona in these circumstances? It worries me to be home. There is so much noise, and it is far from being a healthful place.

REPLY.

I advise you to concentrate on getting into a sanitarium in your home town. You need real and hospital care for yourself and your child. While the Arizona climate is better than this one, you will lessen your chances of recovery if you go there without money enough to keep you in comfort and free from financial worry for, say, two years.

PLUGGING OF GLANDS.

L. I. S. writes: What causes a cyst? I have had one behind my ear for two or three months.

REPLY.

Most cysts are due to plugging of ducts with consequent retention of secretion of glands. They are harmless. If operation is required it is simple. At least it is when the cyst is easily accessible. One back of the ear may be due to retention of grease or it may be a dermoid.

FORECLOSURE.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My home is about to be foreclosed and in case of a deficiency judgment can the mortgage holder [1] attach my insurance policies, or [2] the cash surrender value on them? 3. If I moved to a different state could my insurance be attached to satisfy this same judgment? 4. Is there any procedure possible whereby insurance policies are protected for the insured or the beneficiaries? 5. I am earning $90 a month. Can this salary be attached? H. A.

1. If the foreclosure sale does not produce enough to pay the debt plus charges, then your other assets could be subjected to a deficiency decree. Such assets would include an insurance policy so worded as to give you the right to change the beneficiary.
2. See 1.
3. Same.
4. In general, any transactions by which a debtor tries to put his assets out of his control can be set aside as a fraud on his creditors.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROMISSORY NOTE.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—John Doe owes Henry Smith a sum of money and gives him a promissory note for same. Smith asks Brown to witness Doe's signature on the note, although it is not a joint note. 1. A says Brown is liable for payment of the note should Doe refuse. B says Brown is not liable because Brown signed as follows: "Signature witnessed by John Brown." C says Brown should sign "Signature witnessed by John Brown, payment not guaranteed." This type of note does not require a witness. John Brown, who witnessed Doe's signature, did so on the face of the note under Doe's signature. Who is right? M. M. M.

We would say that he is not liable, but the second wording is preferable since the second sentence of section 31 of the negotiable instruments law reads as follows: "The signature of the indorser, without additional words, is a sufficient indorsement and the addition of words of assignment or of guaranty shall not negative the additional effect of the signature as an indorsement unless otherwise expressly stated."

DUBLIN.—New moves by the British government in the economic war with the Irish Free State are causing much gloom in Ireland. The attitude of the Free State government in regard to this matter is to many people inexplicable.

Just now the Irish are faced with a new British order reducing by 50 per cent the amount of fat cattle received into the British markets last year. This is a tremendous blow to the cattle industry and every farmer is a cattle breeder.

Following the withholding of the land annuities from Britain, London placed a 25 per cent tariff on Free State exports to Britain. The Free State government's reply was that a "war" was on and that there must be casualties.

Then the British increased the tariffs to 40 per cent and the De Valera government devised a system of bounties to help the farmers to continue to export their cattle. These bounties were levied on the taxpayers generally. In the last year they amounted to over $10,000,000.

Now with half the exports cut off the situation is really serious. Just what the government will do is not apparent. For the moment it is regulating the exports so that farmers may continue to send out half the amount of cattle they exported last year. What is to become of the other half is a question.

The cattle previously exported represented the surplus over the needs of the country itself. It is impossible for the population of Ireland to consume such a large quantity of meat in addition to the existing consumption. One thing seems certain. Beef will be cheap and the poorer classes will be able to indulge in a luxury which they have been denied in the past. But what is to happen in a year or two is a perplexing question. The farmers are not likely to continue to raise cattle they cannot sell at a remunerative price.

It is not surprising that in these circumstances a call for settlement of the economic war is being raised even from quarters which heretofore have demanded that President De Valera should be given an opportunity to win the battle if that were possible. It is becoming clearer daily that the British are not going to starve for want of Irish beef. That in fact was the argument put forward by some members of the Free State cabinet.

The British cattle raising industry has greatly increased in recent months. With cattle coming from Canada and other dominions there is no longer a question of scarcity. The Free State, having failed to reach agreements with Britain at the Ottawa economic conference last summer, is now in the position of a foreign country so far as the British markets are concerned. Her exports are subject to a special additional British tariff of 10 per cent, which is placed on all foreign exports.

DRINK WITHOUT FOOD.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Counter to all of the recommendations of responsible persons who have made a study of the problem of liquor control, Gov. Horner insists that in restaurants liquor be sold only with meals [see section 21, article 6, house bill No. 9, as amended by the conference committee]. This provision was in the bill originally and at the very wise insistence of Senator Harold G. Ward it was stricken off. Senator Ward's contention was that a person wanting a drink of beer need not be forced to go to a tavern for it.

As the bill now stands, if a man and his wife desire a glass of beer after the ater they must go into a tavern or saloon for it, because if they patronize a restaurant it will be necessary for them to order a meal so that they may obtain their glass of beer. By this provision the sale of intoxicating liquor in restaurants is discouraged while at the same time it is being encouraged in the tavern.

In all countries where temperance has been sought through legislation the tendency has been to center drinking of alcoholic beverages in restaurants. Why is the governor insisting that in Illinois the restaurants, against which there never has been any complaint so far as the sale of liquor is concerned, be handicapped by this unreasonable provision?

Isn't it about time that we mix a little intelligence with our drinks and get away from the prohibitory measures which made prohibition a farce and broke down every semblance of respect for law and decency? J. S.

SO-CALLED RELIEF.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—My husband is a building tradesman. He has worked six months in the last four years. We have three children. We owe $700 for rent; altogether our debts amount to $1,000. We have been on the relief for the last yea. and a half. My husband and I had almost lost all our courage when the papers started to tell about the CWA. The papers said the CWA was going to put thousands of unemployed men back to work for at least 90 days. Our courage revived when my husband received a letter to report to work Dec. 27.

He reported and was told they had no material. In the next two weeks he reported three times. Each time he received the same answer. On Jan. 8 he reported again. The man started him to work. He worked ten days and was laid off. Meanwhile the relief had cut us off before he had even started to work, but has since sent us an order for $6.93, which is just about used up. So we are off the relief, my husband is still out of work, and he has not been paid yet for the ten days he worked. I am wondering how far in the hole you have to be to work the full 90 days on the CWA.

He was laid off because the money was all used up, but there are fellows still working who have been working more than 60 days. I guess you have to have a pull. That is the only thing I can think of. As far as needing the work and as far as being a good worker my husband qualifies. So what?

MRS. X.

IMPLICIT IN ALL CONTRACTS.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Thomas James Norton in his letter to you, dated Jan. 16, chooses as his text the following vital excerpt from the Supreme court ruling in the Minnesota mortgage foreclosure case:

While emergency does not create power, emergency may furnish the occasion for the exercise of power.

Norton then gives his interpretation as follows:

That is, while no emergency can give power to a state to overstep the contract impairment clause of the constitution, an emergency may yet be the occasion for the exercise by a state of power in a manner in which it is forbidden to exert it.

Being a reader of THE TRIBUNE for many years and trusting in its fairness to give all viewpoints equal consideration, I humbly submit the following (the approach being Norton's, the quotations taken from the majority ruling in the Minnesota case):

That is, while no emergency can create power for a state to overstep the contract impairment clause of the constitution or "remove constitutional limitations safeguarding essential liberties," an emergency may yet be the occasion for the exercise by a state of its "reserved power to protect the vital interests of the community. . . . The reservation of state power appropriate to . . . extraordinary conditions [disasters or economic emergencies] may be deemed to be . . . a part of all contracts."

AMEN, SISTER.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—I had looked forward for a long time to seeing "Little Women." Last night I attended a loop theater, anticipating an enjoyable evening, but the entire performance was ruined by two would-be clever young women [I can't call them ladies] who sat directly behind me. Throughout the picture they talked in a loud tone of voice, giggled, made wisecracks about everything in the picture, and made themselves very annoying to every one around them. I asked them if they would be quiet, as I couldn't hear anything for their noise, and one of them remarked, "If you are so deaf why don't you sit in the front row?" Then the other said, "You must be the manager's wife if you think you can tell us what to do"—these and sundry insulting remarks were made to me. After they found they were annoying me they redoubled their efforts, so that when the picture came to an end I had very little idea what I had seen, and I had heard nothing.

I am just a working girl and cannot afford to go to a show very often. I think it is a shame that one's looked-for pleasure is spoiled by morons who go to a movie to make a spectacle of themselves to the general annoyance of every one around them.

LIFT 'U' MERGER SECRECY IS PLEA OF DR. THOMPSON

Demands Plan Be Brought Out in the Open.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rev. Dr. John Thompson, in his sermon in Chicago Temple last night, asked that the question of the merger of Northwestern university and the University of Chicago be "brought into the open" in order that the plan may be properly appraised. He added that trustees should not undertake a vote on the matter until such appraisal is possible.

In demanding open discussion of the project, Dr. Thompson, pastor of Chicago's leading Methodist Episcopal church, pointed to the widespread cultural influences of the city's two great universities. He said that actions of the trustees would directly affect cultural opportunities and advantages not only of Chicago but of the entire central western area. For this reason, Dr. Thompson asked that the semi-effective secrecy of leaders of the movement be lifted.

Makes Some Observations.

"Thousands of professors and students put elevating influences into the life of the city beyond human calculation," said Dr. Thompson. "Naturally, the proposed merger of the two universities has brought a good deal of public attention. While I have no desire to project my views into a province where others carry responsibility I may very modestly make some observations as I speak from this historic pulpit."

After asking that the whole matter be made public, the pastor outlined the opposing educational ideals of the two institutions.

"These widely differing ideals ought to be seriously taken into consideration," Dr. Thompson continued. "One emphasizes pure research while the other stresses practical research. One devotes its energies to the training of practical and professional teachers, physicians, as well as offering training for practical citizenship, while the other, at the midway, stresses theoretical and purely scientific studies with diminishing emphasis on professions generally."

Merging Contrasting Ideals.

Dr. Thompson cited the practical difficulty in merging such contrasting ideals in education and added that attempts at such a merger probably would result in the destruction of the ideal of one or the other.

"Existing side by side," he said, "each in its own sphere acts as a critical force on the other. At the midway a new medical ideal has been tested during the last decade, but a decade may be said to be too short a period in which to pass final judgment. So the two schools may complement each other with each making its own distinct contribution. The same general difference may be found between the schools of education on the two campuses. Both are needed."

Dr. Thompson warned against "the lure of wealth, of large endowments, and large gifts" as primary considerations of those who urge the merger. "It should also be a selfless undertaking, not a selfish one," he added. "Public good and best service to the youth of the city and land must be the chief motives. Manhood in this day of social revolution must be put before money and personality before profits."

Promises of Gifts.

Here Dr. Thompson alluded to promises of large gifts from a great educational foundation if the merger is consummated. He made reference to a reported proffer of a large gift to one of the merged departments of the two universities.

"Trustees cannot afford to allow the vision of large gifts and large endowments to be a deciding factor in this matter," he said.

That such gifts are doubtful, however, was indicated early this month in a statement issued by President Hutchins covering six points of the proposed merger.

In considering gifts and endowments, Dr. Thompson asked that the founders of the institutions not be forgotten:

"Here I speak of that small group of Methodist laymen that met together three-quarters of a century ago in Grant Goodrich's office to found Northwestern university. It was their sacrificial gifts that made this university possible. They remind one of the sacrificial giving of the pioneers and founders of our country who established Harvard, Yale, and Princeton.

A Methodist University.

"These founders were men of culture and desired to place the best education possible within the reach of the youth of the day. So did these early Methodists. They were making their gifts and founding a Methodist university, not to be limited merely in teaching Methodist youths or employing Methodist professors, but it was to be a Methodist university. The majority of the gifts that have been made since the day of its founding have been made by Methodists to a Methodist university. These considerations should carry weight with the trustees.

Dr. Thompson asserted that both universities are already too large and he asked that Northwestern alumni be consulted before their alma mater "is eliminated."

The pastor's closing request was that the trustees should not make "such a step by a bare majority vote. It should require two-thirds or three-fourths vote to settle this matter."

A law passed by the state legislature last June, however, provides for a two-thirds majority in such matters. This law makes ample provision for such mergers, lawyers state, as well as ironing out many legal tangles involved in such a project.

Dr. Thompson announced that he would discuss further aspects of the merger in a few weeks.

CHURCHES' COUNCIL PROTESTS PLANS FOR U. S. NAVAL INCREASE

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The United States' projected program of naval expansion, in the opinion of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, would "seriously compromise" President Roosevelt's "good neighbor" policy toward other nations.

The executive committee of the council today forwarded to the President a strong protest, declaring such a program would tend to develop "in our own and other countries a state of mind that will make difficult, if not altogether impossible, a general reduction of armaments by international agreement."

It further charged that extravagant naval expenditures were untimely when "constructive programs of social welfare are being crippled and thousands of schools being closed for lack of funds."

RACE FOR COUNTY SCHOOLS HEAD IS POLITICAL ISSUE

2 Democrats Seeking to Succeed Tobin.

Suburban parents are watching with deep interest one phase of the slate making activities of political party leaders. Candidates for the Republican and Democratic nominations for county superintendent of schools are to be named during the week. The nominees will be chosen in the April primaries.

For the last twenty-three years the political phase of the county school system has given parents little concern. There were factional quarrels in the selection of district board members, but the late Edward J. Tobin was regularly returned to office. Even in districts usually overwhelmingly Republican majorities went to Tobin, a Democrat.

Republicans Favor Schwebel.

Although school problems are largely in the hands of the individual school boards, which are responsible to the communities, the post of county superintendent is important in that it links the various boards into a unit.

The Republicans are expected to name George A. Schwebel, superintendent of school district No. 99, Cicero, Mr. Schwebel, who has spent 15 years in the Cicero school system, was an opponent of Tobin at the election four years ago.

Democratic leaders are disputing over selection of a candidate. Country town leaders sent the name of County Commissioner Homer J. Byrd to the Democratic county central committee. Before his election as a county commissioner Byrd served in the school system under Tobin for seven years, six of them as an assistant to Mr. Tobin.

Refused New Certificate.

On the submission of his name it was learned that Byrd had been refused an extension of his certificate last October by Otto F. Aken, named as successor to Tobin by the county board at the latter's death last March. The school superintendent is required by law to possess a certificate. Many persons who leave the school system keep their certificates against possible return by payment of an annual fee of $1.

When this became known teachers, principals, and parents began circulating petitions calling upon Aken to issue the certificate to Byrd. The petitions, which are to be presented to the committee, allege Aken is withholding the certificate for political purposes. Byrd has indicated he will bring legal action to force Aken to issue the certificate.

Aken was brought to the county school system several years ago by Mr. Tobin from Jackson county, where he was known as a Republican. Despite his former political affiliation, he was named Tobin's successor by the county board. It is considered likely he will be the party's nominee if Byrd does not get his certificate.

BISHOP ACHESON OF CONNECTICUT IS DEAD AT 76

Middletown, Conn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Right Rev. Edward Campion Acheson, 76, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Connecticut and father of Dean G. Acheson, former undersecretary of the treasury, died today at his home.

Bishop Acheson had been ill for several weeks with complications following on an attack of neuritis.

A native of England, Bishop Acheson led a varied career, in the church, in business, and in war.

He was a veteran of the imperial forces that put down the second Riel rebellion in the Candadian northwest. In the world war he served with the American Red Cross and was chaplain of the 26th [Yankee] division.

Dr. Acheson had been in the service of the Protestant Episcopal church, both in the United States and Canada, for 45 years.

Isaac Brice MacLean, Civil War Vet, Dies Downstate

Duquoin, Ill., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Isaac Brice MacLean, 88, civil war veteran and pioneer resident of Du Quoin, died here suddenly last night following a stroke of apoplexy. He served throughout the war with a unit of Tennessee cavalry, and was one of the three surviving veterans of Loomis post, G. A. R., once one of the largest in southern Illinois. Funeral services will be held here Monday afternoon.

Rites for Prof. A. G. Beach, Kin of Dawes, to Be Today

FUNERAL RITES TOMORROW FOR BENJ. F. DEMUTH

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the chapel at Graceland cemetery for Benjamin F. DeMuth, a pioneer Chicago retailer who died yesterday following a long illness at his home, 512 South Sheridan road, Highland Park. He was 82 years old.

After selling shoes in Ohio, his native state, Mr. DeMuth took charge of a store here in a partnership. In 1886 he organized DeMuth & Co., which for many years had a store at 150 State street. The firm later was sold to Hanan & Son, from which concern Mr. DeMuth retired some years ago.

A horse fancier, Mr. DeMuth won the Gentlemen's Derby at the old Washington Park club on the south side early in the century. He was a charter member of the Chicago Athletic club and for many years belonged to the Union League and Exmoor Country clubs. Surviving are the widow, Mary E., a son, John H. DeMuth of Highland Park, and a daughter, Mrs. Everett G. Deming of Evanston.

W. G. CALDWELL, WISCONSIN PWA CHAIRMAN, DIES

Madison, Wis., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Walter G. Caldwell of Waukesha, state chairman of the federal public works program and Democratic leader, died today in the General hospital. Pneumonia, following an operation, caused death. Mr. Caldwell was 48 years old, and an overseas war veteran.

Mr. Caldwell, an engineer, engaged for years with state highway construction. He was elected last year to the state assembly, the first Democrat in 25 years from the First district.

Mr. Caldwell was one of the most active Democratic members during the last regular session of the legislature. President Roosevelt named him to a board of three authorized to study public works projects submitted by local governments. Surviving Mr. Caldwell are his widow, Florence, and two children, James, 17 years old, and Anna, 13.

Mrs. John K. Stack Is Dead in Escanaba

Escanaba, Mich., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. John K. Stack Sr., 81, mother of Auditor General John K. Stack, died in her home here yesterday. She suffered a stroke of apoplexy ten days ago. She was the widow of a pioneer Escanaba lumber man and capitalist who died in 1922. Surviving are three sons and five daughters: John K. of Lansing, who is auditor general; Richard B., New York; Henry, Escanaba; Mrs. Helen Healy and Mrs. Nancy Daley, Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Ruth Carey, Oklahoma City; Mrs. Cecile Nadeau, Marinette, Wis., and Mrs. Mollie Smith, Escanaba.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor of North Dakota Dead

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Frank Hyland, 53, Devils Lake, N. D., former North Dakota lieutenant governor and member of the legislature, died in a hospital here early today. Heart disease, for which he had been treated more than a month, caused death.

'Oldest Active Policeman' Dies in Georgia at 81

Moultrie, Ga., Jan. 28.—(AP)—J. A. Collier, 81 years old, whom associates described as the oldest active policeman in the United States, died of pneumonia today. Collier declined retirement and covered his beat until his illness. He was a peace officer 50 years.

Five Generations Survive Maine Woman, Dead at 105

West Paris, Me., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Two great-great-great-grandchildren and ten great-great-grandchildren are among the survivors of Mrs. Frances C. Noyes, who died here tonight at the age of 105. There are 11 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Kill that COLD!
Don't Merely Coddle It with Half-Way Measures!
A cold is nothing to trifle with! It may end seriously. A cold, being an internal infection, calls for an internal treatment. It also calls for a COLD remedy and not something good for a number of other things as well.
Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is direct and internal—and it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is taking chances with a cold. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is sold by all druggists, 30c and 50c. Accept no substitute.

Offer Thrills at Winter Club Ice Carnival

Children Skate Saturday and Adults Sunday.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ANNOUNCING with pleasant conceit that the program will equal any cold weather event that has ever been run off at Lake Placid or St. Moritz, the Winter club in Lake Forest is ready for its grand midwinter carnival this coming weekend at its skating rink on Sheridan road in Lake Forest. All the club asks is the cooperation of Jack Frost.

The event will provide interest for grownups and the younger generation alike, for it is to open on Saturday afternoon with a series of ice competitions for the boys and girls of Lake Forest and then continue Sunday afternoon with special skating exhibitions by some of the finest figure skaters in the country. It is a safe guess, however, that the grownups will turn out in just as large numbers Saturday as Sunday, for they will all have personal interest in some one or two of the little skaters.

The Saturday program will open at 2:30, with a grand march for the boys and girls, all in gala costumes. Then there will be a series of races and after this a junior figure skating competition. By this time all of the contestants will feel that they have earned the refreshments (to the accompaniment of a brass band) that will wind up the first day's entertainment.

Famous Skating Team to Appear Sunday.

On Sunday at 3 o'clock Shipstad and Johnson, a world famous team of fancy skaters, will open the second day of the carnival. Eleanor Berger, a Chicagoan and one of the best amateur skaters in the United States, will contribute another highlight to this program and so will Paul Wilson, a former national champion. Again there will be music and refreshments.

Donald B. Douglas, as the chairman of the Winter club's skating committee, is responsible for the plans. John C. Meacham is the Winter club president this year. The club has always been a great place for children. It was organized in 1902 with the clubhouse just a shelter by the side of the skating rink. The present rambling clubhouse was put up a few years later, and then the outdoor swimming pool was built. The squash courts were added about five years ago.

While Mr. Douglas, Mr. Meachem, and the rest of the Winter club members are devoting themselves to cold weather sports, several other Lake Foresters are thinking about spring, blue skies, and a brisk breeze. Stuart H. Otis bought a sailboat Saturday, a ten foot snite, and now he can hardly wait to use it. Keith Carpenter is thinking of investing in a duplicate of this boat and several of Mr. Otis' and Mr. Carpenter's friends already have duplicates, so it looks as if sailing will be the pastime out Lake Forest way this summer.

Hurd-Bucklin Wedding Plans Are Completed.

With a wedding ring and license and nearly all last minute details attended to, Miss Imogene Edna Bucklin and Frederick Marshall Hurd are going to put in a week of rest before the strenuous round of wedding parties for them begins next Monday. The daughter of the Vail R. Bucklins and the elder son of the Ellis Rhea Hurds will repeat their marriage vows after the Rev. Dudley Stark one week from next Saturday at 3:30 o'clock (the hour for their wedding is earlier than customary for afternoon weddings) in St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, and the Bucklins are giving a small reception immediately afterward in their apartment at 1415 Astor street.

Miss Bucklin will be attended by Miss Martha Lee as maid of honor and by Miss Betty Brawley and Miss Helen Johnson as bridesmaids. Miss Lee returned recently from Smith college, where she came down with the flu and is convalescing at the Ambassador hotel, where her parents, the T. George Lees, have an apartment. Mr. Hurd will have his brother, Rhea Jr., as best man, and V. Rhodes Bucklin Jr., the bride's brother; Francis Beidler, the groom's cousin; Harry Dow, Howard

Front Views and Profiles

THE other day a Chicago woman who had been invited to dinner at the home of a close friend telephoned back, upon receiving the message, to inquire as to the formality of the attire expected. The butler answered the telephone and surprised her by replying:

"I don't know whether madame's dressing or not, but I have to."

ONE of the most enviable jobs in the world certainly is that of Paul Gardner, the young director of the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery of Art, Kansas City's already famous museum. Mr. Gardner was in town yesterday on his way back from the east, where he has been negotiating for new purchases for the gallery. A slim, gentle mannered man with youthful dark eyes that belie his prematurely gray hair, he stopped off for a short visit with his friend, William Goodacre, long enough to meet and chat with some friends in front of Mr. Goodacre's log fire.

Mr. Gardner went to his Kansas City post from the Fogg museum at Harvard. Responsibility, surely, as well as pleasure, lie in his task of selecting things for the gallery, thus becoming a factor in the forming of public taste. He has a goodly sum to invest in art treasures, and a board of only three directors to advise with him. The only fly in the ointment, perhaps, is the stipulation made by Col. Nelson in his will that no piece of art be purchased before its creator had been dead 30 years. This keeps Matisse and Picasso, Cezanne and Rousseau, and most of the rest of the moderns out of the gallery and means, probably, that at such a time as their purchase is permitted the prices will be much higher. We suspect that the colonel's attention was drown to modern art at the time of the cubists, when "The Nude Descending the Staircase" and similar paintings were being shown, and the precautionary measure preventing such paintings was the 30 year after death clause in his will.

IN the morning mail, from a lady in West Allis, Wis.: "I'm a great admirer of Herald Kreutzberg's dancing. Will he come to Milwaukee? Why does he keep his head shaved? It surely gives an air of originality. I enclose a return envelope."

Lady, we made it a point to find out, so we could answer you. The last time we saw Mr. Kreutzberg was at a costume party and he wore a costume similar to that in which he appeared in "Turandot." He had long Chinese tassels suspended from his ears and a great red dot on his shaved pate. He sat at our left and we repressed a desire to ask him why he shaved his head, remembering meanwhile what some one said about it looking like a knee.

As soon as we got your letter we called him up, interrupting him, as it happened, in his rehearsal for a dance program to be given next Sunday at an Emerson house benefit. He said that he shaved it seven—or was it nine?—years ago for an important part in which he was appearing at the Berlin Opera house. Later he created some dances in which the shaved head was effective, and he got sort of used to it and so did other people, he said. . . But not us, we might add.

IN Milton Waldman's biography of Queen Elizabeth, "England's Elizabeth," there appears, on page 73, apropos negotiations for the hand of Elizabeth, the sentence:

"And when she drew De Quadra to her, murmuring that she would like to make him her father confessor . . . that she was no angel . . ."

And our Mae thinks that she's up to date.

THE latest story about a famous pair of Chicago twins concerns their behavior on a recent day when they suddenly appeared in the room where their parents were sitting. One little girl moved rapidly around the room, pawing at the air, and wriggling her derriere in amazing fashion. The other twin remained motionless, watching, with her arms folded, a rather glum expression on her face. It developed that they were playing Mickey Mouse, but as there is only one rôle of importance in the game, they took turns at being Mickey Mouse. The twin who was not Mickey Mouse that day had declined to accept an inferior rôle, so waited glumly, her expression indicating just wait, the next day she would show what Mickey Mouse really could be like.

Good Morning!

Miss Fane is a beautiful, popular, wealthy and widowed cinema star. Her whole life is wrapped up in her infant son, Michael.

The baby is lapped in luxury, surrounded by every care, and, be she working ever so far away on location during the day, Madeline Fane, when it is any way possible, drives home to Hollywood at night, that she may play with her baby before he goes to bed and, if he wants her to, rock him to sleep—despite the raised eyebrows of an efficient nurse.

The picture opens on such a day—and such a night . . .

Next morning early, before starting for the desert where she is making a picture, the mother stops in to kiss a wee sleeper good-by . . .

You've guessed what she finds. An empty crib. An open window. A blowing curtain . . .

The picture is a tragic and moving one. A tolling reverberation from the Lindbergh case that awakens vivid, heart-breaking memories. The story follows closely the occurrences of those terrible days when the world waited and watched fearfully, hopefully, hopelessly, furiously for some word of a curly haired tot—prey of human wolves more horrible by far than their four-legged brethren. But the film's ending, praise be!—is a happy one.

At first Miss Fane refuses to call the police. If the kidnapers want her money, they shall have it. That—and protection from the law—if they will only give her back her child . . .

But, at last, she changes her mind. And state and federal governments spring into action . . .

A desert woman to whom the screen actress had once been kind, stumbles on the lair of the criminals . . .

Dorothea Wieck plays the distraught mother with an intensity and simplicity that make the character harrowingly real. Baby LeRoy, cuddly, inarticulate little fellow that he is! is just himself and so—almost unbearably appealing. Alice Brady is good as the gabby, kind-hearted and not so dull rescuer, and other rôles are handled with intelligence. I bet Alan Hale, Jack LaRue and Dorothy Burgess loathed their rôles, but this didn't prevent their portraying the kidnapers effectively. The director made real life drama of his material—originally a story by Rupert Hughes.

"Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen" should serve a twofold purpose. It should inspire every patriotic citizen with caution, and a burning determination to make his country unsafe for fiends, and it should throw the fear of the Lord into the craven hearts of those who prey on the helpless. When good men and good laws work together consistently there will be no place in these United States where a kidnaper can lay his head; no spring from which he may drink; no face to smile upon him; no hand to give him bread—and a jolt of electricity at the end of the trail!

See you tomorrow!

Lovely and Pensive

This photograph of Miss Lydia Swift shows the lovely younger daughter of the Alden B. Swifts in a pensive mood. She is an active worker for the Emerson Settlement house, whose board is sponsoring a series of Sunday afternoon benefit programs. Next Sunday at the Blackstone theater Miss Ruth Page (Mrs. Thomas Fisher) and Harald Kreutzberg will dance, and the proceeds will help provide for the youngsters at the settlement. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Two Pianists Give Recitals of Importance

Mme. Novaes, Tomford Harris Delight Hearers

BY EDWARD MOORE.

There were two piano recitals of unusual importance in yesterday afternoon's list of musical happenings. Guiomar Novaes appeared at the Studebaker; Tomford Harris opened an uncommonly interesting series in Fullerton hall.

Mme. Novaes' recitals have without exception registered as events in the world of the piano. Yesterday's program made a leading number of the Liszt Sonata in B minor in a version somewhat abridged by Alexander Siloti.

From this she passed to a series of "Children's Scenes," composed by her husband, Octavio Pinto. They are clever bits, melodic, fully of rhythm, and with just enough of the tang of modern harmonization to give them point. Another notable number was a piano arrangement made by one Ritter of the Scherzo from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" music. It sounded both tricky and delightful at the same time. Mme. Novaes is a marvel with piano tone, with insistent rhythmic outbursts, and most of all with unfailing good taste.

Mr. Harris, a Chicagoan, gave the first of four recitals of twentieth century music, this one applying to French composers. His first group was an elaborate selection from Debussy, the last one an equally elaborate showing of Ravel. Between the two came another group of Honegger, Satie, Taillefer, Poulenc, and Milhaud.

Mr. Harris is striking in his command of the keyboard, and even more so in his knowledge of the music before him. Hearing one piece, you are delighted with his ability, hearing two or three or four you are charmed with the way he reproduces the thought of the composer.

The Civil Orchestra of Chicago, an organization in which talented musicians learn how to be orchestral players as well as soloists, played its first concert of the season yesterday afternoon under the direction of Eric De Lamarter. It is hereby tendered sincere compliments for its dealings with Borodin's First Symphony, a performance in which excellent tone, balance, and spirit all made themselves prominent to the sense of hearing.

Janet Fairbank, Chicago soprano, was the soloist, choosing an excerpt from Shreker's "Der Schatzgraeber" and two songs by Korngold for her solo group. Musical intelligence, the sense of fitness, the ability to project a mood are hers in large measure, and therefore she is entitled to the credit of a notable artistic success.

Two capacity audiences attended the close of the Chicago Grand Opera company's first season at the Civic Opera house on Saturday. The afternoon performance of "Turandot" brought in John Pane-Gasser to attend the glorious Turandot of Rosa Raisa, and he made a striking success of the appearance with his fine dramatic singing and excellent bearing. It was a first class cast throughout, with a lovely performance of Liu by Marion Talley and some excellent singing by Norman Cordon.

The final opera was the first this season of "Mignon," sold out days in advance because of the golden singing of Tito Schipa, who lived up to all expectations, but was by no means the single star of the performance. There were Coe-Glade and Chase Baromeo in the cast as well, Miss Glade fairly outdoing herself in the name part. Gennaro Papi conducted in the afternoon and Henry Weber in the evening.

Miss Hepburn to Bring Play to City Feb. 19

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Katharine Hepburn, the young actress whose rise to national fame in cinema productions has been the talk of the motion picture world during the last year, will begin an engagement in Chicago Feb. 19 in "The Lake," the drama with which she returned to the New York stage five weeks ago. She will appear in the Erlanger theater under the auspices of the American Theater society for an engagement of two weeks.

Miss Hepburn will bring her New York performances to a close Feb. 10 and will immediately start on tour. Her first booking will be in Pittsburgh, for the week of Feb. 12. Her company will probably include Frances Starr and Blanche Bates, who were stars in the drama's better days and whose performances in "The Lake" won praise from the New York critics. This play has a cast of 26 people.

"The Lake," written by Dorothy Massingham and Murray MacDonald, had a notable run in London last season. Its American staging as a vehicle for Miss Hepburn was made under the management and direction of Jed Harris.

Pauline Frederick, who was recently married for the fifth time, will spend her honeymoon on tour in "Her Majesty the Widow," the comedy in which she appeared in Chicago last summer. She begins an engagement in an outlying New York theater tonight. The Boulevard theater, Jackson Heights, New York City, is her present address for congratulatory telegrams.

"Girls in Uniform," the play from which the film of similar title was made, was staged for the first time in Chicago in the theater of the Jewish People's institute last Saturday. It will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Personally, we're not having any, thank you, but you'd be surprised at the people who've asked us about the artificial finger nails Antoinette Donnelly mentioned a short time back. Some people just want to know if she wasn't kidding; others want to know exactly what it's all about and if they really can be obtained.

Out of curiosity we watched an artificial fingernail-putting-on operation in a local shop the other day. We'll tell you about it and let you form your own opinions. The nails are of a very thin composition, transparent and much like celluloid in texture. The bits of celluloid must be shaped to fit your own nail, then spread on the under side with a mucilage. One at a time, the nails are fitted under the cuticle, over your own nail, then bound steady with rubber bands around the finger until the mucilage dries.

It's tedious, to say the very least, and if the operator isn't expert or if the drying doesn't go just according to plans, the ten little nails have been known to pop right off when the rubber bands are removed. Given time to dry, however, and with everything going along swimmingly, when bands are removed the upper part of the nail is shaped to suit your fancy. Then the operation takes on the routine of any manicure—with a bit of nail white followed by your favorite polish.

From that point on you've got new nails—but no one can say for how long. No typist could attempt them—and even the woman of leisure is apt to pop one any time she washes her hands or flicks a finger too carelessly.

We can see how they might serve a purpose for special occasions and you can have it done if you want to. But don't say we didn't tell you that they won't stay on forever.

The nails of thin gold or silver haven't arrived here yet, at least to our knowledge. We hear they're more serviceable—and they should be. They cost rather a lot. But who wants gold or silver finger tips all the time?

Take the New Hats and Learn to Like Them

BY RHEA SEEGER.

You nurse your blood pressure carefully when you shop for new hats. The strongest souls have reached that blissful state when nothing in the way of imbecile hats leaves a ripple of surprise.

The hats this season are the most surprising things you can clap on your head. The very silliest affair is the one that knocks you cold when it is safely anchored. The most sensible model is the one that lacks everything, even a shred of flattery. Take them as they are and like them more than you dreamed you could.

Funny little roll around models, such as the demurely checked duet in the photograph, are frankly naive. And how the busy fingered designers are going in for a "hat and" combinations this spring! For instance, the bib glorified in matching checked taffeta the same as the hat. Clever other ideas, an ascot or a cat's whisker bow sold together, do grand things for casual street costumes and simple wool suits.

Feathers shoot through strategic slits for no good reason at all . . . they slant askew over the ear, or skid dangerously around the curve of an intricately draped small hat of beret ancestry, and some perilous ascents are made with a gay dashing feather scooting skywards on the very edge of a tam that used to boast a tassel.

Big hats are coming in strong, shallow crowns with wide brims that cast flattering shadows over your face . . . the brims are dipped and curved most becomingly. Stunning felts have laced edges and a small tailored bow. Other large brimmed models made of taffeta are tremendously attractive with scalloped edges and quilted and stitched patterns on the brim, such as the large hat in the photograph.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt attended the morning service today in St. Thomas Episcopal church, where the President was a vestryman and Mrs. Roosevelt was a member of the Ladies' Aid society during their former period in Washington. They were accompanied by Mrs. Louis M. Howe, wife of the President's secretary, and Miss Laura Delano, both guests at the White House. This afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt occupied her box at the concert of the National Symphony orchestra, Hans Kindler, conductor, and had with her her house guests, Mrs. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pattison, the former a well known pianist, and Miss Delano. Tonight President and Mrs. Roosevelt had a small company of guests at dinner.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Ickes, wife of the secretary of the interior, were the principal guests at the celebrity breakfast of the National League of American Pen Women at the Willard.

In the afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt was the honor guest at the tea of the Colonial Dames given in their home, Dumbarton House, in Georgetown.

Mary Pickford in Gotham; Says Cranks Annoyed Her

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Mary Pickford arrived in New York today, without police guard and expressing belief that a man and woman who had annoyed her in Boston were "merely cranks."

Miss Pickford obtained services of two special guards in Boston last week after she had been approached by a man and woman who attempted to interest her in some "mysterious documents."

Miss Pickford will rest at a hotel this week preparatory to filling a Brooklyn stage engagement.

For Spring: Broad Brims and Narrow

A bib of light and dark checked taffeta tied under the chin. A tiny turned up brim hat also of matching two toned blue taffeta, quilted or stitched in squares. A twosome that will top smart street costumes for spring.

Big brims in taffeta and the taffeta quilted or stitched in floral patterns with shallow scalloped edges. Shallow crowns accent all the wider brims.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Laurie leaves and Barbara makes her presence known to Rance. She asks him to marry her.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

THE BARRIER OF CONVENTIONS.

"Supposing," said Rance, "you married me and woke up to find you were tied to a drunkard! Say—a man who went into terrible seasons of black depression—an animal in a stupor——"

"But then I'd be necessary to you," Barbara interrupted, laughing. "You can't frighten me that way! I almost wish it was so!"

"You are a ridiculous, romantic——"

"Ah no, Gregory," she said, putting out a hand to stop him. "It's the men who need us that we attach ourselves to! A woman is always a little helpless until she finds some weakness in her man."

"How can you know so much?" he said, opening his eyes.

"How did the Bronte sisters——"

"Wait," he broke in suspiciously. "You write, yourself?"

"Heavens, no!"

"Is that honest?"

"Absolutely. Why there's nothing complicated about me! I want to escape from my introspections, that's all. You don't mind my being a little intelligent, do you?" she added, looking up at him from under her eyelashes.

He waved aside the question with an impatient gesture.

"Let's go on. Suppose there is another woman now?"

"There is no one who means anything to you," she said decidedly.

"But suppose there was some one who had a hold over me?"

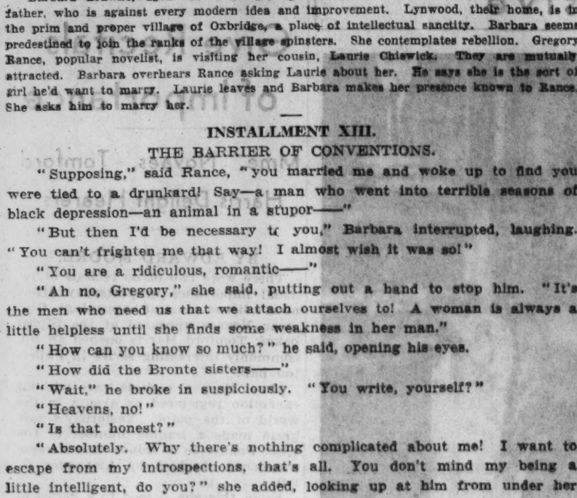
"Serious?"

He nodded.

"Do you hate her?"

"I never think of her one way or another."

She closed her eyes and smiled.



She went without turning, and disappeared through the trees.

"You frightened me for a moment."

All at once she looked at him.

"Are you married, Gregory?"

"I have been."

"She is dead?"

He shook his head.

"Divorced."

She stood up, trembling.

"Have you invented this to test me?"

"No."

"Children?"

"No, fortunately."

She stood gazing up the river with a sudden weakness in her knees.

"In the world outside, my world, the world you want to escape into, that would mean very little to a woman."

"Yes, I know," she said, covering her eyes.

"You see," he said, shaking his head.

"What kind of a woman was she?"

"Very charming, in a dramatic way—she dabbled in music."

"But why?"

"Why did we marry? A whim on her part. Curiosity on mine. Part of human experience you know. Rather illuminating. There was no great passion, and no great hatred. We drifted apart quite naturally. Seven years ago."

"I have no right to ask——"

"That depends."

"Yes, I know what you mean."

"So it's over before it's begun," he said, smiling bitterly.

"It's hopeless!" she cried in a tone of profoundest dejection.

"Now we have the real Barbara," he said amazed. "And this is the little rebel who was going to ride rough shod through all conventions!"

"I'm sorry," she said, looking down.

"I'm sorry, too."

"Well——"

She turned, made a little abrupt gesture of farewell, and left him. Gregory Rance, without rising, watched Barbara go.

"She will come back."

But she went without turning. He watched the little figure go slowly along the path, appearing and disappearing through the trees.

"Why did she take it like that?" he said to himself, staring at the vacant path. "Queer, she's almost made me believe in her. What is so upsetting in any one being divorced nowadays? For a woman who wants to be liberated this is a queer twist!" He turned his hat in his hand, gave a last look down the path, and, going to the gate, valuted over it. "Damn women anyhow! Why the devil do they want us to see them as they aren't?" He stopped, filled his pipe, and continued slowly. The more he thought over the abruptness of her change of front the more mystified he remained. He turned in to the Chiswicks' to find every one out, went to his room and stood at the window gazing down the valley.

"She was sort of different," he said, meditating. "There were possibilities. Not commonplace at all." He remembered the thrill of her lips and the leap of her body to his. "By God, if I loved any one like that nothing would stop me," he thought irritably, forgetting that he had gone to close the incident. He went to the bookcase, took out a volume or two, and decided he didn't want to read. It was half an hour still to lunch. He flung himself down on the bed, hands under his head, and began to stare at the ceiling.

His experience with women had not been extensive or complicated. He had always distrusted them and resented them with a certain irony. Because he had never been really in love, he had seen them in their more obvious aspects. As a writer they seemed to him that embodiment of a blind fate that waited at the turn of a corner to divert real men from the control of their destinies. A man was a glorious, free animal, arbiter of his own fortunes, a creator in big or little ways—a gypsy singing over the paths of adventure until a woman crossed his path. After that the great mystification—the comedy, endlessly repeated—the man believing in the durability of his passion, the woman lending herself to the illusion to enhance her value or to absorb his energies for her children.

A man was but a blind instrument in the grip of the arresting force of woman's instinct to maternity. There were but two genuinely unselfish passions in the world—friendship between men, the love of her child in a woman. Because he had adored his mother, who had understood him and never opposed the driving impulses in him, he conceded the right of the woman to subordinate her mate to the greater instinct. As for the women who refused to be mothers or, having children, sacrificed them to their pleasures, he regarded them as enemies of society. They were destructive forces. They existed to dissipate the laborious creative energies of men. They were wasters and comediennes to whom no quarter should be granted. He felt the obsession of the woman in literature and society, and resented it with contemptuous, brusque invective. Whenever a friend confided to him his sentimental misfortunes he would reply, "The cure for one woman is another."

Nevertheless he had married and, though to himself, in a sort of defiant self-justification he often proclaimed that he had married one woman to protect himself from the rest, it was not true,

Richardson, and Dunrieth Lee Hawkins will usher.

Miss Margaret Goehst is giving a magazine and "vice" shower for Miss Bucklin Thursday afternoon in her home on Bellevue place. Her guests will bring magazine subscriptions or any gift that could be used as an accessory in the "vices" of smoking, drinking, gambling, and cards.

Evening Parties to Begin on Monday.

Next Monday the evening parties begin. The bride's aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. George M. Fiske, are giving a dinner that evening at the Ambassador hotel, with just the bridal party and one or two other close friends of Miss Bucklin—one will be Miss Alice Castleman of Louisville, Ky., who is going to be here for the wedding festivities. She has often visited the bride during the past few years.

Tuesday night Miss Johnson has invited the bridal party out to her home in Evanston for dinner, and the next night Miss Lee is giving a dinner at the Ambassador for Miss Bucklin and Mr. Hurd and their attendants and a few close friends, and taking the party down to the Palmer house Empire room later to dance. Thursday evening the spinster and bachelor dinners will be held. Miss Brawley is giving the spinster dinner and the groomsmen will dine at the Chicago Athletic association. They will join forces later.

Mr. and Mrs. Bucklin are giving the bridal dinner at the Casino club on the eve of the wedding.

Mr. Hurd and his bride will be away a short while on their wedding trip, and upon their return to Chicago they will be at home at 1400 Lake Shore drive.

St. Louis Newlyweds Come Here to Live.

A young bride who has just come to Chicago to live is Mrs. Elliott Fairbanck, the former Jane Frances Smith, daughter of Mrs. Claude H. Smith of 19 Princeton place, St. Louis. She was married to the son of the Dickson Fairbacks, also of St. Louis, last Saturday, in the Church of the Ascension in St. Louis, and she and her bridegroom are at home at 1220 State parkway until they can find an apartment to their liking.

Mrs. Fairback was graduated from Holton Arms in Washington, D. C., and made her debut in St. Louis two years ago.

Miss Jeanne Street and her sister, Miss Katherine Street, have invited two dozen of their friends to come to a luncheon Wednesday for Miss Florence Otis, who is soon to be married to Wade Fetzer, and Mrs. George Curtis Bird, the former Barbara Senn. One of the other guests will be Miss Nancy Lee of Denver, who was Miss Jeanne Street's roommate at Mount Vernon seminary.

There will be at least one good party for the post-debutante crowd next Saturday afternoon for the "bored" directors of 41 East Division street have declared open doors to their friends. According to the invitations the establishment has always been solvent, but its assets are spread all over Chicago and Cicero, and so for inventory's sake they need their friends on that day. The directors who signed the invitations are Aggie McDonald, Charlie Ross, Les Knight, "Oats" Morgan, "Stewie" Boal, and Tom Luckenbill, who, needless to say, all make their home in the Division street house.

Party Today for French Educator and Wife.

This noon in her home on North State parkway, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, president of the council of the Alliance Française, is giving a luncheon for M. and Mme. Francis Fuellan of Paris, who are touring the United States. M. Ruellan is the maitre des conferences at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes in Paris, and also the conferencier officiel of the Alliance Française, so that organization is delighted at his appearance in Chicago.

Because of his limited time in Chicago, M. Ruellan is going to give a special "conference" on "Sailors and Peasants of Brittany" at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the library of the alliance in the Fine Arts building. Among the guests at Mrs. Dewey's luncheon will be Robert Hall McCormick, president of the alliance, Prof. and Mrs. Henry David of the University of Chicago, Arthur Meeker Jr., M. Strauss, the French vice consul, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cross of Northwestern university, Mrs. Ralph Winston, and Mrs. Moise Dreyfus.

Rex Bensons Take Part in Palm Beach Gayety.

The Rex Bensons, who spent Christmas here with Mrs. Benson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Volney Foster, are now in Palm Beach taking part in the gay whirl there, according to our correspondent. Maj. Benson, Capt. Boyd Rochfort, Frank Carter, and Maj. Pryce Harrison gave a dinner the other night at the Beach club at which the Wolcott Blairs of Chicago were among the guests.

Capt. Rochfort and Mr. Carter are visiting Joseph E. Widener, Philadelphia-Newport sponsor of the Hialeah race track; the Bensons are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn and their daughter, Mrs. John Barry Ryan and Maj. Harrison is visiting the Herbert Pulitzers.

The dinner was given by this foursome in repayment of social obligations. Mrs. Benson was indisposed and so was unable to be there. Maj. Benson is playing polo daily and took part Tuesday in a round robin match at the Gulf Stream polo grounds, near Palm Beach, that was attended by many of the smart colony.

Maj. Hubbard Named Everglades Club Director.

Maj. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, who will be joined shortly by his wife, the former Muriel McCormick, has been added to the board members of the Everglades club, which is regaining the prestige it had in the days when its founder and president, the late Paris Singer, was living and endowed it so richly. His son, Cecil Singer, has succeeded him as president and soon will arrive at Palm Beach with his family from England. The annual fancy dress ball at the club usually is the largest and most brilliant affair of the winter, but this year the President's birthday ball tomorrow evening is eclipsing all other social affairs. It is to be at the club and Hugh Dillman is chairman of the committee in charge of it.

Mrs. Lucius P. Ordway, a former Lake Forester who now lives on Long Island, gave a small dinner at the Beach club recently for the Stephen L. Sanfords. Mr. Sanford is a noted polo player and a friend of the prince of Wales, who chose Mrs. Ordway as his dancing partner at a dinner dance Wolcott Blair gave for him when he visited Chicago about eight years ago. Mrs. Sanford is the former Mary Duncan, attractive actress, and she and her husband are being entertained much in Palm Beach this winter, our correspondent writes.

Paul Hamlins Going South and Miss Wingfield West.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hamlin and Mrs. Hamlin's daughter, Miss Jeanne Wingfield, are setting out Thursday from Chicago on midwinter vacations, but they are going in opposite directions.

The Hamlins are traveling south by easy stages to the time mellowed Yeaman's hall, near Charleston, S. C., as their ultimate destination. Going by motor they will be able to visit other old and historic spots in about the hills of Virginia and the Carolinas.

Miss Wingfield is heading for the Pacific coast, where she lived until a year ago. She will visit her good friend, Miss Harriet Snyder in Pasadena for six weeks. It will be remembered that Miss Snyder visited Miss Wingfield in Chicago last summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Gardner left Saturday night for Florida to be away until April. During their absence their daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Gardner, and their son, John Hoyt Gardner, will "keep house" in the Gardner home in Highland Park. If young Mr. Gardner's vacation corresponds with the date that his parents for their return to Chicago he will drive south and motor them home.

Screen Needs Real Actors, De Mille Says

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Cecil B. De Mille, who employed 15,000 persons last year, says there are many actresses but no real actors in Hollywood.

"Welfare organizations and humane societies urge that no one come to the studios, saying they are crowded and there is no chance for the newcomer," De Mille asserted. "They are right, of course, from their standpoint. But the message could simultaneously be broadcast to the whole world that Hollywood needs real actors.

"It needs people who can play difficult and exacting rôles, men who, for instance, can impersonate the perfect gentleman. We often have to send to England for these actors."

De Mille would like very much to find a man who looks as if he had led great armies of classical history, a brawny, powerful man who can also appear romantic.

De Mille said there is a tremendous holdover of gangster types and that they are unsuitable for the kind of pictures he likes to make.

"Pictures dealing with religious and spiritual things," De Mille said, "especially the Bible, are always compensating, and in more than a monetary way. I have had many letters attesting to the other benefits."

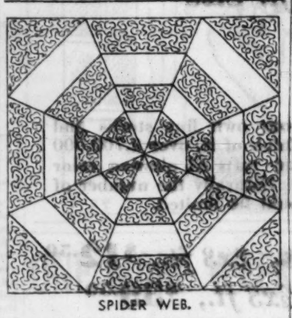
Quilt's Variable Design Gives It Distinctive Charm



SPIDER WEB.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This attractive pieced quilt is a most surprising pattern. Its charm lies in the fact that it never looks the same twice and is perpetually intriguing. The "Spider Web" pattern has several modifications. One is the Mystic Maze. It is a rather difficult quilt to piece but a treasure when completed.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send five cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn street.

Child of Today Often Mature for His Years

He's Prone to Make Wise Comments on Life.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"Children didn't use to be like this, I'm sure," said a woman the other day. Of course you never can know what you were like as a child yourself, or what your friends were like. But I'm morally certain that we didn't think and talk things out the way the children do powadays."

Aren't they amazing? You have to be with them a lot to realize it—but they are. Listen in on this discussion of education between some boarding school children on vacation and a grownup friend:

"Well, how was the new school? Did you like it better than the old one?" was the grownup's question.

"In some ways I did," was the answer. "For one thing the kids aren't so young—at least they don't seem so. They're not so silly—well, I mean—they fool around and they're silly, but it's not in the same kind of way. At B—— they didn't seem to have much sense."

"Were they mostly the children of very wealthy people at B——?"

"Yes, and maybe that was it," was the answer. "Maybe they hadn't been around with their mothers and fathers a lot, so they could learn things. Some of the boys had been going there since they were little. Maybe they'd always had nurses or governesses."

"And perhaps that's why they hadn't developed as much as the children at the school you're at now, where they come from families of moderate incomes," volunteered his listener.

"Yes, that sounds like it," he said, and stopped a minutes—then:

"I think having children's kind of an art," he burst out spontaneously. "You watch them grow and you talk to 'em, and you try to shape them and give 'em the right ideas, and let them meet your friends that you think it will be interesting for them to know—you try to make them into an idea you have. It's kind of an art.

"And being with your parents instead of with nurses and school masters all the time makes you more of an individual. I guess that's what's the matter with those boys at B—— school. Of course I suppose I've got a lot of ideas like my parents' ideas about things—I couldn't help it. But it makes you more of an individual just the same when you're with your parents a lot and they're interested in you."

This is a bona fide conversation. The lad is 14. A mature man or woman couldn't have done a much clearer piece of thinking or criticism. They're a surprising brood—these youngsters we're hatching out today.

Women's Club Heads to Hear Talk Today on Russian Ballet

Boris Anisfeld, instructor in painting at the Art institute, will explain the Russian ballet and its history to a group of presidents of women's clubs at a luncheon in the Auditorium hotel today at 12:30. The meeting is for the purpose of planning a women's club night at one of the performances of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, world famous dancers, which will open at the Auditorium theater Feb. 16.

Anisfeld worked with the Diaghilev group of ballet dancers when they visited this country 18 years ago. The Monte Carlo group, which includes some of Diaghilev's troup, was formed after his death in 1930.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Niles P. Frandsen of Chicago announce the engagement of their daughter, Margery Honor, to Frederick P. Maas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Marley of Wilmette. Both Miss Frandsen and Mr. Maas are graduates of Northwestern university in the class of 1932.

These Tricky Hats Are Up to Minute and Easily Copied

WOMEN'S OR MISSES' HATS.

Here are three smart hats which you should be able to copy easily. "A" is a tricky little model of black felt with the forward tilt. "B" is a black satin toque, with a bow to lend that upward movement, and "C" is a jaunty brimmed felt with grosgrain ribbon. These hats require the minimum of material.

The pattern, No. 3301, comes in small, medium and large sizes.

Stream Lines Characterize Spring Figures

Buxom Curves Are Passe for New Season.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's difficult to look upon the streamline motor car bodies without asking what's to be done with the Mae West figure inside one of them. If you have been to any of the recent automobile shows, you'll know what I mean about trying to crowd a fulsome figure into one of those low-slung, long-lined cars. And we hear, too, that the airships and trains are taking to the same streamline models.

It sounds like the West silhouette is dead. Vive la streamline, again!

Anyway, that's what you're hearing around the fashion centers. You can't maneuver a Victorian figure into a modern car. And, since we're living in the modern age, we have to fit ourselves to meet its emergencies. Not that we think women ever fell very hard for the voluminous lines, either of drapery or flesh; they just liked to talk about it and dream of the day when they might order a third helping of dessert. Once having tasted that freedom of spirit that the unburdened silhouette provided, it seems impossible to convert women to fulsome curves again.

So, if I have to begin talking silhouette again, and streamline silhouette at that, don't blame me. It's spring fashion's whim. Not whim, I mean, but order. To hear the fashion authorities talk about it, there will be less of us than ever wanted to hold up the spring styles. Maybe we'll be no little reminder of the flapper era with straight up and down lines, unbroken, this spring. For that's what we're told is on the calendar.

Better, then, be looking the silhouette over sharply for knobs and welts that might dim the glory of the straight, unbroken line. Perhaps we women had better make up our minds, right here and now, that there "ain't going to be no plump glory-hallelujah days on this earth for us." It's just going to be one reducing orgy after another.

I speak of this now because we have a couple of good working months before the Easter Sunday parade. And, after all, parading a bumptious frame around on Easter doesn't promise half the fun that turning out, in a 1934 streamline body, will be.

Lupe Velez Makes Up with Weissmuller After a Day

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—The "trial separation" of Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller ended after one day. After moving out of the family domicile last Wednesday, Weissmuller apparently moved back the next day. Asked today when he and Lupe had "made up," he replied gayly, "O, the next day." The couple attended a professional football game this afternoon at Wrigley field.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Kaden of 3800 Lake Shore drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence Lillian, to Julius E. Solomon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Solomon of 6331 Glenwood avenue.

Dad Must Oust Unwanted Beau of Adolescent

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What can we mothers do to stop 15, 16, and 17 year old daughters from going out with men friends aged 28 to 30 and over? I heard not long ago of one mother having the man arrested after bringing her daughter home from high school. There must be some other way than this, as the publicity would be undesirable. The girls are too young to understand how badly it looks, and a mother can talk all she may without results. "MOTHER."

Where are the fathers of the girls? What sort of parents are these men, whose duty toward children is just as responsible as a mother's part?

This particular problem, offered today, is one for the male parent to dispose of in short order. He could do it were he worth his salt as a parent. All he would have to do would be to put in an appearance when the mature suitors appeared bringing a daughter home. The mere fact of his protection toward the girl would inspire something in the men that would send them off on their way. Or, this failing, father could express himself in true masculine fashion, and make it known that the undesirable company would be tolerated no longer.

True, mothers of girls of the ages named, who have lost control, as expressed by the writing female parent above, are to blame for a condition of wilfullness exhibited in the young girls' defiance. But mothers failing, where are the fathers in emergencies of the sort? It's a tragic commentary on parents that girls in their tender years are so far removed from their confidence as to set up any such defiant conduct. The girls are not to blame, nor are the conditions of the day. The latter is merely the alibi of poor parenthood. But again, we say, where are the fathers? Have they no interest in their offspring? Have they no care about what becomes of their girls, how they may be talked about, what they are doing with their lives? Shame on you, male parents, who wash your hands of all responsibility.

"Heart Shaped Parties for Valentine's Day," a booklet containing menus and recipes for early February parties, is on sale at the Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 2 cents. By mail, 3 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Did you get back to our section in yesterday's whopping big paper? Then you should be right up in the betting as to what today's subject may be. For I confess that this editor-cook got so ambitious and a-tither over those southern pies—vinegar pie, chess pie, shoofly pie, amber pie, and such—that she collected just too many of them all to go into one day's seance. So, since a good manager never minds leftovers, and since two or three good pies found themselves out in the cold yesterday, I vote we go southern again today and wind up the matter with three more pies of distinction. Vote carried!

Yesterday we encountered a shoofly pie [whataname!] and today comes one rather much like it. One southern homemaker does it this way:

MOLASSES PIE.

½ teaspoon flour
¾ cup sugar
3 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup molasses
¼ teaspoon each mace and cinnamon
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift together the flour and sugar, and add the eggs, beating thoroughly. Add the molasses and beat until perfectly smooth. Stir in the flavorings and pour into a pastry lined pie plate. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until firm.

And did you ever hear of Osgood pie? 'Twas a new one on me not so long ago. It also seems to belong to the same spicy, egg bound custard family.

OSGOOD PIE.

4 eggs
1½ cups sugar
1 tablespoon butter, melted
3 teaspoons vinegar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup raisins
1 cup chopped nuts

Separate the eggs and beat the yolks until light and fluffy. Add to this the melted butter, sugar, vinegar, and cinnamon. Stir in the raisins and nuts and turn into two pie pans which have been lined with pastry. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until firm.

As for this next we won't swear to its blue blooded southern ancestry, but we do happen to know it as a well behaved and much admired dinner follower. Also it's name and nature seem to suggest that it would be in good company among these Dixie pastries. Introducing:

TAFFY PIE.

2 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups brown sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 tablespoon butter, melted
2-3 cup chopped pecans
2 teaspoons water

CRUST.

1½ cups finely rolled ginger snaps
1-3 cup butter
1 tablespoon sugar

Prepare the crust first by blending the softened butter with the ginger snap crumbs and the white sugar. Press this mixture firmly against the bottom and sides of a buttered pie pan. Add the vanilla and brown sugar to the beaten eggs, then add the melted butter, water, and nuts. Stir all together and pour into the lined pie plate. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for half an hour, or until firm.

SWEETHEART, I WANT YOU AND YOUR DAZZLING SMILE FOR LIFE..
Now don't let dingy, yellowish, ugly-looking teeth stand in the way of happiness. If you are one of those who have tried perhaps a dozen different ways to make your teeth attractive, we urge you to try Kolynos—the dental cream that acts differently from any preparation you have ever used.
You use Kolynos just as you would any ordinary toothpaste—with these two exceptions ... use only half as much and put it on a dry brush. Don't wet your brush. You'll see results almost at once. Your teeth will gain a new sparkle, new lustre, new whiteness.
This scientific dental cream cleans and whitens teeth so much better and faster because it contains certain properties not found in ordinary tooth-paste. It contains the finest cleansing and whitening agents known to science PLUS an important ingredient—an antiseptic that dental authorities say should be added to remove the "bacteria plaque" which makes teeth look so dingy and dull.
This extra-cleansing improves teeth as nothing else can. You'll find it quickly makes your teeth whiter—shades whiter.
We say try Kolynos. See for yourself how its unique action brightens and whitens teeth. Get a tube of this amazing dental cream from your druggist today.

SEMI-ANNUAL SALES for the HOME

Note for the last time, in all probability, these extremely low prices on really fine merchandise

After thorough investigation at the sources of home furnishings (and we've been to the best ones) we speak with authority. Prices have risen on everything—tremendously on the fine things you are accustomed to finding here. Buy now in this sale, which was planned before that rise, and choose from an array of things for the home that's brilliant with value, as brilliant as the values on this page indicate.

CURTAINS

Dotted Ruffled Curtains

Extra wide, extra long, and extra fine, these curtains of marquisette with white cushion dots. A generously deep, fluffy ruffle edges them and they're made in the smart Priscilla style. In white, ecru or cream color. 48 in. wide and 2½ yds. long. Shown at the left.

Sea Net Panels, $1.28 pair

A smart new curtain, just recently introduced and presented here for the first time at this exceptionally low price. Its mesh is large, square and open, and they come in a warm ecru color. They're hemmed on sides and bottoms with each side 35 in. wide. Not shown.

Curtains, Sixth Floor.

FLOOR COVERINGS

Sarouks

Approximately 9x12 ft. Size

$185

Magnificent oriental rugs selected from our own fine stocks and priced dramatically low for this great event. Think of it, over 2,700,000 tufts of wool yarn in each rug—just that many tufts of glowing color woven into the most intricately lovely patterns. Naturally the number of such rugs at such an unheard of low price would be limited.

Sarouk Scatter Rugs, 2x3 ft., $12.50
2x4 ft., $27.50 2½x5 ft., $39.50

Woven with the same skill and attention to design and coloring as are their big brothers shown above. Exquisitely fine and rich in texture—and as you can see, extremely low priced.

Broadloom Carpeting

In 3 Sale Groups

Fine and Durable $2.45 sq. yd.

High Pile Quality $4.45 sq. yd.

Imported Chenille $6.95

At the lowest of the prices the quality is fine—imagine what it is at the highest of them! 9 ft., 12 ft. and 15 ft. widths. At each price there is a fine choice of colors.

27-in. Carpeting, $1.75 yd., Installed

We've sold thousands of yards of this carpeting at a price far higher—even then it was an outstanding value. Its fine quality is apparent the minute you see it. The choice of colors is unusually extensive. Lining is extra, according to kind chosen.

Floor Coverings, Ninth Floor.

FURNITURE

Occasional Chair, $14.50

No furbelows, just smart simplicity, fine lines and expert construction. The legs and arms of solid mahogany—the coverings of damask or tapestry.

Tapestry Love Seat $59.50

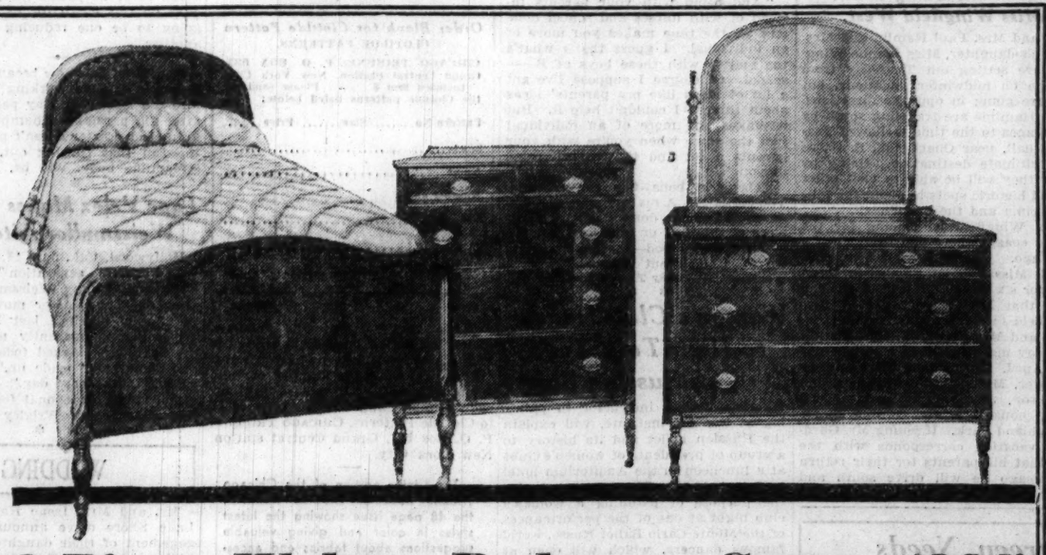
Hair filled with down cushions! That's about all we need say to prove that it's unusual at its price. Covered in tapestry in either blue, rust or green.

This Sofa

$69.50

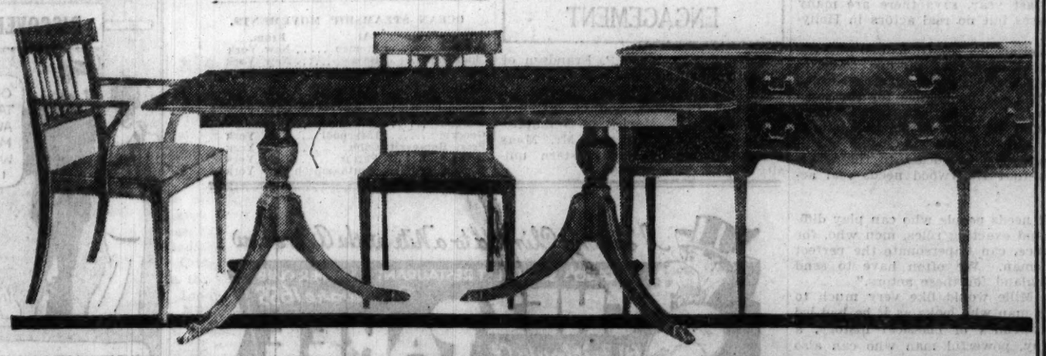
Exactly the same as the love seat above except for its size—and just as outstanding a value at its price. Also covered in tapestry in rust or blue.

Furniture, Sixth Floor.



3-Piece Walnut Bedroom Group, $99.50

An unassuming set of walnut with gumwood that relies on its fine simplicity of line for smartness—that, in addition to the exquisite graining of the wood. Here's fine workmanship and design at an unusually low price. Individually the pieces shown and additional ones are priced: Dresser, $39.50; chest, $35; bed, $25; vanity, $39.50; night stand, $12.50; bench, $12.50.



All-Mahogany Dining Room Set, $170.25

In fine 18th century design. This low price includes eight pieces—six chairs, unusually good-looking, the table with a double-Duncan-Phyfe pedestal base and the buffet. The mahogany has all been beautifully matched for most effective graining and rubbed to a rich warm tone. Pieces sold separately if desired.

Furniture, Sixth Floor.

DRAPERIES

Nub Weave Damask Draperies

$6.95 pair

Rather modern in design but smart in rooms done in most any period of decoration. Lined with sateen, and with pleated tops. In colors of green, rust, rose, red, brown, and gold. The tie backs are 85c pair.

Printed Crash Draperies

$5.95 pair

Exceptionally well made with all the fine details found usually only in draperies made to order. Of part linen crash printed in very colorful designs. Of 50 inch material, they are pinch pleated and lined with sateen. The tie backs are 85c pair. Not shown.

Draperies, Sixth Floor.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 28.—Scoring one touchdown and a safety on blocked kicks and two touchdowns on passes, the Chicago Bears, professional football champions of the world, defeated an all-star team, 23 to 0, before an overflow crowd of 25,000 at Wrigley field today. Bill Hewitt, star Chicago end, made two of the touchdowns, and Jack Manders one. Manders kicked the three extra points from placement.

BILL HEWITT.

The Bears found themselves opposed by the roughest opposition encountered on their unbeaten invasion of the far west.

Is There a Doctor Present?

Carlson suffered an injury to his neck when he tackled Jim Musick, all-star full back, in the third quarter. He was taken unconscious from the field, but returned to the game in the fourth period, after two other guards, Zeller and Pearson, had been forced out. Zeller wrenched his right shoulder and Pearson suffered a wrenched right knee. Sisk was knocked out near the end of the third period and hobbled off with an injured right foot.

Karr was banged about so hard that he had to be withdrawn finally after being kicked in the stomach. But for every Chicago player who suffered an injury the Los Angeles bench also received a victim.

The Bears went into the lead on the fifth play of the game. They kicked off to the All-Stars. Three plays failed to advance the ball and on the next play Link Lyman tackled Musick so hard the ball squirted into the air. George Musso recovered on the 25 yard line.

Hewitt Goes Over.

While the coast boys were arguing Carl Brumbaugh called a forward pass. Ronzani dived through the right side of the line and confused the Los Angeles secondary, while Bill Hewitt loped off to the left, took a 10 yard pass and romped the last 15 yards to a touchdown. Manders place kicked the extra point.

The Bears kept Los Angeles busy working out of the hole the rest of the period with punts that rolled out or landed dead inside the 15 yard line.

When line plays failed Caddell dropped back to punt, but Karr broke through, blocked the kick, and fell on the ball beyond the end line for a safety.

The third quarter, which was scoreless, ended with Ronzani throwing two spectacular passes. The first one went to Manders, who continued 30 yards to Los Angeles' 25 yard line.

Passes Fill Air.

Ronzani arched his next pass to Grange and Red shook off several tacklers to reach the five yard line. Los Angeles held here as the fourth quarter started. The Bears tried a pass on fourth down and Barrager intercepted it to return to his 15 yard line. Max Krause found a hole good for 12 more yards on the first play, but Hewitt nailed Saunders and Krause for losses on the next two plays and Kawal broke through to block Krause's punt on the 11 yard line. Hewitt pushed one Californian aside as he charged through to fall on the ball for a touchdown.

Los Angeles showered passes in the remaining period of play, stopping only when Carlson intercepted one. He lateraled the ball to Ronzani, who reached the All-Stars' 20 yard line. A spread formation with Ronzani forwarding to Battles, who lateraled to Brumbaugh, advanced the ball to the 12 yard line.

Manders scored on the next play, another spectacular combination pass formation. He took Brumbaugh's long lateral on the dead run toward his own right end and, slipping a diving tackle by Apsit outraced the secondary to the goal.

ONE MORE WEEK TO ENTER GOLDEN GLOVES, FELLOWS

Resume Examinations Again Tonight.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[ENTRY BLANK ON FOLLOWING PAGE.]

Physical examinations for Golden Gloves candidates will be resumed tonight at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. All boys who received letters of instruction to report tonight must be present between the hours of 6:30 and 8:30 p. m.

Other examinations this week have been set for Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Entries close next Saturday at midnight. Each boy who has filed an application, and more than 1,400 now have written to THE TRIBUNE, has received an answer. Nearly a hundred ambitious youths were disqualified because they were not 16 years of age. The others have been assigned nights on which to take their physical examinations. So far about nine per cent have been turned down by the staff of physicians.

Novice Division Largest.

If the number of applications warrants [and the average now is 50 per day exclusive of team entries] a physical examination will be held Friday night. If not, next Monday assuredly will be one of the nights. With the closing of entries Saturday the final physical examinations will be made a week from Wednesday after which time the program for the West sectional tournament, Feb. 12, 13, and 14 at the 132d Infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets, will be drawn up.

The Novice division, always the largest, has increased this year with the announcement that the eight Chicago champions will be taken to New York with the Golden Gloves intercity squad. This will increase the size of the team to 32 although the Novice fighters in theory are not eligible to meet New York in the 16 bouts at Madison Square Garden on March 28.

CCC Files Entries.

Arthur Greer, a member of the Camp Skokie Civilian Conservation corps, Company 609, has entered several of the boys who are out at Glenview. They are seeking Golden Gloves titles in the Novice division. The interest also has spread to other organizations and clubs in addition to those which are well known, such as the Catholic Youth Organization, the Belle Plaine Athletic club, and Trafton's gymnasium.

Joseph D. Lohman of the North Side Area project of the Institute of Juvenile Research at St. Mathews' church, has entered a team of boys. Most of these will be examined this week. These boys have a gymnasium, showers, and boxing equipment, much of which they supplied themselves or built and they have enthusiastically entered in the quest for amateur boxing titles. The boys range from 16 to 21 years of age and are entered in all eight weight divisions.

Blue Island Boxers Enter.

The South End Boxing club of Blue Island, Ill., which is directed by John L. Mangold, 13411 South Western avenue, also will appear for examinations this week. Several of the Blue Island boys are said to be exceptionally good boxers and the club is hopeful that it will win several championships.

C. Y. O. Squad Strong.

Pete King, coach of St. Patrick's C. Y. O. squad, 8610 Manistee avenue, South Chicago, asserts that his boys will compare with any team in the city. In fact, Mr. King is sure that his boxers can take the measure of all of them. And the boys intend to prove it in the Golden Gloves tournament. Among the boxers entered are:

Connie Stack, featherweight; Al Wistert, lightweight; Steve Stafko, lightweight; Chester Dregman, lightweight; Mike Krizmas, welterweight; Chuck Harmisch, middleweight; Roy Uckman, middleweight; Ted Lopas, middleweight; Otto Fischal, middleweight; Mike Valentes, heavyweight, and Walter Zork, light heavyweight.

The Opal Athletic and Benevolent association, which in other years has sent several strong candidates into the Golden Gloves tournaments, also will be represented.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

FRONT offices of most baseball clubs never put more than two players' wives within ear shot of each other at the ball parks . . . Pitchers' wives usually are carefully segregated from mates of the fielders. . . . The infielders' little women blame poor pitching for misadventures and the brides of the pitchers yell murder when an infielder boots one while papa is pitching. . . . You probably have guessed by now what this would lead to if all the wives were seated in a group. . . Not that they aren't all fine gals, but you can't blame 'em for being prejudiced. . . . Mike Layden, sophomore football player, is the basketball water boy at Notre Dame. . . . He had the job long before his brother Elmer was made athletic director.

BOB QUINN.

Bob Quinn, business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was not allowed to keep a scrap book when he was young because his mother was afraid it would make him chesty. . . . His son, Bob Jr., is a Dominican priest in Oak Park. . . . Enterprising photographers forgot to include Les Patrick, manager, and Harry Westerby, trainer, in the pictures of those five New York Rangers who have been with the same hocky team for 400 games. . . . Will Snow, last of the high wheel sulky drivers and one of the most widely known trainers of pacers and trotters, has retired at the age of 72 after fifty-three years in racing. . . . Bill Garber, world's pole vault champion, will be graduated from Southern California Feb. 5. . . . He will leave Los Angeles by plane the following day and will compete in the Boston A. A. games on Feb. 10.

La Salle street friends of Jimmy Norris, owner of the Peconic stable, will find him in Detroit where he is handling the Red Wing hocky team, which he and his dad own. . . . They formerly were associated with Tom Shaughnessy when Chicago had a team in the American Hocky association. . . . Jimmy's hosses have been turned out until spring. . . . A Big Ten basketball official, nervous because of inexperience in major league competition, recently put his thumb in his mouth instead of the whistle and began to blow. . . . The Illini are hopeful that Jack Beynon, regular guard, will have recovered from an injury in time to join the basketball team next week. . . . Horace Tennes, outboard motor racer, is a sophomore at Northwestern and will represent his school in the international races in Miami next month. . . . Bowler Davis, Wisconsin state amateur golf champion, is a member of the Badger track squad. . . . He is a hurdler.

Doris Davenport, daughter of Ira Davenport, famous Maroon track athlete, has applied for admission to next year's freshman class on the Midway. . . . Doris placed second among the girls in a ten mile Mississippi swim last summer. . . . Her father owns the biggest boat building works on the Mississippi, at Dubuque, and employs the father of Jay Berwanger, Chicago football player, who was voted the school's candidate for THE TRIBUNE'S most valuable player trophy. . . . Tom Clarke, former Cincinnati catcher, was the first to tell Christy Mathewson that he was through as a pitcher. . . . After batting against Matty for years and never getting so much as a foul ball, he doubled one day and as he rounded first he shouted: "Matty, old boy, you're through." . . . Maybe Gabby Hartnett will get even with Lefty Grove yet. . . . Wilfrid Smith is passing the cigars. . . . It's a boy.

Southern California is taking up rugby, the game that replaced American football for years on the Pacific coast. . . . The Bears collected 30 per cent of yesterday's receipts in the Los Angeles football game. . . . It is reported that George Halas will come home with coins jingling in every pocket. . . . Basketball officials have been taking a lot of undeserved booing on Big Ten courts this winter. . . . Most of it centers around possession of the ball after a man has been pushed out of bounds. . . . According to an interpretation agreed upon a year ago a player who is shoved out of bounds retains possession of the ball. . . . It used to be that it went to the other team. . . . More than 2,600 reservations, exclusive of student tickets, have made for the Marquette-Notre Dame basketball game at Milwaukee, and it will not be played until March 10.

Coach Olson of the Ohio State five, after Conrad, one of his players, had been ejected from a recent game on four personal fouls was heard to say: "If you had to foul, why do it right in front of the officials? . . . Purdue has asked Marquette for a basketball game in 1935. . . . Buck Newsom, drafted by the St. Louis Browns from Los Angeles, was voted the most valuable player in the Coast league last season.

Ten years ago today: Johnny Layton set a world's record by defeating Augie Kleckhefer in 26 innings in a 50 point three cushion match. . . . Battling Siki, Senegalese fighter, arrived in Chicago. . . . Bud Taylor won a ten round decision from Herbie Schaeffer in East Chicago. . . . United States Golf association officials were planning to adopt a liveller ball.

Silver Skates Entries Cheer Zero Weather

Zero weather, which arrived yesterday, also brought promise that the Silver Skates Derbies can be held. Although no definite date has been set, the Derbies may be held Wednesday night.

While it has been customary in other years to hold the derbies on two afternoons, it would be possible to run off the seven championship races, and the many preliminaries and semi-finals, in one evening. The uncertainty that the cold wave will be of sufficient duration to wait until next Saturday and Sunday is the reason for considering a midweek date.

No Site Named.

The site has not been selected, but undoubtedly it will be one of the flooded areas in the Lincoln park district, possibly at Waveland avenue and the lake.

There are 2,346 boys and girls eligible to compete for the pairs of Silver Skates and the many other prizes that will be awarded. Each skater who reports for his racing number will receive a souvenir button. Programs containing all the names of contestants already have been printed and are ready for distribution.

Watch The Tribune.

If the Derbies are conducted in one evening it is likely that the competition in the midget and juvenile divisions will start about 4 p. m. This not only will be necessary because of the number of races ,but it will afford the youngsters opportunity to finish and return to their homes early in the evening.

Announcement of the time and place for the Derbies will be made in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

Wonderbolts Beat St. Louis, 3-1; Enter Soccer Semi-Final

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Wieblodt Wonderbolts, Chicago soccer team, advanced to the western semi-finals of the national cup competition by defeating the Ben Millers of St. Louis today, 3 to 1.

Deadlocked at the end of the first period, the Millers scored first when Brengle dropped the ball into the mouth of the Chicago goal on a corner kick and Kickham headed it through.

The Wieboldts tied the count when Clem Cutbert worked the ball past a St. Louis full back and hit the Millers' goal with a rifle-like shot. The Wonderbolts pressed hard and after dribbling about the St. Louis goal Coutts chalked the second Chicago score.

RUTH MAKING STEADY RECOVERY FROM HEAVY COLD

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Babe Ruth was making a steady recovery from the effects of a severe cold tonight, but the New York Yankee home run slugger will be confined to his home for some days.

"The Babe is doing nicely," Mrs. Ruth said. "He has only a slight fever now, but it will be at least a week before he will be able to go out again."

The Babe contracted the cold several days ago after a round of golf in Westchester. When a high fever developed, a physician was called in and ordered Ruth placed under the care of a nurse.

SHORE RETURNS TO PEP UP BRUINS, BUT RANGERS WIN

Eddie Stars in Boston's 4 to 2 Defeat.

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Eddie Shore returned from his hocky exile tonight more of a hero than ever in the eyes of some 16,000 hocky fans, but he couldn't bring the Boston Bruins back from their losing streak.

Despite his best efforts the New York Rangers won the game from Boston, 4 to 2, and took the lead in the National Hocky league's American division. The victory put New York a point ahead of the Detroit Red Wings, who played a tie game.

Shore in Every Play.

The New York fans, who usually welcome Shore with boos, gave him a warm reception as he came on the ice to play his first game since the accident at Boston, Dec. 12, which resulted in a fractured skull for Ace Bailey, Toronto wingman. Shore was suspended for 16 games. As he came out the fans cheered and whistled in a spontaneous exhibition of good will.

After that Shore was cheered nearly every time he started down the ice or spilled an opponent. He was his old self, taking part in every play and lifting the Bruins to greater heights than they have attained in recent games. He took part in both of their scoring plays.

Rangers Take Early Lead.

The Rangers took the lead in the middle of the opening period when Bill Cook got a pass from brother Bunny and fired a shot past Goalie Tiny Thompson. Boston tied it up just before the end of the period with Shore starting the play and Nels Stewart finishing it with a shot.

In the second period the Rangers forged to the front with two goals scored by Bun Cook and Butch Keeling.

A gang play with Red Beattie firing the final shot got one goal back for Boston in the last half of the final period, but Earl Seibert evened that with a solo effort.

Eddie Schroeder Captures North American Skate Title

BY CHARLES NEVADA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oconomowoc, Wis., Jan. 28.—Eddie Schroeder of Chicago, already recognized as one of the world's leading long distance skaters, won the North American skating championship today on Lake Fowler in subzero weather.

EDDIE SCHROEDER.

Schroeder finished first in only one race today—the three-quarter mile test—but the 30 points thus gained, together with yesterday's total, gave him more than enough to make a show of the all-star United States and Canadian field.

Kit Klein Wins Women's Title.

Kit Klein of Buffalo, N. Y., captured the women's crown, with 100 points, ten more than Dorothy Franey of St. Paul, Minn., the United States champion. Miss Franey fell near the finish of the one mile test last on the program for her sex—and thus was deprived of a chance to annex the championship. She was leading the race at the time.

Leo Freisinger, youthful Chicagoan, was the only performer among the 110 who started the two day meet to finish with a perfect record. Freisinger, whom critics agree could give older skaters a real test, won the 440 and 880 yards and one mile final trials today and finished with 150 points. He was first in the 220 yard and three-quarter mile races yesterday.

Richard Beard of Minneapolis, Minn., beat Robert Sherman, son of the Chicago orchestra director, for the junior title by ten points. Beard's victories today in the 220 yard and three-quarter mile races wiped out an early advantage in the point scoring that Sherman yesterday had assumed. Final figures show Beard with 80 points and Sherman with 70 points.

It was not originally intended to have championship events in the intermediate boys' and junior boys' divisions today.

Schroeder Drops Out.

Schroeder, who leaves soon on an exhibition tour of Norway, made little effort to qualify in the quarter mile event today. But he made up for it in the next event when he displayed a belated spurt and led home his rivals in the three-quarter mile final. It was a hot duel between him and William Logan of St. John, N. B., the Canadian ace.

Schroeder began the five mile grind, which wound up the card, but was forced from competition after he had traversed one-third of the distance. He complained of a leg cramp. Herbert Taylor, of New York City took first in this race, after Stanley Bachinsky of Winnipeg, Canada, had set the pace for 25 of the 30 laps.

James Jaros of Minneapolis was second, and Eddie Stundl, a Chicagoan, third. Needless to say, Bachinsky was awarded the lap prize. A field of 18 started and only nine finished.

Miss Franey Falls.

Robert Petersen, youthful Milwaukeean skating under Oconomowoc's colors, had an opportunity for third place, but skidded on the hard surface and fell.

The women's battle for the championship was a nip and tuck affair between Misses Klein and Franey until the one mile event. Miss Franey appeared a certain winner, but collapsed 20 yards from the finish and had to be helped from the course. Her failure enabled Miss Klein to come in an easy winner, with Edith Kingsmill of Winnipeg, Canada, and Leila Brooks-Potter of Toronto, Canada, the latter defending champion in this class, second and third, respectively.

HACK WILSON AND LOPEZ HOLD OUT FOR MORE PAY

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Hack Wilson, portly outfielder, and Al Lopez, young catcher from Tampa, were reported today as the Brooklyn Dodgers' first holdouts. Not one signed Brooklyn contract has been returned, according to Bob Quinn, club secretary, but this pair and possibly Third Baseman Joe Stripp were the only ones who have definitly objected to the salaries offered.

Stripp is understood to be a trifle dissatisfied with his contract, but has not positively refused to come to terms. Wilson, who remained at home in Martinsburg, W. Va., last spring in a protracted holdout, is believed to have been offered a reduced salary and demands the same pay he received in 1933. Lopez probably was offered a raise after a fine season, but wants more.

Ice Causes Postponement of Wisconsin Ski Meet

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Jan. 28.—(AP)—A meet of the Tri-Norse Ski club, scheduled for today, was postponed indefinitly because the slide on Syracuse mound was covered with ice.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawk line composed of Paul Thompson, Doc Romnes, and Mush March, which has been playing itself a lot of skilful hocky these last few weeks, stole the show last night at the Stadium as the Hawks were licking the sensational Toronto Maple Leafs, 2 to 0. More than 13,000 customers saw the Hawks in their first triumph of the season over the Leafs.

PAUL THOMPSON.

The first Hawk goal came early. Thompson made it on a pass from Romnes 2 minutes and 4 seconds after the game began. Thompson clicked again in 9:25 of the final period, again on a pass from Romnes. March, who played a great game throughout, also got an assist on the second goal.

Gain on Detroit.

The victory failed to get the Hawks out of third place in the United States division of the National league. They did, however, remain a game behind the leading Rangers and gained a point on the second place Red Wings, whom they now trail by 1 point. More important, perhaps, is the fact that they gained 2 more points upon the Boston Bruins, whom they now lead by the safe margin of 11 points for the privilege of participating in the Stanley cup playoffs.

Both teams relied upon speed rather than belligerency to put on a good show last night. There wasn't a penalty until midway in the fourteenth minute of the final period. Then there were two within thirty seconds. Andy Blair was banished for tripping and Lolo Couture followed him a few seconds later for a similar offense.

Goalie Follows Puck.

The first Thompson masterpiece came a few seconds after Joe Primeau had startled the customers with a shot at Gardiner's upholstery that for an instant looked like tabulation. When the shot missed its mark, however, Romnes picked up the rubber and sped out of the Hawks defense zone, across center ice and a few feet over the Leaf blue line. Then he shoved the disc to Thompson, who had swooped into a position directly in front of the cage. Thompson's lightning shot beat Hainsworth and landed in the middle of the nets.

The second period—no score—but plenty of entertaining hocky. Not the least of the crowd pleasing maneuvers developed midway in the session while the Leafs were making a concerted effort to tie the score. In one of those gang mêlees all hands except Chuck Gardiner lost sight of the puck. When Capt. Chuck saw three Leafs locate the rubber simultaneously while his colleagues were still trying desperately to find it, he made one of his longest trips off his beat. He came out of the nets a distance of some 25 feet and whanged the rubber to safety, amidst the applause of all the customers.

Thompson Gets No. 2.

In the third period the Hawks continued their offensive, though their defense also was pretty tight with a 1 to 0 victory in sight. In the third minute Jenkins carried the puck across the line and slid a swell pass to Thompson just off Hainsworth's toes. Paul let loose, but Hainsworth was lucky enough to thwart him for the time being. The next time the Thompson, Romnes, March line came on for its shift, Thompson was not to be denied.

The trio had taken the puck into the Toronto defensive zone and after several maneuvers had failed, March passed to his left across the rink to Romnes, stationed three feet inside the blue line. Doc waited for Thompson to cut in front of the cage, then made a beautiful pass to him. Thompson took plenty of time to get the puck in position and as he did so Hainsworth began dancing. It then was a simple matter for the curly headed winger to slap home his and the Hawks' second and final goal of the evening.

ILLINOIS PLANS WAR TO DEATH ON HORSE DOPING

Track Owners Ready to Stamp Out Evil.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There is every possibility that when the new Illinois racing commission gets around to adopting rules and regulations, this state will have the most rigid laws governing the administering of dope to race horses of any state in America. At least the track owners are in the mood for such legislation.

"We will go to any means to stop the practice," Albert Sabath, new president of the Hawthorne track, said yesterday. The bosses of the other tracks seconded the motion.

"Well, how are you going to stop it?" Mr. Sabath was asked.

"Not only rule any violator off the turf but kick him in the pants and throw him bodily off the premises of our track. Then we'll throw his saddles and bridles and medicine chest over the fence after him."

And he insisted it wouldn't require any great lot of evidence to bring about such action.

Tracks Are Unsuccessful.

While Uncle Sam's narcotic agents seem to have been able to point the finger at some 50 persons who have stimulated race horses by administering narcotics, the race track people of the nation have made little headway at running down guilty persons.

Yet the track authorities for several months have been making experiments which sooner or later will enable them to deal with the dope situation in no uncertain terms. They are confident that by the time the racing season opens in Chicago May 1 it will be possible to detect the slightest violation of the law.

In Florida the French system of testing the saliva of horses which act as if they had been stimulated is in use. It was a result of the saliva test that Edward Haughton, widely known Texas turfman and a former trainer for Mrs. Payne Whitney, came into disgrace.

Some Do and Some Don't.

A saliva test on his horse, Making Bubbles, proved that caffeine, an alkaloid found in the leaves of coffee, had been administered. Track authorities lost no time in ruling him off the turf. Yet track owners, so far, are not entirely satisfied that the saliva test will produce the proper result in all cases.

Recently in test cases narcotic stimulant was administered to five race horses. At about the time they would have finished running their race, saliva tests were made. The tests showed positive proof on only two of the horses that narcotics had been administered. Tests on the other three horses failed to reveal evidence of unethical practice.

During the early winter meeting at the Tanforan track in California, a receiving barn was built and owners were made to deliver the horses they were to start that afternoon to track police an hour before the race was to be run.

Each horse from then until he reached the paddock was in the hands of the track authorities. Trainers, handlers, owners and stable help were not allowed in the receiving barn or paddock, except to saddle the horse and to give instructions to their respective jockeys.

Turfmen Favor Plan.

Old time racing men who were at Tanforan throughout the meeting expressed the belief that not a horse had been stimulated there during the meeting. Federal narcotic agents were of the same opinion. The racing was as forceful as at any other track in the country and the percentage of winning favorites struck a good average.

Most of the bosses of the Chicago tracks are in favor of both the saliva test and a receiving barn.

FIELD ARTILLERY POLO TEAM LOSES TO CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., Jan. 28.—[Special.]—The 124th Field Artillery polo team of Chicago lost to the Cleveland Polo club here tonight, 11½ to 9.

Lieut. Don Rice, of Chicago, duplicated his second half barrage of last night, whipping in six goals.

The Chicago trio was out in front, 3 to 8, with minutes to go, but a pair of goals were nullified by fouls for crossing, Rice being guilty of one, Mura one, and Levine two. Evinger and Al Baker then scored three long side shots. Baker and Charlie Calhoun, who played the entire game with a broken jaw, halved the remaining eight Cleveland goals, while Levine and Mura, and Mura's pony were each credited with a Chicago score.

Loss of Horns Injures Bull Elk's Vanity

BY BOB BECKER.

If any visitor to the Lincoln park zoo believes that some of the elk and the deer on exhibition look rather sad and depressed, they can ascribe it to cases of injured vanity. In the wild state bull elk strut around with impressive antlers. A big 12 pointer such as we saw in the west a year ago is a magnificent sight. His antlers were high, heavy, and beautifully formed and you can't blame a 800 pound bull elk for being rather vain about them.

But you won't find any bull elk in the zoo with antlers that rise skyward. It is necessary to dehorn both the elk and the buck deer, so these animals may have a sort of an inferiority complex and feel that they are being given unfair treatment. However, Floyd S. Young, director of the zoo, points out that it's a safety first measure.

Their Quarters Are Small.

Quarters for the deer and the elk are rather small. When a bull elk gets fighting mad and picks on another member of the group, somebody is bound to get hurt if that elk is charging around, thrusting his heavy antlers at the other animals. Therefore, as a safety first measure which cuts down injuries to the elk and deer, all the male members of these families are dehorned.

Practically all the deer in the zoo are thriving in captivity. For example, the handsome, sleek fallow deer which are in the park have been multiplying so rapidly that the zoo was able to sell a number of them recently. The buffalo herd also is increasing. The other day we saw four calves, which represent the natural increase during the last year. One of this quartet is well worth seeing because of his color. Whereas the old animals are quite dark, this little calf is a golden brown color.

Mamma Says "Git!"

The other afternoon we wanted to get a better look at this "molasses taffy" buffalo calf, but his mamma objected to our fooling around. She came up fairly close to the fence, registered extreme displeasure if not anger, and stood ready to give us the works if we approached any closer.

Although it is a source of gratification to any zoo director to see a natural increase in the exhibition animals which are under his care, the four buffalo calves at Lincoln park aren't such a source of joy as you might suppose. It will be necessary to sell them because the number of buffalo that can be kept in the park is limited. But the point about this future sale which is depressing to Floyd S. Young, director of the zoo, is this: A buffalo cow is worth about $150, whereas a young bull buffalo brings only about $50. Three out of the four young buffalo in the zoo are males.

JIMMY BURKE TO QUIT BASEBALL FOR YEAR'S REST

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Time finally has parted baseball's Damon and Pythias, Joe McCarthy and Jimmy Burke.

After more than 30 years in the thick of the baseball wars, Burke, the only native son to manage both St. Louis major league clubs, is going to rest out the 1934 campaign and watch the reaction of his aged legs. If it is favorable, he may be back in 1935.

"The legs are a bit heavy," explains Burke, "I can't get around well. I decided to rest up for a season and see if it would help."

So Burke, a product of St. Louis' "Goose Hill" district, which graduated many noted baseball players to the majors and minors, recently notified McCarthy, with whom he had been associated for more than 20 years, that he was giving up his coaching job with the New York Yankees.

Savoldi, Londos Arrive; Prepare for Stadium Bout

Mrs. Joe Savoldi is undecided whether she will see her husband wrestle Jim Londos Wednesday at the Chicago Stadium.

"Probably not," she declared upon her arrival yesterday at the Congress hotel, where she was joined later by Jumping Joe himself, who arrived by plane from the west. "I've seen him in several matches, but never in one as important as this. Of course, I want to see it, but I'm afraid the excitement will be too much for me."

Londos arrived during the forenoon from Detroit, and was immediately surrounded by a group of his fellow Greeks. He objected strenuously when he was informed that he and Savoldi as well as their managers and Stadium officials were to meet in the athletic commission offices this afternoon.

"I don't care to meet that fellow until bell time," he told Manager Ed White. Londos, however, w. be on hand today. The purpose of the meeting is to go over the rules thoroughly.

Lyle Fisher Holds Lead in Big 10 Scoring

Northwestern and Ohio State basketball players held a monopoly on the Big Ten scoring at the close of last week, the first five men in the scoring column representing those two universities.

Lyle Fisher, Northwestern, led with 64 points, 14 ahead of his team mate, Brewer, and Colburn of Ohio, who were tied for second with 50 each. Whitlinger, Ohio State, was fourth with 47, and Nelson Culver, Purple guard, fifth with 43.

The Purple and Buckeye marksmen were favored, however, by the fact that they have played in seven games while most of the other team have taken part in only five. Cottom of Purdue, who has played in only four games, is in sixth place with a total of 42 points, an average of more than 10 a game, considerably above that of the leaders.

Midyear examinations slowed down the competition in the conference last week, with only three games played. Those had little affect on the standing, Northwestern's defeat by Minnesota on Saturday night making the only change among the leaders. The Gothers' 31 to 30 victory dropped Northwestern into fourth place and permitted Illinois to advance to third. Purdue still leads with four victories and no defeats while Iowa remains in second place with three victories and one loss. Individual scoring:

SCHOOLMASTER'S 67 WINS $200 FOR PARTNER

Riverside, Cal., Jan. 28.—(AP)—A Glendale, Cal., schoolmaster, Jack Gaines, today carried his pro partner, Tom Stevens of Glendale, to the Riverside $2,000 open golf championship and $200 first prize money. Their best card was 34—30—64. Gaines toured the par 72 course in 67.

Only a stroke behind them finished two teams with rounds of 65, to give the professional members $125 each. These were Chet Beer and John DePaolo of Los Angeles, and Byron Nelson, Texarkana, Tex., and Art Sato, San Francisco.

Scores of 68, four strokes under par, were required to collect a share of the prize money, with seven teams tied at 66 in fourth place to give the play for pay participants $46.42 each.

These were Bill Jelliffe and E. E. Moss, Los Angeles; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., and Tom Telfer, Oakland, Cal.; Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., and John Dawson, Chicago; Tom Creavy, Albany, N. Y., and Phillips Finlay, Los Angeles; Dick Metz, Deal, N. J., and Jack Dunphy, Los Angeles, and MacDonald Smith, Nashville, Tenn., and Jack Mackey, Los Angeles.

Ties for eleventh place between seven twosomes who turned in composite cards of 67 netted the professionals $25 each; followed by an eight way tie at 68, giving these pros $6.26.

HANNIN-KLEINS WIN.

The Hannin-Klein basketball team defeated the Covenant club 35 to 27, at the Covenant club gymnasium last night.

FREIGHTERS FACE TULSA FOR 4TH TIME TONIGHT

Another chapter in an intersectional feud that developed only last March will be written tonight when the Chicagoan Fast Freights make their fourth attempt to prove their superiority over the Tulsa Diamond Oilers in a Missouri Valley A. A. U. basketball league game. The Chicago quintet plays the Missouri Valley and national champions at the Rainbo Frontop, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

Beaten off in three games, all away from Chicago, the Freighters are confident they will finally beat the team whose star is Chuck Hyatt, formerly of the University of Pittsburgh.

Only a margin of two points separated the two clubs in the finals of the National A. A. U. tournament at Kansas City last spring when the Oilers won, 25 to 23. In the valley opener last December the Freights were beaten at Tulsa, 26 to 25, Elmer Johnson going out on injuries in the first half.

DE PAUL QUINTET BATTLES NORTH CENTRAL TONIGHT

Making its first start after a two-week layoff for semester examinations, the De Paul university quintet will strive for its seventh consecutive victory of the season tonight in a game with North Central college at Naperville.

It will be the second meeting between the two teams. De Paul opened its season with a 33 to 24 triumph over North Central.

BIG CROP LOSSES DUE TO DRY SOIL NOW EXPECTED

Experts Report Wide Lack of Moisture.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Local crop experts who have analyzed the moisture situation in the wheat belt declare the foundation has already been laid for major crop losses later in the season unless there is a drastic change in weather conditions soon.

Soil in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, eastern Colorado, Nebraska, South Dakota, Wyoming, and eastern New Mexico remain extremely dry. The eight states seeded nearly 25,000,000 acres of winter wheat last fall of a total of 41,000,000 acres for the entire country.

The immense area suffering from lack of surface or subsoil moisture is not quite as large as that of the previous season when the crop of winter wheat was the smallest in more than 30 years, but it embraces the section that produces the bulk of the surplus grain of the country.

Large Area Too Dry.

As near as can be determined about half of the area in the eight states has little or no subsoil moisture. This applies to 13,000,000 acres, equal to nearly one-third of the winter wheat belt. Dust storms were reported during the last week over part of this area, especially in western Kansas and in the Texas panhandle.

B. W. Shaw, crop expert, says the precipitation in the spring wheat area in the northwest has been the lightest on record, although some localities in the Dakotas and elsewhere have received fairly liberal rains.

Due to the dry condition of the soil fall plowing in the spring wheat belt made poor progress, according to Mr. Snow, and this must be taken into consideration when seeding time comes this spring.

Canada Also Affected.

The dry area is not confined to the United States. It covers parts of three Canadian provinces. The final Canadian report on the 1933 wheat crop showed nearly 8,000,000 acres where the yield ranged from nothing to four bushels an acre and 2,500,000 acres in addition that produced four to eight bushels an acre. However, the moisture situation has been bettered in some areas in the prairie provinces by good rains last fall.

Little interest was taken in the wheat market last week and prices held within a range of about 2 cents. In two weeks fluctuations have covered only slightly more than 3 cents. Because of conflicting influences many operators have withdrawn from the market until the situation is clarified. Monetary conditions, withholding of the national grain exchange code and the heavy tax on speculative trades are among the factors tending to decrease speculative interest.

Steady to ¼ Cent Lower.

Closing trades Saturday were unchanged to ¼ cent lower as compared with the previous week. May closed at 90¾ to 90⅜ cents; July, 88⅝ to 88¼ cents, and September at 89⅞ cents. The ranges of wheat prices follow:

	May.	July.	September.

Corn, like wheat, has suffered materially from the lack of a broad speculative trade. The May delivery has held within a range of about 3 cents a bushel so far this year, making little response to news. Despite the rapidity with which farmers have been taking government loans on corn, arrivals at terminals have been adequate for the demand.

Damage in Argentina.

The critical period of growth for the new Argentine corn crop is now at hand, and already complaints of damage have been received from some of the largest producing areas. Dry weather and excessive temperatures are reported. So far developments in Argentina have had little effect on the American markets.

Corn futures gained ⅛ to ¼ cent for the week and closed Saturday with May at 52¼ to 52⅜ cents, July at 54⅛ cents, and September at 55⅝ cents. Ranges of prices follow:

Speculative and cash interest has waned in rye, due largely to the decreased demand from distilling interests. There has been a great deal of unloading by tired holders of futures and a considerable spreading between Chicago and the northwest. Rye lost ⅞ to 1 cent for the week. May closed at 61¾ cents and July at 62 cents.

Holders of barley were liberal sellers and futures lost 1 cent a bushel, May closing at 51½ cents and July at 53 cents.

Steel Output Declines to 33% Capacity

As delays persisted last week in the tonnages expected from the automotive industry, railroads and construction, the national average of steel works operations was curtailed 2 points to 33 per cent of capacity, the magazine Steel reports.

Mills in Chicago raised their rate one point to 30 per cent, and in Cleveland 5 to 64. Of the remaining eight producing centers, operations were reduced in four and unchanged in four.

Expansion is scheduled for this week in eastern Pennsylvania, Youngstown, and Buffalo, more than compensating for anticipated declines in Pittsburgh and New England, if operations remain steady in the other districts.

That new purchases by the automotive industry have been deferred is attributed less to the steel stocks accumulated toward the close of last year than to the continued difficulties in adjusting the production of new models. Manufacturers, according to Steel, have in hand orders for 200,000 cars.

Auto Makers Help Some.

The release of 10,000 tons of sheets by Ford and a moderate increase in specifications by General Motors have contributed some improvement in the mills' operation.

Business from the carriers is delayed not only by preliminaries to federal loans, but by "reluctance to purchase rails and pay interest charges in advance of the time when the rails can be laid."

Several hundred thousand tons of railroad car plates and shapes, mainly for the Van Sweringen lines, will not be ready for rolling until the middle of next month, according to Steel. More than 12,000 cars may be awarded this week and bids from nearly a score carbuilders are still being tabulated.

On Feb. 5 the Pennsylvania will open bids on 21,000 tons of rolled steel, 18,000 car wheels, and 3,000 axles. John Morrell & Co., Inc., has awarded 150 refrigerator cars.

An amendment to governmental regulations on public works may retard awards to contractors and thus, indirectly, steel buying, according to the review.

Work According to Codes.

"In projects in which federal funds are to be used, all work must be done and all materials produced either under specific trade codes, or where no codes exist, in accordance with the President's reëmployment agreement," says Steel.

The week's structural shape awards rose substantially to 14,825 tons. The United States Pipe and Foundry company has received orders for 8,000 tons of cast pipe from Miami, Fla. Federal money has been loaned New Bedford, Mass., for the purchase of 7,500 tons.

Twenty-five thousand tons of cast pipe for Mexico City have been awarded to Japanese manufacturers bidding in competition with American, British, French, and German producers.

British tin manufacturers are afraid they may have to close some mills because of the quickening of American competition through the depreciation of the dollar, Steel says.

Scrap rose again last week—4 cents to $11.54 in Steel's index. The iron and steel composite is unchanged at $32.43 and the finished steel at $51.10.

BUSINESS MEN URGED TO WATCH NEW GOLD LAW

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Business men were advised today by the United States Chamber of Commerce to follow Washington developments "with even closer attention" because of the new gold legislation.

In its fortnightly review the chamber reported that "many perplexities exist concerning the extent to which the wide powers in the gold bill may be exercised to aid in meeting the government's need for funds, even though there be main reliance upon orthodox methods of government financing," and added:

"Another consideration is the extent to which the powers may be utilized to influence commodity prices through expansion or even a degree of inflation of credit."

Gen. Electric Has 188,316 Stockholders, New Record

The General Electric company ended 1933 with 188,316 stockholders, a record high, compared with 181,310 at the end of 1932.

1933 EARNINGS OF PEOPLES GAS $2.90 A SHARE

Small Pickup Noted at End of Year.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Earnings of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company during 1933 fell sharply behind those of 1932, according to a report both for the entire year and the final quarter issued yesterday by James Simpson and George A. Ranney, chairman and vice chairman, respectively. However, some evidence of an improvement in the latter months of 1933 was noted.

Consolidated net income of the company and its subsidiaries for 1933 was $1,960,973, compared with $4,162,683 in 1932. The earning per share in 1933 was $2.90 on 676,210 shares outstanding, compared with $6.20 in 1933 on 671,938 shares outstanding at the end of the year.

For the last quarter of 1933 net income was $429,796, compared with $808,722 in the last quarter of 1932. This was equal to 64 cents a share, compared with $1.20 for the like 1932 period.

Gross Earnings Lower.

Gross earnings for 1933 totaled $31,710,903, compared with $34,129,606 in the preceding year. Total operating expenses and taxes in 1933 were $25,566,703, compared with $26,045,722 in 1932.

Total gross earnings in the last quarter of 1933 were $8,555,682, compared with $8,533,154 in the like 1932 period. Total operating expenses and taxes in the last 1933 period were $7,145,224, contrasted with $6,701,187 in the same 1932 quarter. The item gas purchased in the last quarter of 1933 was given as $2,343,070, compared with $1,886,893 in the 1932 period.

The report stated that the company continues to feel the effect of the decline in business which started some time prior to 1932. It asserted that domestic sales during 1933 decreased by approximately $1,500,000.

Drop in Volume.

"This reduction represents very largely the effect of the decrease in the volume of such sales and, in smaller part, the effect of a reduction, which became effective on July 1, 1933, in the rate at which such sales are made," the report explains. "In January, 1932, the company had 756,000 domestic customers. In February, 1933, it had only 713,000 such customers. Since that time, however, the number of such customers has gradually increased to 724,000 in December, 1933."

The commercial business of the company declined somewhat more than 6 per cent in 1933, despite the beneficial results of A Century of Progress.

"In recent months, however, both the commercial and general industrial business of the company have shown substantial increases in the volume of gas sold as compared with similar sales in the corresponding months of 1932," the report continues. "This increase was largely stimulated by certain rate reductions which became effective July 1, 1933."

Boost Heating Sales.

As a result of its wide promotion of the sale of gas for home and general heating purposes, which began on July 19, 1933, over 10,000 new space heating customers were obtained up to Dec. 31. The sale of gas for home and general space heating purposes in the last two months of 1933 amounted to more than twice that of the corresponding two months of 1932.

The report calls attention to an increase of approximately $264,000 in the item of depreciation for the year 1933 as compared with 1932. This was explained as being due not to an actual increase in depreciation but almost entirely due to the consolidation in the item of depreciation of various minor charges of that character which hitherto had been distributed among other accounts. The depreciation item for 1933 was $2,961,682, compared with $2,697,645 for 1932.

The company paid $3,105,773 in state, local, and other taxes in 1933, compared with $2,705,713 in 1932. Federal income taxes in 1933 were $357,863, compared with $487,830 in 1932.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 28.—The annual statement of the Aetna Life Insurance company, as filed with the Connecticut insurance department, shows a total admitted assets of $448,773,067 at Dec. 31, an increase of $2,169,204 for the year. Stocks and bonds have been valued on the basis prescribed by the insurance commissions, but the company has set up a contingency reserve of $6,400,000 to meet the difference between those values and market values, leaving a surplus of $9,031,704.

Total interest and rents received by the company in 1933 were $18,825,371. The rapid increase shown in policy loans during the recent years was stopped.

New insurances were effected in the ordinary department for an amount of $179,541,238. In addition, new group policies were issued for $35,923,702 and new additional insurance was issued in connection with the old group policies amounting to $307,698,597, thus giving total new business for the company of $512,163,537. Total amount of outstanding insurance at the year-end was $3,322,390,652.

Total sums paid policyholders in the life department in 1933 were $69,275,155, and total claims paid in the accident and liability department were $12,701,604. Income exceeded disbursements by $10,311,438. At the end of 1933 cash and government bonds were held in the amount of $32,983,201, comparing with $20,293,572 at the close of 1932.

GROUP HEADED BY PALMER BUYS PECK AND HILLS

J. M. Palmer, formerly vice president of the Chicago house of Peck & Hills Furniture company, announced yesterday that he and several of his associates have purchased the equipment, name, and goodwill of the old company and have formed a new company under the old name. The officers of the new company will be: J. M. Palmer, president and manager; Harold A. Howard, vice president; F. W. Kelley, secretary; and E. L. Hockert, treasurer.

Mr. Palmer states that the new organization has leased the eight story building at 1353 South Wabash avenue, which was occupied by the old company for about thirty years, and that it will operate on a wholesale basis only.

201,000 More on Pay Roll Reported in Manhattan

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—An increase of 201,000 employes in the manufacturing, retail and wholesale fields in Manhattan since last August, when the NRA began operation, was reported today by Nathan Straus Jr., state director of the National Emergency council. The city's four other boroughs are being surveyed. The manufacturing field employed 145,000 new workers, the retail trade added 38,100, and the wholesale trade 23,000.

PEORIA'S TERMINAL FOR BARGE LINE FAILS TO PAY FOR OVERHEAD

BY HARRY LAIRD.

Traffic Manager, Chicago Tribune.

When Federal Barge line operation to Peoria was assured, citizens of that town authorized a bond issue to provide the necessary funds for the construction of a somewhat ambitious barge terminal. Revenues from the freight that was to be handled through this terminal would easily defray operating and financing costs of the project.

The facilities have now been in service for a matter of two years and the citizens are beginning to realize that revenues will not meet the maintenance costs. Somebody has even been mean enough to refer to the terminal as a white elephant. In its defense, the Federal Barge Lines maintain that irrespective of these features, it will always continue as one of Peoria's best investments because of the substantial freight savings to Peoria citizens on sugar, canned goods, coffee and grain handled over the wharves.

* *

But an examination of the statement fails to substantiate the theory that the barge line or the terminal had anything to do with the reduction in the sugar rates. The sole story is available in the records of the interstate commerce commission. New York sugar refiners were able to ship to Chicago by water and established a rate of 27 cents here. New Orleans shippers asked the railways to enable them to compete. Peoria got the benefit of the Chicago rate through its intermediate location and not through any influence of water transportation on the Mississippi.

Precisely the same situation was presented with respect to shipments of coffee and canned goods. Water transportation from the Atlantic seaboard via the great lakes was a compelling factor.

* *

While it is true that local rates on grain have been substantially reduced, there is really little or no local movement and the prospects for the future are not bright because the completion of the distilling plants at Peoria will make it a consuming rather than a shipping center. It might be argued that the Federal Barge Lines can then reverse their operation and bring grain to Peoria, but this will not work either. After the distillation process, a very substantial part of the grain remains for use as stock feed and the railways undoubtedly will establish milling in transit arrangements whereby grain may be brought into Peoria by rail, used by the distilleries and the by-product reshipped to consuming centers on a through rate.

Continental Oil Increases Advertising Appropriation

The Continental Oil company announced yesterday that for the fifth consecutive year it has again increased its appropriation for newspaper advertising. It was stated that the money to be spent in 1934 will set a new high record for the company.

N. Y. COMMERCE GROUP ASSAILS DEPOSIT PLAN

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The committee on finance of the New York State Chamber of Commerce has prepared a report for presentation to the next meeting of the chamber, criticising the federal deposit insurance program which became effective in temporary form on Jan. 1.

The committee urges that the entire question of deposit insurance be further studied before the existing temporary plan becomes a permanent law, with some changes, on July 1, and that pending such study the temporary plan be continued for two years.

"Obviously, it is a misnomer to designate this protection to depositors as insurance," the report states. "Those who receive the benefits do not pay the premiums; and the entire enterprise does not partake of the character of insurance. There is no real actuarial basis or data on which either assessed contributions or distributed benefits could be computed. The risk involved in business cycles is irregular and unpredictable.

"Under any real insurance plan a badly managed bank or an uneconomical bank would pay a high premium. But under this plan, everyone can come in for insurance, and the stockholders in the insurance corporation who will pay the cost of the insurance and incur unlimited liability, have no voice in the management of the corporation and no vote in determining the risks to be covered."

HASKELL MADE CODE AUTHORITY FOR RAYON, SILK

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Appointment of Maj. Gen. William N. Haskell as executive director of the NRA code authority for the rayon and silk dyeing and printing industry was announced today. Gen. Haskell, who recently served as chairman of the mayor's committee on relief in New York City, has obtained a leave of absence from his position as commanding general of the New York National Guard to assume his new duties.

The membership of the rayon and silk industry consists of 130 concerns, concentrated in the New York City region. Most of the silk plants are in and around Paterson, N. J.

The NRA code for the industry was approved by President Roosevelt on Dec. 21, last year. Under it was created an authority composed of the board of trustees of the Institute of Dyers and Printers, an NRA representative, and other members elected by the industry at large. This is the group Gen. Haskell will lead.

PETROLEUM CORP. HAS SHARP GAIN IN ASSET VALUE

Petroleum Corporation of America as of Dec. 31, 1933, reports net asset value per share, based on current prices on Dec. 31, 1933, of $14.14 per share on outstanding stock, compared with $7.23 at the end of the preceding year.

Net income for 1933 was $169,382, after all expenses and taxes, and exclusive of $1,129,573 profit on sale of securities, which was credited to a special surplus account. Securities owned at current prices at Dec. 31, 1930, with subsequent additions at cost, are carried in the balance sheet at $34,710,482. The aggregate value of these securities at Dec. 31, 1933, was $29,135,040.

Total net assets Dec. 31, 1933, amounted to $30,265,051, compared with total net assets of $15,813,190 at the close of 1932.

Reichsbank to Negotiate with Foreign Creditors

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Reichsbank tomorrow for the first time officially will enter conversations between Germany and representatives of foreign creditors affected by the moratorium on interest payments. Previous conferences have been held between the visiting representatives and the foreign office, apparently with little progress toward an agreement. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, who has vigorously refused to approve increasing the 30 per cent payment quota, even in the face of foreign office pressure, will participate in the meetings.

Fisk Rubber Plant Raises Workers' Wages 10 to 20%

Chicopee Falls, Mass., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Fisk Rubber corporation plant here today announced wage increases, effective Monday, and ranging from 10 to 20 per cent. The company has recently added substantially to its working force.

Gotham Bank Tells Perils to Recovery

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 28.—In a discussion of the administration's budget and of its various plans "to redistribute income in the interests of wage earners, farmers, and other groups," the guaranty survey, published today by the Guaranty Trust company, sounds a note of warning against the danger of sacrificing recovery to reform.

Pointing to the heavy taxes which will have to be borne and to the increasing tendency to increase the share of the total tax revenue levied against business, the survey remarks that the practical danger at present "is that encroachment on profits may discourage business initiative to such an extent that recovery will stop and Socialistic practices will be resorted to as a matter of necessity." The income tax, it says, should properly take a reasonable toll from the business transactions in the community, but it should not stop the traffic entirely.

Must Not Sacrifice Recovery.

"Recovery must not be sacrificed to reform," the survey says, "for without recovery, reform is meaningless. Economic welfare consists in a large output widely distributed among the population. But before the distribution can take place, there must be an output to distribute, and the terms of distribution must be such as to assure that the output will be maintained.

"The difficult task of the government is to strike a proper balance between recovery and reform, and at the same time to keep itself solvent without crushing business initiative."

Enormous as is the budget proposed by the President, results will justify the costs if the major objectives of the government's program can be attained at that price, the trust company says. It should be remembered, however, that productive enterprise will have to bear heavy tax burdens for many years to come and that these burdens will be increased by the plans to redistribute income.

Seek Greater Justice.

"These attempts at redistribution obviously aim to achieve a greater measure of justice between different groups, such as labor and capital, agriculture and industry, and debtor and creditor," the survey continues. "At the same time, they are designed to promote recovery by increasing the purchasing power of large groups of consumers and thus broadening the market for the products of agriculture and industry.

"Applying this view to the current situation, the administration has endeavored to increase consumers' demand by raising the earnings of industrial workers."

RIO GRANDE WILL POSTPONE ITS BOND PAYMENT

Cleveland, O., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Directors of the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad, meeting here, today decided to postpone payment of the general mortgage bond interest due Feb. 1, amounting to about $745,000, in order to maintain unimpaired the cash position of the company. Announcement of the adoption of a resolution to that effect was made this afternoon.

Such payment, in addition to affecting adversely the cash resources of the carrier, recited the announcement, would "probably render it unable to meet its debts [including taxes] maturing within the next few months, and cripple the ability of the company resonably to perform its service to the public."

The directors noted that under the provisions of the general mortgage, a three months' period of grace is provided before any proceedings to enforce the mortgage may be taken. They said further that there had been recent improvement in the business of the company, "and during the next 60 days its traffic conditions and earnings may so greatly improve as to justify the payment of such interest."

The question of payment, it was said, will be considered again with a period of 60 days.

BULLISH TONE STILL PREVAILS IN WALL STREET

Auto and Aviation Groups Move Up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 28.—The bullish chorus still rings out above the confused din of Wall street, but its tone has been growing a little more subdued in the last week. The "averages" finished a shade lower on the six day trading period after having been boosted on Wednesday to the highest level in two and a half years except for a single fortnight last July.

Brokerage house spokesmen declare, in spite of the lag in constructive market operations, that speculative sentiment has not been so optimistic on the whole at this season of the year since 1929. Most of them profess surprise that the market is not making better progress than it is, considering the help it is getting constantly from both Washington and the trade reviews. Not that business is showing any wild hurry to get started on its heralded spring upturn.

Steel operations, one of the so-called major indices, have failed disappointingly to register even their usual January rise, but that has not altered the outlook for expansion in the industry as motor makers, railroads, and construction come through with orders for spring activities.

Railway freight loadings have risen to a weekly figure 12¼ per cent above 1933 and are now practically back to their level of two years ago. The weekly average of stable prices has crossed the highest mark of 1933 and the prices of domestic bonds in their further recovery last week went more than 13 points above their average of April 20, 1933, when the country definitly abandoned the gold standard.

Auto Industry Moves.

The automobile industry is stepping up its operations rapidly and airplane makers are looking forward hopefully to congressional approval of a liberal military and naval aircraft program. Oil companies are out of the red for the first time in years. The government's "business revival" spending program bulks as largely as ever in the foreground of the picture.

A steady increase in foreign buying of American securities indicates that this view of the outlook is far from being a local Wall street or even an "all American" affair. Brokers with branch offices in London say that sentiment in the British capital is even more bullish on the long term view for American equities, indeed, than it is here. Foreign correspondents of some of the commission houses report the heaviest speculation in American securities since the summer of 1932.

The explanation is that London makes more of the inflationary implications of the Roosevelt administration's monetary and relief programs than does either New York or Chicago, the speculators there holding that they have a better perspective of the situation than the close range view on this side of the Atlantic affords.

Aviation Given Whirl.

Aviation and automobile stocks got the major play in the week's market. The airplane shares went in for some real pyrotechnics on the last two or three sessions, Wright Aeronautical kiting as much as 50 points to a price more than ten times its valuation of less than a year ago. A "corner" in the shares was responsible for the lurid display. Douglas, United Aircraft, Curtiss-Wright, and other airplane shares were bought in heavy volume at increasing prices—thanks, of course, to expectations of profits from the government's airplane program.

The motors got their prime mainly from the growing activity at Detroit and other automobile manufacturing centers and the belief that this is going to be a "good spring" for the industry. Nash, Chrysler, and General Motors were favorites of the group. The rails have been subject to more or less profit taking and utilities have performed about as usual.

Await Steel Action.

On the face of some "average" compilations, the industrial group broke through their so-called September resistance levels but the rails and utilities have yet to test that important level by any standard of measurement.

Brokers seem to expect some further hesitation of the list tomorrow and possibly on Tuesday. Directors of the United States Steel corporation are slated to meet for dividend action on the company's preferred stock Tuesday afternoon and the street seems to accept it as a matter of course that market operations must come to more or less of a halt in deference to the approaching event.

BONDS HALT LONG RISE, BUT TONE IS STILL CHEERFUL

Corporate Loans Strong on Trade Outlook.

New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The bond market halted during the last week after the price averages had maintained an unbroken advance for nearly three weeks.

Optimism over listed corporate loans, based largely on improving business and industry and the currency stabilization step taken by the administration in its monetary bill now before congress, apparently was unabated. Many traders, however, felt that a corrective reaction might be in the offing and so decided to pull down some of the substantial profits which had been piling up for them.

Notwithstanding the realizing, which was accompanied by a dwindling in the trading volume, most United States government securities and prime corporate issues pointed moderately higher and a number of specialties showed more than ordinary improvement.

Average at New High.

One average for 20 selected industrials also stepped up to new high levels for 1933-'34 and the rails were not far behind their peak for that period. The utilities, while doing well, still had some way to go to mark up a new top figure.

The feature of the week was the treasury's $1,000,000,000 offerings of notes and certificates. The notes, maturing in 13½ months, bore an interest rate of 2½ per cent and 1½ per cent was attached to the 7½ month certificates.

The financial district generally seemed to be well pleased, not only with the size of the loan but with the interest rates, and subscriptions of $4,770,000,000 were received before the books were closed. In some quarters it had been expected that a larger offering might have been attempted, as $10,000,000,000 must be raised in the next few months.

Interest in Dollar Action.

The firmness of the dollar in terms of leading foreign exchanges, despite extensive gold purchases abroad by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for the purpose of depressing the unit, was viewed with much interest by bond dealers. The contrary action of the American currency, however, was attributed partly to repatriation of capital as well as foreign buying of securities in New York.

Foreign bonds were somewhat irregular. Obligations of Cuba and some South American countries turned up sharply upon recognition of the new Cuban government by the United States. The German list developed weakness following reports that the reich would resist Washington's efforts to prevent a further reduction of interest payment on dollar loans.

Eitingon-Schild.

Investors' Guide: I am interested in the purchase of Eitingon-Schild common. I shall appreciate and I thank you in advance for any information you can give me concerning same.—B. H.

Answer: Eitingon-Schild company, Inc., deals in furs. Its activities are world-wide.

Earnings reached their peak in 1928, when net income of $2,131,000 was reported, but successive years reflected inventory writedowns and reduced sales. Loss in 1932 was $1,644,000, against loss of $1,149,000 in 1931, loss of $1,076,000 in 1930, and loss of $2,424,000 in 1929.

These heavy deficits exhausted working capital and forced the company to lean heavily on bank credit. In 1933 about $5,000,000 of such bank credit was converted into debentures. This failed to place the company in a secure position and a recapitalization was necessitated.

Effective Dec. 7, 1933, one-half the debentures were exchanged for capital stock—the terms of the other half were revised so that, beginning Dec. 31, 1934, not less than one-fourth would be retired each year at prices ranging from 92 to par. The previously outstanding various classes of stock were exchanged for new stock, all of one class. Credit facilities totaling about $3,000,000 were established and control was transferred from the banks to Molly Eitingon. Radical changes were made in existing contracts.

Giving effect to such changes, current assets on Sept. 30, 1933, amounted to $4,836,000, and current liabilities were $3,096,000. Funded debt, due 1934 to 1937, totaled $1,518,000.

Net loss before foreign exchange profits and profits on Eitingon Trading corporation, a subsidiary, for the first nine months of 1933 was $99,000 on the old capitalization. Including such profits, net income was $287,000, which covered first and second preferred dividend requirements.

The stock is a speculation.

Philippine Peso.

Investors' Guide: In view of the plan to devalue the dollar, will you kindly inform me if it will affect the monetary system in the Philippines? Par of exchange is two pesos to the dollar.—C. P.

Answer: The Philippine peso is pegged to the American dollar. Parity is maintained by either selling drafts on New York in Manila, or drafts on Manila in New York. Since the peso is definitely tied up with the American dollar the proposed devaluation of the dollar will not affect par of exchange.

COTTON CLOTH SALES STEADY.

EXPECT ACTION TO CURB U. S. WORLD GOLD OPERATIONS

Stabilization Path Beset with Difficulties.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 28.—Early action on the part of Great Britain and France to restrict official American purchases of gold in London and Paris was predicted this week by important monetary experts here. Operating on a restricted basis in its efforts to hold down the dollar, the Federal Reserve bank of New York is estimated to have bought more than $50,000,000 abroad in the last two weeks.

These purchases have been insufficient to prevent a rise in the dollar. If the new stabilization fund of $2,000,000,000 is to attempt to bring the exchange down to the 60 cent upper limit of devaluation prescribed in President Roosevelt's program much heavier gold buying may be required. Bankers here doubt that the European countries will long permit operations on the scale which would be necessary.

Close Market to U. S.

Exactly what form the restrictions against official American gold purchases might take cannot be forecast with any assurance. In the case of Great Britain the problem would consist of closing the London bullion market to American agents. This might be done, it is pointed out, by abolishing the market and requiring all gold offered for sale in London to be presented to the Bank of England or the British treasury, or it might be achieved through regulations which would make American purchasers ineligible.

The result might also be achieved through the imposition of an embargo upon gold exports. If the United States authorities were unable to repatriate any of the gold purchased in London they might not be in a position to continue large scale purchases, bankers say.

In the case of France there always is the possibility of outright suspension of the gold standard, if American purchases became too large, but a more likely expedient, it is thought, would be the setting up of regulations preventing the Bank of France from selling gold to countries off the gold standard. This would keep both the United States and Great Britain from managing their currencies at the expense of the franc.

Position Reversed.

The relative positions of Europe and the United States are now exactly the reverse of the positions obtaining early last year. Between the end of 1932 and the beginning of the banking holiday of last March a heavy flight of capital was in progress from this country. The tendency of this movement was to force sterling higher and higher in terms of the dollar.

In combatting the rise of sterling the British exchange equalization fund purchased dollars, converting them into gold, turned the gold over to the Bank of England in exchange for sterling and with the sterling bought more dollars. In this way a self-perpetuating cycle was carried out which made possible a large flight of capital from the United States to Great Britain without a corresponding rise of sterling and which enabled the British authorities to acquire large sums of gold with their paper pounds.

The gold secured here was, for the most part, earmarked by the Bank of England at the Federal Reserve bank of New York. In the first three months of last year gold earmarked for foreign account rose over $300,000,000, reflecting almost entirely the operations of the British exchange control.

Capital Moves to U. S.

Now the movement of capital is in the opposite direction. Money is flowing out London and toward New York. The United States authorities are now the ones who are trying to keep their currency down. Following closely the example of the British fund, they are buying sterling in London, converting the sterling into gold through the medium of the open gold market and earmarking the gold with the Bank of England. At the close of this week they began to bring some gold back here in order to replenish their funds for continued operation.

The United States, with its tremendous gold holdings, stood for the British operations for nearly three months and only put a stop to them by suspending the gold standard after the entire banking system had broken down. It is not considered likely, however, that the British, having in mind the experience of this country will wait so long. Nor is it to Britain's advantage to do so.

Whereas, this country early last year was concerned with maintaining the value of the dollar, Britain at the present time considers the pound sterling to be artificially high and the dollar artificially low.

Problem Is Difficult.

For that reason the operations of the American authorities to perpetuate this relationship and at the same time to absorb all the gold which is offered in London are considered even more opposed to British policy than were the operations of the British control here last year opposed to our policy.

If these prediction are realized the new $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, when it is set up, will find itself faced with an extremely difficult problem, according to well informed commentators. If it is to prevent the return flow of exported capital from forcing up the dollar it must buy foreign exchange, in default of available purchases of gold.

Approve Lower Rail Rates for Southwest Drouth Area

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—The interstate commerce commission has authorized railroads serving drouth areas in Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas to establish reduced rates on feed for live stock and poultry. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railways informed the commission a severe drought exists in portions of the five states and that unless immediate measures of relief are given, live stock and poultry would die and there would be general suffering.

SILK CREPES HIGHER.

Another advance of 1 cent a yard has been posted by sellers of silk crepes for printing. Sheer fabrics in rayon also show a strong tone.

WHEAT NATIONS TO OPEN MEETING IN LONDON TODAY

Will Try to Establish Minimum Prices.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A drastic measure aimed at world wide rehabilitation of wheat by establishing a minimum scale of prices and exports is the most important proposal on the agenda of the international wheat advisory commission, which begins its third session here tomorrow.

There was considerable doubt on the eve of the opening whether 21 nations adhering to the international wheat pact can be persuaded to approve the project.

"Unless all countries are agreed, the pact is domed to failure," it was stated at American headquarters.

One European delegate took the view "it would put the Liverpool and Winnipeg exchanges out of business," but others stressed it would fix minimum prices only temporarily. Other permanent measures to boost prices would influence speculation in futures, they contended.

Session to Be Private.

It was doubtful whether the commission, whose sessions at the Australia house will be private, will make public recommendations of any scheme at this session unless delegates are able to give assurance their governments will approve it.

Although the minimum scale plan now has been officially under consideration for two months, it appeared some delegations had not received instructions up until tonight.

A sub-committee early in December drew up a report on pros and cons of the question. It also framed a scale of what the differentials in prices of various wheats in different countries should be, leaving the question of actual prices to the commission.

May Ask Boost in Quota.

Rumors that a subcommittee, headed by Lloyd V. Steere, United States' commercial attaché in Berlin had given unanimous approval to the proposal were denied. One delegate said, however, a confidential report "appears to have more reasons in favor of the scheme than against."

Another important point likely to be decided at this session is Hungary's demand for an increase export quota. She and other Danubians agree that any reallocation of their combined quota of $54,000,000 bushels must be decided by March 15, and it is unlikely the commission will meet again before that date.

Hungary claims it has used up its share of 22,000,000 bushels in the quota.

INCREASED USE OF WHEAT FOR FEED SUGGESTED

Advisory Group Will Get Report on French Plan.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—French experiments in diverting wheat from the dinner table to the feed trough are being offered to the world as possible means of closing the gap between its production and consumption.

How wheat is dyed blue to earmark it as food for animals while the extraction of flour from the remainder of the crop is arbitrarily reduced is described in a report completed today for submission to the International Wheat Advisory commission.

The report, which will be laid before the commission at a meeting in London beginning tomorrow, was drawn up by a subcommittee after investigations here. No recommendations are made as to the advisability of adopting the French methods.

Farmers Get Cash in Plan.

Feeding of wheat to live stock, which has been restricted in the United States because of the relatively high cost in competition with other feedstuffs, is possible in France because the government pays the farmers the difference between the feed value and the market price for wheat.

Twelve million bushels of French wheat have been set aside for denaturing for live stock feeding, principally to hogs. Medium grades of wheat, which form the lower grades suitable for breadmaking, are diverted to this use.

Various methods are employed to denature the wheat. The most common is to color it blue with a harmless dye, which prevents it going into flour without detection, while at the same time preserving its palatability for live stock, which presumably is not so particular about the hue of its provender.

Flour Output Restricted.

Restriction of flour production from undenatured wheat is fixed by government decree. French millers are not permitted to extract all the flour in the grain, but only up to within 11 kilograms [24.2 pounds] per hectoli-

REPORT RETAIL TRADE IN CHICAGO 20 TO 25% HIGHER THAN YR. AGO

Business of most of the larger retail merchants in Chicago last week was 20 to 25 per cent greater than that of the like week a year ago, the Chicago Association of Commerce reports. Improvement, though somewhat less pronounced, was also shown by neighborhood shops.

In the wholesale market buyers continued interested in ready-to-wear, furniture and household utilities. Prospects for general business improvement led two of Chicago's wholesalers to open new sales branches in nearby cities.

The local turnover is expected to be stimulated by the Chicago automobile show, the spring market opening style show sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce, and by other style and gift expositions to be staged in the next two weeks.

Collection agencies report more gratifying payments and rentals have risen slightly.

tre [2.8 bushels] of the maximum natural production weight. This arbitrary rule of thumb works thus:

French wheat averages 77 kilograms [roughly 169 pounds] a hectolitre. Millers may extract from such wheat only 66 kilograms [145 pounds]. Only 52 pounds of flour, therefore, may be milled from a bushel of wheat with a potential yield of 60 pounds.

Numerous difficulties, such as enforcement of the regulations and adjusting the differences between the price of flour and the cost of partially milled wheat, are to be considered, experts said, by any government undertaking such a scheme.

Shipments and Bookings of Furniture Rise in 1933

Gross orders booked by furniture manufacturers in 1933 were 19½ per cent larger than in 1932, and shipments exceeded those of the previous year by 13½ per cent, according to Seidman & Seidman, accountants. It was the first year since 1928, says the firm, to show improvement over the previous year.

Indianans Lead in Dillinger Extradition Fight—Motor Show Attendance Rivals Figures for Boom Years

AUTOMOBILE SHOW ATTENDANCE BEST SINCE BOOM DAYS; WOMEN CONSPICUOUS IN EARLY CROWDS. A view of some of the exhibits yesterday at the Coliseum where the National Automobile show is being held. Figures compiled yesterday showed that opening day attendance was 59 per cent above last year's and double that on opening day in 1932. Attendance was fairly heavy yesterday despite unfavorable weather. (Story on page 6.)

N. Y. CLUB ADOPTS A "CONTINENTAL CUSTOM" FOR ITS COCKTAIL HOUR. The continental custom of employing gigolos to act as hosts for women made its appearance in New York a few days ago when a prominent club chose this group to serve during cocktail hour. They are showing how they offer drinks to the ladies.
